January 6, 1915.

Hon. Charles H. Kline, Chairman,
Legislative Commission Investigating Cold Storage.
Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

Dear Sir:—

May we be permitted to submit for the consideration of your honorable Commission in connection with the investigation of the cold storage industry, the request that Act No. 153, now known and cited as the "Cold Storage Act of one thousand nine hundred thirteen", be changed so as to be known and cited as the "Refrigeration Act of one thousand nine hundred thirteen", in all instances where the term "cold storage" is used in the Act substituting therefor the word "refrigeration" or a derivative of same, which it is to be noted are already appropriately used in several instances in this Act. In support of this request, we advance the following:

1st. "Refrigeration" would, we believe, more aptly and correctly describe and designate the industry and such foods handled or cared for by the industry as come within the scope of the law.

2nd. "Refrigeration" is applied universally in all countries to conservation of food by any method of refrigeration, from the family refrigerator up, excepting in the case of warehouses in this country in which foods are kept, and those are inaccurately designated as Cold Storage Warehouses, instead of Refrigeration Warehouses.

3rd. The public looks with disfavor upon food products labeled "cold storage", although under our laws and modern methods of refrigeration they are entirely wholesome and palatable. By using the new and correct term "refrigeration" it will be possible to do full justice to food products so conserved without lessening one whit the protection given the consuming public under the provisions of this Act. Such a change in the termology would not benefit producers and dealers only, but the public as well, since the latter, viewing with disfavor cold storage products labled as such, frequently pays the same or higher prices for food suffs improperly kept outside of refrigeration, therefore not as good as those which pass through a properly supervised Refrigerator Warehouse.

After you have given thought to our request we believe you will see the reasonableness of it and co-operate in the matter of educating the public to the advantage of consuming those refrigerator food products by eliminating the words "cold storage" which constitute the barrier of public prejudice.

Respectfully yours,

(Signed) GEO. T. CHRIST
Vice President.

Session 1915 — 121st of the General Assembly

VOL. 3. HARRISBURG, PA., MONDAY, APRIL 5, 1915. No. 36.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

MONDAY, April 5th, 1915.

The House met at 8.00 o'clock P. M.

The SPEAKER (Charles A. Ambler) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. F. W. Staley, offered the following prayer.

Almighty and everlasting Father, we thank Thee for Thy amazing kindness in caring for us. Even the little child, as well as the mighty choir, sing "God will take care of you." And it is written that "the Angel of the Lord encampeth round about them that fear him," and that Master of death and resurrection said: "Lo I am with you alway, even unto the end of the world."

We thank Thee, O God, for Thy amazing condescendsion in reasoning with us. Thou dost say unto us: "Come now, let us reason together." Let us reason together about the great problems of a great State. Let us reason together about the soul, its nature, its immortality and its destiny. "What shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul?" May we ever listen to Thy arguments and heed Try word which shall not return unto Thee void. We ask for Christ's sake, Amen.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of the proceedings of Thursday, April 1st, 1915.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the proceedings of Thursday, April 1st, 1915, when, on motion of Mr. Oaks, the further reading was dispensed with and the Journal was approved.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

Mr. EHRHARDT asked and obtained leave of absence for Mr. Haggerty for the balance of the week on account of illness.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE.

Mr. GARNER. Mr. Speaker, I find on my desk here a great many hundred communications asking me to vote for the repeal of the Full Crew Law. Not a single man in all of these hundreds of communications comes from the county where I am in. Mr. Speaker, if they are going to save the finances of the railroads, it seems to me that instead of spending millions of dollars for postage stamps for letters that are never read, from people outside of your own district, that you do not know, they had better save it and buy those sixty thousand steel cars.

MOTION TO PLACE BILL ON CALENDAR.

Mr. CROMER. Mr. Speaker, I move that House Bill No. 1021, File Folio 4439, entitled:

An Act authorizing the attachment of ten per centum of wages or salary due defendants in judgments obtained for food clothing or other usual necessaries of life providing for the payment of the costs in such attachment proceedings and limiting the amount of exemption to be allowed defendants in such judgments be placed upon the calendar, notwithstanding the negative recommendation of the committee.

Mr. MURDOCH. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. CROMER. Mr. Speaker, this bill, if you will notice it, has a great deal of merit. It is endorsed by ninety-five per cent at least of the merchants of Pennsylvania. If the House will agree to this motion, I will then make another motion to have this bill referred back to the committee for further amendment, and I think it will be satisfactory to the retailers and all the others. This does not hurt an honest man, but it protects him and it certainly scares off the crook and the deadbeat and it is necessary legislation. If the House agrees to this motion I will then make another to have it referred back to the committee for amendment.

Mr. MAURER. Mr. Speaker, this is a Garnishee bill, a bill that has been before this House for the past twenty years and never passed,—the same measure that two Governors,—Governor Stuart and Governor Tener both vetoed. It is not a measure that will touch the deadbeat. The deadbeat is a deadbeat and you are not going to get him with any legislation of this kind, but it is a measure to put the workers perpetually in bondage. It talks about levying ten percent of the earnings of the workers at this time, when hundreds of thousands of them are out of work and hundreds of thousands more working short time, and the high cost of living going up. This is what you are going to hand these people at this time,—a garnishee. I hope you will not carry this motion to put this bill on the calendar in spite of the negative recommendation of the committee. The committee has had this bill and has given the merchants and others a hearing. It has deliberated upon the merits and demerits of the bill at some length, and the committee, after careful and due consideration, decided they would present the bill to you with a negative recommendation ;and I hope that this Assembly will agree in the recommendation. of the committee and not vote "aye" on this motion to put it on the calendar notwithstanding the negative recommendation of the committee.

Mr. CROMER. Mr. Speaker, I am surprised, greatly surprised, to see organized labor take a stand of this kind. All organized labor is not against this bill. I have spoken to a number of men, members of labor unions, who are in favor of this bill and who say that every honest man should be in favor of this bill. It will be amended so that I think even the labor organizations will be satisfied if it is put back in the committee.

Mr. MAURER. Mr. Speaker, it may interest the members to know that there has not been a convention of organized labor held anywhere within this State, or the greater part of the United States, within the past twenty years, that resolutions have not been adopted unanimously in opposition to garnishee bills. I am not going to say that there are not some individual members, who do not understand the full purpose that such a proposition may have, as stated by my friend from Allegheny, who favor such a bill, but organized labor at its various conventions for the past twenty years, have passed resolutions in opposition to garnishee bills.

I have been connected with the labor movements of Pennsylvania for thirty-four years and I know something about them. I hope, therefore, that you will not pass favorably upon this resolution.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Whereupon,

A division was called for, 56 gentlemen voting in the affirmative and 76 in the negative,

The motion was not agreed to.

BILL PLACED ON CALENDAR.

Mr. HOLLINGSWORTH moved that House Bill No. 868, entitled:

An Act to regulate the operation of motor vehicles for public use in the transportation of persons and the issuance of licenses therefor to prescribe the qualifications of the owners and drivers or operators thereof to define certain rights and duties and fixing penalties for the violation of this act and to provide revenue from the operation of such vehicles for the maiutenan e of streets and highways be placed upon the calendar notwithstanding the negative recommendation of the Committee on Public Roads.

The motion was agreed to.

Also the following:

VETO OF HOUSE BILL NO. 206.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, April 2, 1915.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen:—I return herewith without may approval House Bill No. 206 entitled "An Act making an appropriation for the payment of the expenses of publication of amendments to the Constitution for the three years beginning June first one thousand nine hundred and twelve and directing the Auditor General and the State Treasurer to cause the same to be paid."

This bill purports to adjust and settle and pay certain claims against the Commonwealth on a basis therein fixed. The bill makes an appropriation of a definite sum with which to conclude this transaction. I am informed by the Auditor General that these claims, if paid on the basis directed in this bill, will aggregate the sum of $91,760.65.

As only the sum of $46,040.80 is in this bill appropriated for that purpose the payment directed by the bill is incapable of accomplishment. In other words, the Auditor General is directed by the bill to perform an impossibility.

The fact of this discrepancy between the amount required to pay these claims and the amount herein appropriated appears to have arisen because of a misunderstanding between the claimants and the statements given by the office of the Auditor General as to the amount required to pay these claims. Each party in interest appears to have acted in good faith. The one had in mind the amount required to settle the claims for 1913 and 1914, the other had in mind the amount required to settle these claims for 1912, 1913 and 1914 as the provisions of this bill direct.

While I do not in any manner intend to approve or interfere with the method of adjustment and payment of claims under the jurisdiction of the Department of the Auditor General, neither do I intend by my disapproval of this bill to be understood as having disapproved these claims. In other words, I have no intention of being in any way judged as having given any opinion concerning them.

By submission of these claims at once to the Board of Public Accounts the end desired by the claimants may be speedily attained.

For these reasons this bill is not approved.

(Signed) MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH.

On the question,

Shall the bill become a law the objections of the Governor to the contrary notwithstanding?

Mr. HABGOOD. Mr. Speaker, you have listened to the message from His Excellency, the Governor, in connection with his disapproval—his veto of the bill to pay the expenses of publishing the constitutional amendments for 1912, 1913 and 1914 on the basis on which this House passed it by a goodly majority and the Senate passed it by a constitutional majority. This House voted into this bill provisions calling for the payment of those bills for 1912, 1913 and 1914 by a vote of 146 to 45, after vigorous opposition by the gentleman from South Philadelphia who fought the proposition as hard as he could in behalf of the Auditor General. We now listen to the communication from the Governor, also taking the part of the Auditor General in that he uses the words which the Auditor General uses. I wish to call the attention, Mr. Speaker, of the gentlemen of this House to a few facts in connection with this bill upon which we have just received a communication from the Governor this evening. I assure you that there is nothing in my mind or heart at this time containing a sentiment of resentment or any feeling of animus whatever, but I do want to make plain to the members of this House, and I wish to make clear some of the facts which will speak for themselves and to which I will ask your kind consideration in the hope that you will pay attention to it. On February 1st, over two months ago, the Chairman of the Appropriation Committee of this House asked the Auditor General, the official auditor of this Commonwealth, to give him a statement in his official capacity of the amount of money required to pay the bills for 1912, 1913 and 1914 for the advertising of the constitutional amendments. I have here in my hand a certified copy of the statement furnished to me by the Chairman of the Appropriations Committee, the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Woodward, and in this statement it particularly specifies that the 1912 bills as rendered are two hundred and three thousand dollars and the amount paid out on account of the appropriation for 1913 was a hundred and fifty-two thousand dollars, leaving a balance in the treasury of fifty-one thousand for 1912. It then stated for the 1913 bills, as rendered, the amount of that account, leaving a balance in that fund of thirty-five thousand dollars. With the 1914 bills, as rendered, the amount left or leaves the whole proposition for the three years the amount which has been paid and the amount which is still in the treasury then given the official information that it will require to pay these bills, as rendered, one hundred and forty-six thousand, forty dollars and eighty cents. One hundred thousand dollars of that was passed in the deficiency appropriation bill and approved by the Governor, and the forty-six thousand dollars as in this bill which the Governor has vetoed, this bill provided forty-six thousand dollars as an additional appropriation to pay the expenses of publishing the amendments for these three years and provided that this expense for these three years should be paid on the following basis and gave the basis upon which it was to be paid, and that was not on the basis of bills rendered, as this statement shows, but on the basis that is paid for any state advertising by the present auditor general or the two previous auditor generals. This was on February 1st and according to the proposition, as it appears in this bill as it is vetoed tonight, the Auditor General says that that statement is wrong. He took ninety-one thousand dollars instead of forty-six thousand dollars. You can see very plainly that this House and this Senate and the Chairman of the Appropriation Committee and that these newspapers from two to five in every county in this state which you represent and from two to five in every one of your counties, were done before they commenced. If that is the conclusion which we are to take in this matter that the Auditor General will make a statement to the Chairman of the Appropriation Committee which he says two months afterwards is false and, therefore, we were done before we commenced. This House, this Senate and these newspapers were then done. Now, gentlemen, we hear a great deal at this time about "playing cards on top of the table." I submit to you in all sincerity if that is "playing the cards on the top of the table" then the statement made to this House of Representatives and co-ordinate branch of this government that is not "laying the cards on the table." Whether or not the statement made to this House of Representatives a co-ordinate branch with the Governor, is any more to be believed than the statement made by this same officer to the Governor. Upon what basis shall we arrive at a conclusion in these matters. And I want to call your attention further to a few matters in connection with this. The first proposition that was put up to us in connection with this bill in the office of His Excellency, at which conference the Auditor General and the Attorney General were present on last Thursday morning, was that it would take ninety-one thousand dollars in addition to the amount available in the Treasury to pay these bills, and that there was not enough money with this appropriation and that in the treasury to pay these bills. During the interim between that conversation and four o'clock in the afternoon I went from His Excellency the Governor and went to the State Treasury Department, and I have here a certified copy of the balances in the State Treasury Department for '12, '13, and '14 and there is to-day in the State Treasury Department what was then and is there yet Seventeen thousand two hundred and seventy-two dollars for the bills of '12, Forty-four thousand two hundred and sixty-two dollars and fourteen cents for the bills of 1913 and 1914, and when we add that seventeen and that forty-four thousand to the amount which is in this bill or forty-six thousand dollars which has been vetoed you get the grand total of one hundred and seven thousand, five hundred and seventy-three dollars. When they claim that ninety-one thousand dollars is required to pay these bills and after that was shown plainly the question was raised whether these seventeen thousand dollars had reverted to the State, the Auditor General was shown very clearly that it does not revert and will not until May 31st of this year because the bill was not approved and passed until July 13, 1913 and it shows that there is this balance in the State Treasury of this State. The Third proposition. The question is raised by the Auditor General and given to the Governor on this basis that this appropriation of forty-six thousand dollars is the only money that can be used under the provisions of this bill to pay the advertisements for '12, '13 and '14 on the basis of the rate as provided in this bill, and what has been paid for other state advertisements.

Now, gentlemen, I submit to you that this appropriation of forty-six thousand dollars was an additional appropriation, and you who are attorneys in this House, know full well that when this appropriation was made for an additional appropriation that it carried with it the money to be added to what was already available for those advertisements to be paid for the expenses as provided in this bill—not this money but the expenses of those three years to be paid for upon the basis as provided in this bill, and not only the money in this bill to be paid for the expenses of '12, '13 and '14 but the expenses to be upon the basis as provided. This was an additional appropriation and I submit to you as attorneys and as Members of the House whether this would not naturally be added to what is in the Treasury to be used for the payment of those expenses upon that basis.

Now, gentlemen, I wish also to call your attention to this fact: As you well know there have been from twelve to twenty bills withdrawn from the desk of the Governor for the purpose of amendment and if it was a proposition of where the Attorney General had sent the wrong statement, as he admits, to the Chairman of the Appropriation Committee of this House, or as he claims, and he did not discover it for over two months after that, he should have notified the Chairman of the Appropriation Committee that his office had made such a blunder. When this bill was in the hands of the Governor on Tuesday two weeks ago to-morrow, a party of three of us waited on the Governor, and we asked him to give us the pen whereby he would sign this bill, and he said he would take it up the following week. We did not see him and we did not have an opportunity to consider this question with him until after the Senate had adjourned, and the House adjourned while we were having our conference. Now gentlemen of this House, there have been a score of bills withdrawn from the Governor for the purpose of amendment, and I submit to you whether it is fair and just to keep this bill in such shape whereby it cannot be withdrawn for amendment and then veto it because it only has half enough money in it to pay what it purports to pay, and I wish to say, gentlemen further than that that it is not a question in this proposition of the Mountain Laurel, that it is not a question in this bill of sentiment, it is a question, gentlemen of bread and butter for from three hundred to three hundred and fifty newspapers in this State and I appeal to you as members of the House, representing three to five of those newspapers in every one of your counties to stand upon the basis upon which you stood for the payment of this advertising. Gentlemen of the House, if the opponent of our present Governor had been elected to the Governorship of this State we would expect to have a condition as we have it today with regard to the Auditor General and his leadership in this matter. Now then ninety-nine per cent. of the men who have asked that these bill be paid notwithstanding the Auditor General's cuts, wanted our present Governor for Governor and did not want Vance McCormick for Governor, they came and they ask this House and this House passed the bill on that basis, and it went to the Senate and the Senate passed the bill on that basis, and it went to the Governor's table and he said that because there is only half enough appropriated, he will veto it, and he sends it back to this House with the proposition that we submit our bills to the board of Public Accounts to pay them, and that they may be adjusted. Why, gentlemen, do you know who the Board of Public Accounts is? I will tell you. There are three members on the board, and two of them consist of the Auditor General and the State Treasurer. I think that any lawyer would move for a change of venue under those circumstances, to have said bills adjusted, and if this forty-six thousand dollars is only half enough to pay as they claim for these bills then whenever this forty-six thousand dollars is wiped out, then in the name of argument in the name of logic, in the names of sense and common justice I ask you how the Board of Public Accounts or any other board is going to pay them if it is as it is stated. I cannot help but feel, gentlemen of this House that the Governor has been misinformed in this proposition, that the Auditor General has not told him the facts as they existed, and when he does not notify the men to whom he sent this statement, an official in a proper committee of a body co-ordinate with the Governor for over two months and then does not notify him but tells the Governor that he has made mistake and that it is wrong and that it should be vetoed on that account. Gentlemen of this House I ask you in all fairness, in all justice that you consider this measure carefully and that you vote "aye" on this question and that you stand by these newspapers and by the proposition approved by this House. Our distinguished Lieutenant Governor on January 19 when he was inaugurated to that office, said: "the words coercion and cooperation both begin with a 'c' and end with an 'n', but they have entirely different meanings." I desire to add one more statement to that and to say that the words 'sincerity' and 'sophistry' both begin with an 's' and end with a 'y' but they have an entirely different meaning. We see today an exhibition of that, which in conclusion, stands against those who would befriend and stand for and build up, and stands with those who last fall would have torn down and destroyed that which the others tried to build up. Gentlemen of this House I ask you to vote "aye" upon this question and to vote "aye" upon the question of the bill passing notwithstanding the veto.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill become a law, the objections of the Governor to the contrary notwithstanding?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the ayes and nays were taken.

The Clerk proceeded with and completed the calling of the roll.

Whereupon, Mr. HABGOOD, requested a verification.

Mr. WALTER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to know if there is to be a verification of the roll on the request of the gentleman from McKean.

The SPEAKER. The roll will be verified.

Mr. HABGOOD. Mr. Speaker, I wish to say, if there is any objection on the part of the House to taking up the time for this verification I do not wish to press it. I simply did it in the ordinary course as I noticed one or two of the gentlemen stated they did not hear their names called and so did not answer.

Upon the completion of the verification the Speaker announced the vote as follows:

Less than the majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the negative and the Governor's veto sustained.

Mr. HABGOOD. On account of having a slight interest in this bill, Mr. Speaker, with my newspaper I desire to be excused from voting.

Also the following:

VETO OF HOUSE BILL NO. 100.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, April 2, 1915.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen:—I return herewith, without my approval, House Bill No. 100, entitled "An Act validating certain sales of real estate heretofore made by guardians administrators and executors by decree of orphans' court."

This bill has a clear defect in that it attempts to validate sales made by guardians, administrators and executors under decree of the Orphans' Court, regardless of the fact that the Orphans' Court may not have had jurisdiction over the matter. If the Orphans' Court did not have jurisdiction it is questionable whether the Legislature could validate such sales.

For these reasons this bill is not approved.

On the question,

Shall the bill become a law, the objections of the Governor to the contrary notwithstanding?

Mr. GIBSON. Mr. Speaker, for the purpose of conserving the time of the House I make a motion that this veto message be laid upon the table.

NAYS—0.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative and the amendments were concurred in.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

QUESTION OF PRIVILEGE.

Mr. KUHN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask if there is not some way that we could have order. The gentlemen in the rear of the House cannot hear anything that is being said in front.

The SPEAKER. The Chair insists that better order must be preserved. It is impossible for the members in the back of the House to hear the Clerk. The Sergeant at Arms will notify the gentlemen in the rear of the House to cease their conversations, and he will also close the doors. This does not mean that we do not want people to come in, but simply that the doors are to be closed and kept closed.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 543, as follows:

An Act to amend an act approved the ninth day of June one thousand nine hundred eleven entitled "An Act to provide for the appointment of deputy prothonotaries in counties of this Commonwealth having a population of more than two hundred and fifty thousand and less than a million and defining their qualifications powers and salary"

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the first section of an act approved the ninth day of June one thousand nine hundred and eleven entitled "An Act to provide for the appointment of deputy prothonotaries in counties of this Commonwealth having a population of more than two hundred and fifty thousand and less than a million and defining their qualifications powers and salary" which reads as follows

"Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by authority of the same That from and after the passage of this act in counties having a population of more than two hundred and fifty thousand and less than one million the prothonotary shall appoint a person learned in the law as deputy prothonotary" is hereby amended to read as follows

NAYS—1.

Bovee,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

BILL ON THIRD READING (SPECIAL ORDER)

The SPEAKER. The hour of 9.30 having arrived the special order for that hour will be taken up.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1083 (Senate Bill No. 141), entitled:

An Act to regulate the practice of optometry in Pennsylvania defining optometry and relating to the right to practice optometry in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and making certain exceptions and providing a bureau of optometrical education examination and licensure as a bureau of the Department of Public Instruction and means and methods whereby the right to practice optometry may be obtained and providing for the means to carry out the provisions of this act and providing for revocation or suspension of licenses given by said bureau and providing penalties for violations thereof and repealing all acts or parts of acts inconsistent therewith

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, when a member here is sponsor of a bill he takes a certain pride in it whether the measure may be considered good or bad when it comes before this House for their consideration. Yet there are times when one must sacrifice pride on the line of duty in order that that duty may be carried out in the performance of the work that is before us. Therefore, gentlemen of the House, I wish to bring to your attention tonight the facts about Bill 251, the bill for which I am sponsor. After due consideration in the committee there came a bill from the Senate which had passed there by an almost unanimous vote of that body. The number of the Senate bill was 141 and knowing that that bill was identically the same as the bill for which I was sponsor then in committee I offered to substitute 141 for 251 in order that the members of this House might vote on that blil. I desire that you shall thoroughly understand the situation tonight, because I believe that no argument can be brought here tonight in behalf of this bill whether it be for or against it, that would change the opinion of any man upon it, because I believe that your minds are set tonight as to how to vote without any argument being submitted either for or against this bill. It is my privilege, however, to inform you that Senate Bill No. 141 is the regular Optometry Bill, the bill through which these men who have been knocking at the doors of this General Assembly for six years or more are asking recognition that they be given proper power to regulate their own business in this great Commonwealth, and they are knocking at the door of the halls of this Legislature appealing to you men of this great great Commonwealth to give them proper regulation of their business. I want to say to you, therefore, in conclusion that this is the bill that is before you tonight.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. Speaker, if I were to accept the statement made by Mr. Dunn that the minds of the members are made up in regard to this bill it would be useless to talk to the members of this House relative to it because it seems to me that if their minds were made up that argument would be of no avail. Much to my surprise this Optometric Bill came up before it was placed on Special Reading after the majority of the members had left for their homes last week, prior to adjournment. Mr. Dunn had the Optometric Bill that he claimed part ownership in and for which he was part sponsor to have that bill made a special order for tonight. I want to say to you before it comes to a vote, gentlemen, that I believe that many of the members are laboring under a misapprehension—that you suspect it to be a bill that will be called up tomorrow as a bill for the examining and licensure of Optometrists and an examination of that bill will show to the contrary. The question here tonight is whether it is advisable or not to pass a bill for the regulation in this State providing a Bureau of Optometrical Education Examination and Licensure.

That board, Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, is appointed by the Governor, that board has full supervision, and any man on that board misconducting himself is answerable to the Governor. And I submit to the consideration of the members of this House that no measure has ever come before you for your consideration that deserves more attention than this bill. Here is a bill that proposes that men who are actively engaged in optometry shall be examined without any responsibility attached by a board which is composed of men of ability and of learning. I ask you men, whether there is any one of the human senses that we are possessed of that reqires more care than the eye. The bill that will be called up tomorrow for final passage is a bill that recognizes reputable optometrists and makes provision that no man who has been actively engaged in the practice of optometry need undergo an examination. It is only for the purpose of preventing an imposition. Perhaps you gentlemen who come from the country districts recognize that better than I do, because you have seen the evil of incompetent men endeavoring to treat the eyes of your constituents. Gentlemen of the House give this bill your careful consideration and do not be led away by the vanity of any man who says that he takes pride in being the author of the bill. There has been criticism on the Daix bill because the Senate has passed it without due care and consideration and I ask you members of this House to scrutinize your acts well tonight because you are voting on one of the most important bills that you have ever been called upon for your judgment. I hesitate to criticise my friend from Philadelphia a man for whom I have always had the utmost respect, but I do say, gentlemen of this House, that his action on last Wednesday night was, to say the least, very unseemly, when he waited until the House was almost empty to make his bill a special order at half past nine tonight, when he knew that a bill along the same line was to be presented, the only difference being whether the Governor would appoint the Board, or whether these men who are so much interested in their bill would select their own men for the examination. I wish you gentlemen of this House to bear in mind this: that I think all of you, as I have been approached by optometrists who say that Bill 205 will legislate them out of business. It would do nothing of the kind, because any reputable optometrist who is now engaged in business for five years would not be affected. And I ask you gentlemen in all sincerity to give care and attention to your vote tonight and vote this bill down.

Mr. KITTS. Mr. Speaker, last Wednesday evening, when the bill referred to by my friend from Philadelphia Mr. McNichol, Bill 205, was almost ready for consideration, out of kindness for the gentleman from Philadelphia—the gentleman with whom I very seldom take a friendly issue—I went over and gave him a gentleman's notice that I intended to attack his bill. The next thing I heard was, that it was on the postponed calendar for Wednesday morning, and a short time after—a short time after the House Appropriation Committee had left, not necessarily thinning this House materially, then another motion was made. I think Mr. Speaker, this bill this evening No. 141 is properly in its place, and if the opponents of this bill have no other argument to offer then the argument that we have rather "slipped one over on them" in preceding this bill as a special order of business over theirs, I think then that is the very reason that we ought to pass this bill. It strikes me, sir, that there has been an undue influence working in the Medical Board of Licensure in the State of Pennsylvania to get in the control of other practitioners. Under control of medical examiners, every one of whom are men of M. D. qualifications, this other order of practitioners, they have been admitted to the practice of optometrics and optics and every one of them, while I hate, severely hate sir to make this statement, I say it in sincerity that I know that Dr. Baldy has made the assertion that the time was not far in the future when every one in that curriculum from the Doctor down to the optometrist would be brought under the jurisdiction of the Board of Medical Licensure. And I call the attention of the House, Sir, to one thing, a short time ago, there was circulated among the members upon their desks, however it may have been lost in the crush of the Full Crew Literature, a pamphlet which gave a decision emanating from one of the courts of the State of Pennsylvania in which an eminent Jurist declared that the Medical Board of Licensure of the State of Pennsylvania had no jurisdiction over optometry. Now then, Mr. Speaker, if this is the case if that is a concrete or abstract legal proposition, why should we deny these men who have set up their business in the State of Pennsylvania and have invested thousands upon thousands of dollars of capital in equipment, why should we deny those gentlemen what thirty-four states in the Union have granted them. Our sister states bordering upon the border lines of Pennsylvania have set up laws almost identical with this bill. I think the gentleman of the House, Mr. Speaker, will pardon me for taking their time, but this is the first time in the session of 1915 that I have arisen in my place to say one word either for or against any piece of legislation. The only time I said anything was on the adjournment resolution. I do feel this evening, Sir, that this House should study this bill carefully as my friend Mr. McNichol says and give consideration to this bill but I hope it will not be governed by the gentleman from Philadelphia and decide this bill as we would have them decide it. In as much as we are referring to this decision—the Courts have decided that the fitting of glasses is not in itself a medical act; that it brings with it the use of no drugs; that it requires in the fitting of glasses no particular skill in medicine or any particular skill in the handling of drugs. Then I ask you, Sir, in all fairness, why the optometrists of the State of Pennsylvania are not entitled to a square deal? Should we sit here in our chairs, Mr. Speaker, and give more attention to the passage of sundry laws than we do to the laws that give a square deal to a state of any one line. I have had some experience with occulists and I have had some experience with optometrists and I think I know whereof I speak. I can see no necessity Mr. Speaker, why this Legislature of 1915 shall place under the absolute control and jurisdiction of the Medical Board of Licensure, a set of men practicing under the name of optometrists when they have nothing to do with those things which pertain to medicine. It strikes me, Sir, and it strikes me forcibly, that a man who needs only a slight correction in the refraction of the rays of light or simply a little glass to assist him in reading should be required to go to an occulist and be charged a medical fee in addition to his prescription for having his lenses ground. Now, this has been my practical experience and I know it has been the experience of many members of this House that optometrists in a great many cases can give as good service to the public and fit eyes as well as those who hold out and practice with the sign "Occulist" over their door. I ask the gentleman of this House to vote "aye" on this bill. It is only a square deal for these men. Two years ago, on this very question, on the floor of this House we fought out the question of the osteopath. We finally gave them a separate Board. Now it has been remarked by some of the opponents of this bill that it is the Governor who appoints the Board of Medical Examiners and it would be the Governor who would appoint the Board of Optometrical Examiners, should we pass this bill. But, gentlemen, do not confuse these two ideas. While the Act of Assembly which created the Board of Medical Licensure stands upon the statute books unamended, or stands on the statute books even amended as Senate Bill No. 205 would amend it, it would always be the inherent duty of the Governor of Pennsylvania to appoint on that Board medical men to examine those whose qualifications require nothing but the mechanical practice of fitting glasses. It will be an absolute miscarriage of justice and I ask you to pass it.

Mr. CROMER. Mr. Speaker this question naturally arises in my mind; does the medical fraternity intend to allow us any measure of personal or civil liberty or do they intend in a short time to have use eat our meals by a card index system. Gentlemen of the House if you will indulge me for about two minutes, I will tell you exactly the difference between the occulist and the optometrist. What the optometrist proposes to do and what he does not propose to do, and I will be right to the point. Now, I will prove to your satisfaction in a very few minutes that this is simply a mechanical science and has no relation whatever to the medical fraternity any more than the carpenter or the joiner would have or any thing of that kind. Listen, here is what they do. Suppose that you have hyperopia which is farsightedness, a convex spherical lens is used. Now suppose that you have myopia, near sightedness, a concave spherical lens is used. Astigmatism either hyperopic or myopic is corrected by the use of a combination of spherical and cylindrical lenses. Last week I told you something about farming, I will tell you something about optometrics now. How do you know that any man has these things. The optometrists are able to determine these defects by an instrument known as the retinascope. This instrument is used for focusing correctly the light upon the retina of the eye, the muscles of accommodation being fogged by a strong convex lens. Now suppose you have esephoria which means that the eyes are slightly apart or exophoria which means that the eyes are slightly crossed or hyperphoria which means that one eye looks up and the other down, how will you correct that? Why simply with a prism, that is absolutely a mechanical operation. I have a slight touch of hyperopia. I get a pair of glasses for about two dollars and seventy-five cents and I save at least ten or fifteen dollars. If I went to an occulist my eyes would be measured and I would get the identical glasses I have now. Now, gentlemen, of the House optometry has no relation whatever to medical science therefore I hope you will give this your careful consideration in your voting.

Mr. PALMER. Mr. Speaker, notwithstanding the fact that the gentleman from Allegheny has filled this subject by his gentle fancy with undying humor, I propose to state this proposition to this House in another light. I agree with Mr. Kitts on the proposition that I am favor of giving the optometrists a square deal, but I go further with my proposition and I try to endeavor to give the people of Pennsylvania a square deal on this proposition. If the only question involved were whether the patient has myopia or hypermetropia, far-sightedness, or near-sightedness, when he goes into an optometrist's office then I would be satisfied with the argument of the gentleman from Allegheny, but the treatment of the eye is one of the auxiliaries of the medical profession. By the use of the omalth opthalmoscope a man looks into the background of the eye and there is indicated certain disease. Now the man goes into the optometrist's omce and it is found by the optometrist that this man has myopia or near-sightedness and he fits the lens to correct the vision; when, as a matter of fact, gentlemen, it takes a skilled man to know that that myopia may be due to a deep seated trouble. That myopia may be due to the beginning stages of diabetes, that may go into the very life of the subject who comes for treatment. Now the question, whether in myopia or whether in hypermetropia, if that were the only question which was involved in the treatment, then I say the argument of the gentleman from Allegheny would be good; but, as a matter of fact, it indicates or might, indicate a very serious trouble. They say when a man gets to a certain age that his eyes become weak, that his eyes become dim, due to the physical change in the eyeball. Well, if that physical change in the eyeball comes, then it must have a cause and no optometrist, unless he is qualified in diseases, can tell the man who is applying for treatment what that trouble is due to; and I say that he could innocently drive many a man to a stage wherein he will never recover and will die. The question of paying two dollars and seventy-five cents for a pair of glasses to the optometrist or paying a medical man twenty-five dollars for this treatment—why that question hardly enters into this matter when it is a question of a man's life. I say that before this House goes ahead, and, on the speeches that were here made, pass this bill I would suggest that we all become better informed and know what we are doing, know what we are about. It is a question of whether or not we ought not to get down to this proposition and then ask ourselves whether we are going ahead with legislation and monkeying with people's eyes when we don't know anything about it.

I submit to you that the McNichol bill, which comes up before this House tomorrow morning, is a fair proposition because it will take the applicants for the practce of optometry into the domain of these diseases and it makes them qualified that the public of Pennsylvania will be in safer hands.

Mr. CROMER. Mr. Speaker, I desire at this time to thank the gentleman from Philadelphia for stating that I was right as far as I went. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I went as far as any optometrist wants to go. When they want to go any further than that they will send the man to the oculist. I mentioned everything tonight that the optometrist will try. Anything harder he would send you to the oculist. The gentleman from Philadelphia stated that twenty-five dollars was a small sum for a man to spend. I want to say that to the man who earns two or three dollars a day that twenty-five dollars is quite a considerable sum and especially when he has a family to support.

Mr. PALMER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to correct the gentleman from Allegheny and inform him that I am not from Philadelphia. I have enough to answer for without being from Philadelphia.

Mr. CROMER. Mr. Speaker, I beg the gentleman's pardon. I really thought that he was a member from the effete and pampered East. I did not know he was from Schuylkill.

Mr. KUHN. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I want to say at this time that I agree with one thing that my good friend from Philadelphia, Mr. McNichol, said and that is the fact that we are today discussing a great question, that of the eye; but I cannot agree with the gentleman that the bill in which he is interested should pass this House. I want to say to you, gentlemen of this House, that I stand with the man who has gone out in his humble way and taken up the practice of optometry wherein he can give to the common people common ordinary practice. If you will take away from these optometrists this right and place the control of optometry in the hands of the medical profession you are placing in the hands of these men millions of dollars each year that justly and rightly belongs to this other class or citizens.

And I want to go further, gentlemen of the House, and say that ninety per cent. of the practitioners of this country are not in any way proficient to practice this treatment of the eye as claimed by the gentleman. I want to say to you, gentlemen, give the common man a chance; give the common boy a chance that he may go forth and have an opportunity in this world the same as the medical profession. I want to say that the medical profession today is wanting to scoop up the earth and, if they could get it, a little potato patch on the moon. I want to ask you gentlemen in all sincerity and in everything that is fair and right and just and equitable to vote for this measure, No. 141.

Mr. MEARKLE. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, as a member of the Public Health and Sanitation Committee I made some study of this proposition. I have considerable timidity about discussing it, however; but I have been sitting here listening to the speeches that were made and have been wondering whether I understood the proposition or not. The gentleman that just preceded me lead me to believe that it was the purpose of Bill No. 205, which my friend, Mr. McNichol, is fathering that it was the purpose of that bill to exterminate the optometrists. Now, I do not understand that at all. As I understand it, there are two bills before this House; one, the Senate Bill No. 141; and one, the House Bill No. 205; and as I understand it—I stand to be corrected—they are identically the same with one exception and that seems to be where the fight is. Bill No. 205 provides that the Board of Examiners shall consist of optometrists appointed by the Bureau of Medical Education and Licensure. The bill under discussion at this present time states that the Board of Examiners shall consist of optometrists appointed by the Governor. Outside of that the two bills are identically the same, and it is not the purpose of Bill No. 205 to put the optometrists out of business, because I am a friend of the optometrists. Now that is the distinction. In the one the Board is appointed by the Governor and other the Board is appointed by the Bureau of Medical Education and Licensure, and what is the purpose of the Bureau of Medical Education and Licensure if not to supervise and have under their control propositions of this kind.

Mr. STEEDLE. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I had no intention of saying anything in reference to this bill but to sit idly by and be attacked as a member of the medical profession by the good gentleman from Greene, Mr. Kuhn, when he tries to inform this House that not ten per cent., to his mind, are able or capable of examining the eye:—I would like to inform that gentleman and every other member of this House that every boy or man or lady that graduates from any school in the State of Pennsylvania is competent to examine the eye from the optometrical standpoint and a great deal deeper, if you please. I dare say that I could take any one of the two hundred and seven members of this house, give them a trial lens, take one man for a practical demonstration and in ten minutes or one half an hour educate him sufficiently to have the subject tell him whether his eyes are or are not what the oculists calls myopia or hypermetropia. The gentleman from Allegheny, in his reference, in so far as optometry goes, reminds me of a little incident. I once heard a man say that life was like a menu card. A gentleman then asked him why and he said, because there are so many that get no farther than the soup; and I feel that way about my friend from Allegheny. He would have this House believe that he knows optometry from its very alpha to its omega. That he would have you believe, and possibly he has given it some consideration and possibly not—only knows what somebody has told him.

Again, we have the man here who trys to tell you men that the medical fraternity would gobble up everything in their clutches if in their power to do so.

Let us just stop for a moment and see where comes this radiation of Optometry. Did it originate from the Board of Medical Licensure, or did it originate from within the scope of the people who practice Optometry? I remember distinctly in the session of 1913, and all the other members who were here at that session will remember, that Mr. Allen, from Allegheny, introduced a like measure only with a somewhat broader scope attached thereto. That bill was defeated on the ground that they wanted to call themselves Doctors of Optometry, and the House at that session did the State of Pennsylvania a grand act in not passing such a measure. The medical fraternity never wanted them, or tried to grab these men until they came in and asked for their own Board and asked the State to legalize a lot of fakers. That is what they are. They started in as nothing, and now there are a hundred of them and they want the State to legalize them.

The medical fraternity does not object to these men practicing Optometry. They can practice from now until doomsday for all they care; they never once asked them to come in and don't want to put a ban on them. There are a few within their own circle selfish enough to steal all they have now and grasp more. Why don't they want to be taken under the guidance of the Board of Medical Education and Licensure? Is it selfish, as the gentleman from Erie would have you believe? No, they do not want to be selfish with them, but there have been other members in this House who saw the wisdom of protecting the people of this Commonwealth and the people that are going to come after them, that anything that pertains to the medical line shall come under the one great head, and this is a portion of the medical profession to an extent. Of course, they say that it is only a mechanical means, but how many of these men stop at the mechanical part in the examination of an eye. They will take a chance, and that I can prove. I can prove to the satisfaction of the members of this House that I know of a case in my home town where a little girl went to one of these men to have her eyes examined, who was supposed to be suffering with an optical lesion of some kind. Did he go into the family history and ascertain whether there was anything fundamentally wrong with that child? No, but he measured that girl with a pair of glasses. What was the result? That that pathological condition went on from bad to worse, which was afterward proven to be nothing more than an inherited syphllis, and yet that poor child was on the alter of sacrifice and that poor man had to pay his money for those glasses An then they say we are trying to steal all that is in it, or that we would even try to put a potato patch upon the moon.

No, God forbid, the medical profession is not built that way, as the gentleman from Greene would have you believe. No other profession in the world does as much charity as the medical fraternity. There is not a man who is called to see anybody at night, or at daybreak, or in the day, who won't go if he knows it is just. He does not stop to say have you a dollar and a half, or have you two dollars, or have you five dollars. He will go, and then they say we are unkind, in other words that we are practically robbers. We never stole, and do not intend to steal, but I think, like my friend from Philadelphia, Mr. McNichol, and like other members of this House, that there should be a check on this Optometry as to their length and breadth, or how far they may go. The State of New York they will say, has got an Optometry Board. Of course they have. We agree with them But who controls that Optometry Board? The Board of Regents of the State of New York. They know how far they can go and if there is any violation of their laws, they recall them. But here they don't want anybody to check them. They want to go right in and take everything and do as they please and nobody shall say whether they are doing right or wrong. Now, gentlemen, I hope and trust that this House will see in its wisdom to defeat this bill.

Mr. LEIGHNER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Steedle, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. STEEDLE. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. LEIGHNER. Mr. Speaker, did I understand the gentleman to say that the Optometry bill was offered here before the Medical bill was introduced?

Mr. STEEDLE. This session or last session.

Mr. LEIGHNER. This session I am speaking about.

Mr. STEEDLE. Mr. Speaker, this session I cannot say as to whether the McNichol bill was first introduced, or whether the Daix bill, whether the Dunn bill was first introduced. My remarks, Mr. Speaker, in reference thereto were for the purpose of trying to make plain to the members now that the Optometrists were the first to come into the State and ask for this Board, and that the medical profession never once tried to eradicate them, or to prevent them from doing business.

Mr. LEIGHNER. Mr. Speaker, he made the statement, or so I understood, and I do not want to have it wrong, he made the statement that the Optometrists came in here and ask a bill, and the medical men were doing this to offset it. Now, their bill was offered one week before the Optometrists' bill was offered. Their bill was introduced on the second of February and the Optometrists' bill came on the eighth.

Mr. STEEDLE. I tried to make it plain to the gentlemen that they were the first to come here and ask for a Board. But by that I meant in the session of 1913. As to this session, I do not know whether the Daix bill was introduced first, or the Dunn bill or the McNichol bill.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Mr. GEISER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up House Bill No. 41, Folio 19, page 17 of to-day's calendar, Bills on Third Reading Postponed.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 41, entitled:

An Act prohibiting certain institutions receiving State aid and from restricting pay patients in the selection of physicians and surgeons not connected with the institution

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. GEISER. Mr. Speaker, this bill is known as the "Pure Hospital Bill." I may call it a remedy for a long standing abuse in this Commonwealth and I will be brief in my remarks and say that the United States of America believes in the "Open Door" in China but all these years the people of Pennsylvania have had closed to them the doors of the medical institutions of this State. What I ask for in this bill I am standing up for in behalf of my own personal rights. I want to compel every hospital that receives State money to permit me, if I am taken there, to choose my own physician and surgeon. This bill was introduced early in the session. There was some opposition to it although I knew not from whence it came. I offered this bill in good faith and had it recommitted, myself, and I had it in committee fully six weeks and it was not amended and the committee sent it out without it being amended.

Mr. GARNER. Mr. Speaker, if this act goes through it is going to demoralize every hospital in the State of Pennsylvania. For the sake of one dollar a day they are going to demand from that hospital in their own hours the right to use the nurses and the instruments there and it is going to turn every hospital in the State up-side-down. The bill is not right.

Mr. FORSTER. Mr. Speaker, when this bill was called to my attention I was amazed that such a state of affairs could possibly exist in any medical institution in our State whether it was receiving State aid or not. To my mind it is a most extraordinary state of affairs; that when I am going into a hospital, pay their price, pay my way, that I cannot have my own doctor. It seems to me if anything is just and a man is willing to pay the hospital's charge he should be allowed to employ whatever surgeon or physician he sees fit to employ The idea of saying that this bill will demoralize the whole staff of any hospital when we are coming in there and using their instruments and nurses." What little experience I have had in hospitals I have found that I paid pretty well for the use of that hospital and staff. When I am doing that there is absolutely no reason in right or justice why I cannot employ my own family physician when I wish to do so.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WEAVER. Mr. Speaker, when this bill was originally before the House it related to counties having a population of five hundred thousand. I see by reference to the bill, as it now appears, that it has been amended to include all counties having a population of one hundred thousand. The objections to this kind of law is that it makes our system of procedure all the more complicated in small counties where things of this kind are not necessary and where people are put to a great deal more trouble to keep track of legal sales.

Now, I am aware that the Court can dispense with a notice of this kind but in order to dispense with that notice the court must in every single case specially make an order dispensing with this extra publication. In most counties a single publication in one newspaper is all that is necessary and if this act be passed then it will amount to this: that every single publication that is made will have to be made in one newspaper at least and in this legal publication, whatever it may be. In our county we have a law journal, what is called a law journal. The Judge of the Orphans' Court made publication in this law journal necessary but the Judges of the Courts of Common Pleas absolutely refused to do anything of that kind. Now if this act be passed it will include our county, a county having two hundred and thirty-one thousand three hundred and four inhabitants and if we desire to escape the necessity of making this publication it will be necessary for us in every particular case to get an order from the court relieving us from the necessity of this publication; and what I say of our county is equally true, perhaps, of a dozen or more of other counties. Therefore I think that the bill in its amended form ought not to be passed; and we must now lose sight of the fact that it is a great expense. That is a feature of which I have not spoken on this bill and that is a feature that is a great hardship to the people in many instances who are not able to stand the expenses involved. Now we have heard something of the expense of publication tonight and have heard it before and it is putting an additional expense on the people to absolutely no purpose and therefore I hope that the gentlemen of this House will spare us the necessity of undergoing this expense. If the gentleman will put the bill back to where the bill originally was we have no objection.

Mr. FLYNN in the Chair.

Mr. KITTS. Mr. Speaker, in the County of Erie there has been a great demand during the past few years for a legal journal. They have such a publication in Philadelphia and also in Pittsburgh and some of the larger counties. The Bar Association of the County of Erie unanimously passed a resolution that some one interested might produce or publish such a journal wherein might be given the news of the court, the judicial proceedings and such other things worthy of note as the bar and laity might desire to read. Upon examining the law I found that the original law left the minimum population at five hundred thousand. Now this bill has not been amended since it has been before the House excepting in the spelling of a word. Mr. Speaker, the bill provides that counties having a population of one hundred thousand may, under special rules of court, as I understand the bill, publish a legal journal or a legal paper. It is not compulsory; It is not mandatory; but leaves it discretionary with the court; and in any counties in which there is no demand for a paper of this kind it is not at all necessary that the same should be printed; but our county being of such a population and not being taken in under the old act, it became necessary in order to set up this paper in our county to have the bill amended. If you will examine the bill you will notice that the bill in its orignal form was changed so as to take in counties of one hundred thousand. The word "may" is used in the bill and not "shall"; and in addition the court has power and authority to make such rules and regulations as are best in the different counties. I cannot see that it puts any burden on anybody, and the reason the bill was amended when it came out on the floor was merely to correct the spelling of the word. It has not changed the original and I would ask the House to pass the bill. If there is any trouble I give you the agreement that we can meet the objections in the Senate. You will notice that the bill is on final passage and the Chair had called it up for action. Had I realized when in the Chair that any trouble would be raised on the bill I would have passed it by for the time being, but if there is any objections to the bill, if the House will pass it we can have them taken care of in the other branch.

POINT OF ORDER.

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point of order.

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, we have passed a number of bills previous to this that dealt with the classification of counties. We have a lot more of this kind to follow and for that reason I state this point. If you will read the Constitution you will see that by Article 14, Section 5, that the counties of this State shall be classified into two classes, those having a population of over one hundred and fifty thousand and those having a population of less than one hundred and fifty thousand. I am not raising this point on this particular bill, I want the gentlemen to understand, but for future reference I would like to have that point decided now.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Armstrong, Mr. Milliron, having raised a constitutional point of order, the Chair submits the same to the decision of the House.

On the question,

Will the House sustain the point of order?

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, can this be discussed at this time?

The SPEAKER. A discussion of the point of order is proper at this time.

Mr. MILLIRON. The reason I have raised this point of order at this time is that there are a great many of these bills that come before the House that we do not know whether they are constitutional or not. We have for example the county salary bill coming up here and I think it is mighty important for this House to say now whether we are going to pass bills contrary to the Constitution of this State and put them up to the Governor and say to him that we do not know ourselves whether they are constitutional or not, or whether we are going to go along and pass other bills haphazard. I trust that this House will sustain this point of order.

Mr. SPANGLER. Mr. Speaker, before we decide the question of the constitutionality of classification, it seems to me it would be well to have some authorities on the question cited. In connection with the bill that I have, which is not before the House at the present time, in connection with a bill in which I am interested, which has not as yet been up for consideration, the question of classification has been gone into very thoroughly by me and I will be very glad to say to the gentlemen that there are a great many authorities on this subject, and the authorities on the subject of county classifications have changed very materially within recent years. The question of necessity enters into the question as to whether or not classification is legal. The question as to whether or not there is an intent to pass special legislation under the guise of general legislation enters into the question of whether or not the classification of counties under one hundred and fifty thousand is constitutional.

In the past we have passed county classification laws which, if they were declared unconstitutional at the present time, would practically dislocate the affairs of many of our counties in this State. For instance, I might cite the district attorneys' act, classifying district attorneys for counties from ten thousand to one hundred and fifty thousand. I might classify the county controller act, which classifies county controllers in counties between one hundred thousand and one hundred and fifty thousand and I could go on an enumerate quite a number of other instances where the classification has taken place, and I can also cite other cases where classification has taken place and has been sustained by the Supreme Court of this State.

At a recent meeting on the Compensation bill, before the Judiciary General Committee, Attorney General Brown made the statement that the classification of counties has been practically wiped out by the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania. Now, it seems to me, Mr. Speaker, before we decide this grave question of constitutionality, we should wait until some one has an opportunity to submit the authorities.

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, I am not an attorney, and I am not an authority on the subject, but we had a case in our county where the constitutionality of the law ergulating sheriff's fees was brought to the attention of our court,—before the Butler County court, and it was decided that it was unconstitutional, and in connection with that brief, which was filed there, and which I can produce to the House here in two days, it cites at least ten other divisions of the local courts and of the Supreme Court upholding the Constitution, and saying we cannot classify counties in more than two classes.

Now, we have a bill here, coming before us, to classify the counties in six or eight classes, and it is very important, to my mind, that this matter be settled. I am not anxious to rush it through. If there is no authority in the House on tha subject, I am willing to hold it over for two days and we will bring you all the briefs and all the decisions from every court in this State, and we will show you that we cannot go back of the Constitution of the State of Pennsylvania and pass laws haphazard.

The SPEAKER. Does the gentleman from Armstrong withdraw the point of order raised, pending a motion to postpone the bill?

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, I will withdraw it at this time and present it again.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Erie, Mr. Kitts.

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. KITTS. Mr. Speaker, I move that the further consideration of this bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. ALEXANDER. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

So guide us that we may live to our highest capacities in our own personal lives as well as in our relations to our fellowmen. MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH.

VETO OF SENATE BILL NO. 46.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, March 31, 1915.

To the Honorable, the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen:—I return herewith without my approval Senate Bill No. 46, entitled "An Act authorizing the district attorneys of certain counties to appoint a secretary prescribing the duties fixing the salary and providing for payment of the same."

This bill proposes to create an additional officer in the office of the District Attorney of Allegheny county. Inasmuch as Senate Bill No. 47, which I have approved makes provision for additional officers in this department of the county's service I do not deem it expedient at this time to add this additional expense upon the taxpayers of the county.

For these reasons the bill is not approved.

MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass, the objections of the Governor to the contrary notwithstanding?

Mr. KLINE. Mr. President, I move that the question, together with the further consideration of this bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. SALUS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

VETO OF SENATE BILL NO. 237.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, March 31, 1915.

To the Honorable, the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen:—I return herewith without my approval Senate Bill No. 237, entitled "An Act relating to the admission of attorneys-at-law to the Supreme and Superior Courts."

The admission of an attorney to practice before a Court is a judicial act.

The intent of this act is to compel the Appellate Courts to accept the judicial act of a lower court. This is clearly in contravention of our whole judicial procedure and is unconstitutional.

For these reasons the bill is not approved.

MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass, the objections of the Governor to the contrary notwithstanding?

Mr. KURTZ. Mr. President, I move that the question, together with the further consideration of this bill, be postponed for the present.

Mr. BURKE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

VETO OF SENATE BILL NO. 247.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Executive Chamber, Harrisburg, April 2, 1915.

To the Honorable, the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

Gentlemen:—I return herewith without my approval Senate Bill No. 247, entitled "A Joint Resolution authorizing the printing and binding of the report of the Commission to consider the Revision and Amendment of the Penal Laws of Pennsylvania."

This bill is identical in its provisions with House Bill No. 410, which does not require Executive action before April 10, 1915.

Inasmuch as this bill does not define any limit of cost in publication, I cannot approve it in its present form. If, as I suggest, House Bill No. 410 is recalled and properly amended the bill would have favorable attention.

For these reasons this bill is not approved.

MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass, the objections of the Governor to the contrary notwithstanding?

Mr. KLINE. Mr. President, I move that the question, together with the further consideration of this bill, be postponed for the present.

Mr. KURTZ. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, this bill provides for the repeal of the Act of 1901, which was an act allowing an exception to the extent of twenty-five per cent. on road taxes where the people used broad tires. This act has been in force for fourteen years and has not worked out satisfactorily. In the county which I represent, at a meeting of the supervisors of that county, there was a resolution passed unanimously requesting the repeal of this act. I understand that there have been similar requests from various other counties of the State where the supervisors have met in such sessions. This act, as I say, has been tried and found not to work out satisfactorily, and I believe that it is the sentiment of the country districts of this State that the act should be repealed. I know of one township wherein this act was taken advantage of to such an extent that the township lost in road taxes to the extent of five hundred dollars, in one township alone, and I am thoroughly convinced that the act is not a success and I hope the bill will pass and that the act will be repealed.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE.

Mr. GRAFF. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. GRAFF. Mr. President, some weeks ago a bill was introduced into this House in reference to the hard coal miners of this State. It was referred to the Committee on Mines and Mining and has been given a great deal of attention and consideration by this Committee. On last Wednesday a bill similar to this was introduced with a request to the Chair that the same be referred to the Committee on Elections. As I understand it, this courtesy is granted by the Chair, and there is no fixed rule that requires the Chair to assign any bill to any particular committee. This is entirely in the hands of the Chair, and this courtesy is extended, when a member of this House requests it. This bill was referred to the Committee on Elections, and although I am a member of the Committee on Elections, I knew of no action having been taken, but I understand that the bill was taken around among the members and immediately reported out. The chairman of the Mines and Mining Committee immediately detecting that it was a similar bill to the one that was before that committee, objected to having this bill read for the first time. A motion was then made to adjourn. This motion was lost, and the motion was then made by the Chairman of this committee that this bill be referred to the Committee on Mines and Mining, where it properly belonged. This committee now has this bill in its hands. I have been taught by the modern Gamaliel of this body that it is a discourtesy on the part of any member of this House to make a motion, which is a regular proceeding as I understand it in this body, to have a committee discharged from further consideration of a certain bill, when this bill is to be brought out on the floor of the House. But this subterfuge seems to have been taken to bring this bill out to the discourtesy of the Chairman of the Mines and Mining Committee. This question was fought out upon the floor of this House and it was carried by the narrow majority of one. Immediately the papers took up the question and placed this majority in the position of being opposed to the miners receiving what they considered a just and real position for their bill. I had no doubt of the sincerity and honesty of this Mines and Mining Committee, nor do I do this day. I believe that the deliberations have been honest and that the code that required two years to get up can not be passed over lightly in a few weeks; therefore, the position as taken by this committee was such as to bring about the honest consideration of this bill. As I am informed a conclusion has been arrived at and this bill will be reported out and we who stood for fair play and honest dealing do not want to be put in the position of being opposed to any bill to put the miners in the position where they belong. It is the duty of the Senate, as well as the House to pass a workman's compensation bill, and it is not the desire of any member of the House or of this Senate to place any citizens of this State from coming under the workman's compensation act where they properly belong unless exempted in the body of the bill itself. Therefore, Mr. President, I make this statement in justice to those of us who voted as we did so that we may not be placed in a position that might call upon us criticism from the miners of this State.

Rule 2 Where there is a contract to sell specific goods and the seller is bound to do something to the goods for the purpose of putting them into a deliverable state the property does not pass until such thing be done

Rule 3 First when goods are delivered to the buyer "on sale or return" or on other terms indicating an intention to make a present sale but to give the buyer an option to return the goods instead of paying the price the property passes to the buyer on delivery but he may revest the property in the seller by returning or tendering the goods within the time fixed in the contract or if no time has been fixed within a reasonable time

Rule 4 Where there is a contract to sell unascertained or future goods by description and goods of that description and in a deliverable state are unconditionally appropriated to the contract either by the seller with the assent of the buyer or by the buyer with the assent of the seller the property in the goods thereupon passes to the buyer Such assent may be expressed or implied and may be given either before or after the appropriation is made

Second Where in pursuance of a contract to sell the seller delivers the goods to the buyer or to a carrier or other bailee (whether named by the buyer or not) for the purpose of transmission to do holding for the buyer he is presumed to have unconditionally appropriated the goods to the contract except in the case provided for in the next rule and in section twenty This presumption is applicable although by the terms of the contract the buyer is to pay the price before receiving delivery of the goods and the goods are marked with the words Collect on Delivery or their equivalents

Rule 5 If the contract to sell requires the seller to deliver the goods to the buyer or at a particular place or to pay the freight or cost of transportation to the buyer or to a particular place the property does not pass until the goods have been delivered to the buyer or reached the place agreed upon

Section 20 First Where there is a contract to sell specific goods or where goods are subsequently appropriated to the contract the seller may by the terms of the contract or appropriation reserve the right of possession or property in the goods until certain conditions have been fulfilled The right of possession or property may be thus reserved notwithstanding the delivery of the goods to the buyer or to a carrier or other bailee for the purpose of transmission to the buyer

Second Where goods are shipped and by the bill of lading the goods are deliverable to the seller or his agent or to the order of the seller or his agent the seller thereby reserves the property in the goods But if except for the form of the bill of lading the property would have passed to the buyer on shipment of the goods the seller's property in the goods so shipped and delivered shall be deemed to be only for the purpose of securing performance by the buyer of his obligations under the contract

Third Where goods are shipped and by the bill of lading the goods are deliverable to the order of the buyer or of his agent but possession of the bill of lading is retained by the seller or his agent the seller thereby reserves a right to the possession of the goods as against the buyer

Fourth Where the seller of goods draws on the buyer for the price and transmits the bill of exchange and a negotiable bill of lading together to the buyer to secure acceptance or payment of the bill of exchange the buyer is bound to return the bill of lading if he does not honor the bill of exchange and if he wrongfully retains the bill of lading he acquires no added right thereby If however the bill of lading provides that the goods are deliverable to the buyer or to the order of the buyer or is endorsed in blank or to the buyer by the person to whose order the bill of lading is drawn one who purchases in good faith for value the bill of lading or goods from the buyer will obtain the property in the goods although the bill of exchange has not been honored provided that such purchaser has received delivery of the bill of lading indorsed by the consignee named therein or of the goods without notice of the facts making the transfer wrongful but delivery to the endorsee of the bill of lading shall discharge the carrier from all resposibility for the goods

Section 21 In the case of a sale by auction

First Where goods are put up for sale by auction in lots each lot is the subject of a separate contract of sale

Second A sale by auction is complete when the auctioneer announces its completion by the fall of the hammer or in other customary manner Until such announcement is made any bidder may retract his bid and the auctioneer may withdraw goods from sale unless the auction has been announced to be without reserve

Third A right to bid may be reserved expressly by or on behalf of the seller

Fourth Where notice has not been given that a sale by auction is subject to a right to bid on behalf of the seller it shall not be lawful for the seller to bid himself or to employ or induce any person to bid at such sale on his behalf or for the auctioneer to employ or induce any person to bid at such sale on behalf of the seller or knowingly to take any bid from the seller or any person employed by him Any sale contravening this rule may be treated as fraudulent by the buyer

Section 22 Unless otherwise agreed the goods remain at the seller's risk until the property therein is transferred to the buyer but when the property therein is transfrred to the buyer the goods are at the buyer's risk whether delivery has been made or not except that

(a) Where delivery of the goods has been made to the buyer or to a bailee for the buyer in pursuance of the contract and the property in the goods has been retained by the seller merely to secure the performance by the buyer of his obligations under the contract the goods are at the buyer's risk from the time of such delivery

Section 42 Unless otherwise agreed delivery of the goods and payment of the price are concurrent conditions that is to say the seller must be ready and willing to give possession of the goods to the buyer in exchange for the price and the buyer must be ready and willing to pay the price in exchange for possession of the goods

Section 43 First Whether it is for the buyer to take possession of the goods or for the seller to send them to the buyer is a question depending in each case on the contract express or implied between the parties Apart from any such contract express or implied or usage of trade to the contrary the place of delivery is the seller's place of business if he have one and if not his residence but in case of a contract to sell or a sale of specifis goods which to the knowledge of the parties when the contract or the sale was made were in some other place then that place is the place of delivery

Second Where by a contract to sell or a sale the seller is bound to send the goods to the buyer but no time for sending them is fixed the seller is bound to send them within a reasonable time

Third Where the goods at the time of the sale are in the possession of a third person the seller has not fulfilled his obligation to deliver to the buyer unless and until such third person acknowledges to the buyer that he holds the goods on the buyer's behalf but as against all others than the seller the buyer shall be regarded as having received delivery from the time when such third person first has notice of the sale Nothing is this section however shall affect the operation of the issue or transfer of any document or of title to goods

Section 45 First Unless otherwise agreed or it is to be implied from the nature of the contract the buyer of goods is not bound to accept delivery thereof by installments

Second Where there is a contract to sell goods to be delivered by stated installments which are to be separately paid for and the seller makes defective deliveries in respect of one or more installments or the buyer neglects or refuses to take delivery of or pay for one or more installments it depends in each case on the terms of the contract and the circumstances of the case whether the breach of contract is so material as to justify the injured party in refusing to proceed further and suing for damages for breach of the entire contract or whether the breach is severable giving rise to a claim for compensation but not to a right to treat the whole contract as broken

Section 46 First Where in pursuance of a contract to sell or a sale the seller is authorized or required to send the goods to the buyer delivery of the goods to the carrier whether named by the buyer or not for the purpose of transmission to the buyer is deemed to be a delivery of the goods to the buyer except in the case provided for in section nineteen rule five or unless a contrary intent appears

Two Unless otherwise authorized by the buyer the seller must make such contract with the carrier on behalf of the buyer as may be reasonable having regard to the nature of the goods and the other circumstances of the case If the seller omit so to do and the goods are lost or damaged in course of transit the buyer may decline to treat the delivery to the carrier as a delivery to himself or may hold the seller responsible in damages

Three Unless otherwise agreed where goods are sent by the seller to the buyer under circumstances in which the seller knows or ought to know that it is usual to insure the seller must give notice to the buyer as may enable him to insure them during their transit and if the seller fails to do so the goods shall be deemed to be at his risk during such transit

Section 47 Where goods are delivered to the buyer which he has not previously examined he is not deemed to have accepted them unless and until he has had a reasonable opportunity of examining them for the purpose of ascertaining whether they are in conformity with the contract

Second Unless otherwise agreed when the seller tenders delivery of goods to the buyer he is bound on request to afford the buyer a reasonable opportunity of examining the goods for the purpose of ascertaining whether they are in conformity with the contract

Third Where goods are delivered to a carrier by the seller in accordance with an order from or agreement with the buyer upon the terms that the goods shall not be delivered by the carrier to the buyer until he has paid the price whether such terms are indicated by marking the goods with the words collect on delivery or otherwise the buyer is not entitled to examine the goods before payment of the price in the absence of agreement and proper written authority to the carrier permitting such examination

Section 48 The buyer is deemed to have accepted the goods when he intimates to the seller that he has accepted them or when the goods have been delivered to him and he does any act in relation to them which is inconsistent with the ownership of the seller or when after the lapse of a reasonable time he retains the goods without intimating to the seller that he has rejected them

Section 49 In the absence of express or implied agreement of the parties acceptance of the goods by the buyer shall not discharge the seller from liability in damages or other legal remedy for breach of any promise or warranty in the contract to sell or the sale But if after acceptance of the goods the buyer fail to give notice to the seller of the breach of any promise or warranty within a reasonable time after the buyer knows or ought to know of such breach the seller shall not be liable therefor

Section 50 Unless otherwise agreed where goods are delivered to the buyer and he refuses to accept them having the right so to do he is not bound to return them to the seller but it is sufficient to if he notifies the seller that he refuses to accept them

Section 51 When the seller is ready and willing to deliver the goods and requests the buyer to take delivery and the buyer does not within a reasonable time after such request take delivery of the goods he is liable to the seller for any loss occasioned by his neglect or refusal to take delivery and also for a reasonable charge for the care and custody of the goods If the neglect or refusal of the buyer to take delivery amounts to a repudiation or breach of entire contract the seller shall have the rights against the goods and on the contract hereinafter provided in favor of the seller when the buyer is in default

Section 52 First The seller of goods is deemed to be an unpaid seller within the meaning of this act

(a) When the whole of the price has not been paid or tendered

(b) When a bill of exchange or other negotiable instrument has been received as conditional payment and the condition on which it was received has been broken by reason of the dishonor of the instrument the insolvency of the buyer or otherwise

Section 53 One Subject to the provisions of this act notwithstanding that the property in the goods may have passed to the buyer the unpaid seller of goods as such has

(a) A lien on the goods or right to retain them for the price while he is in possession of them

(b) In case of the insolvency of the buyer a right of stopping the goods in transit after he has parted with the possession of them

(c) A right of resale as limited by this act

(d) A right to rescind the sale as limited by this act

Two Where the property in goods has not passed to the buyer the unpaid seller has in addition to his other remedies a right of withholding delivery similar to and co-extensive with his rights of lien and stoppage in transit where the property has passed to the buyer

Section 54 One Subject to the provisions of this act the unpaid seller of goods who is in possession of them is entitled to retain possession of them until the payment or tender of the price in the following cases namely

(a) Where the goods have been sold without any stipulation as to credit

(b) Where the goods have been sold on credit but the term of credit has expired

(c) Where the buyer becomes insolvent

Two The seller may exercise his right of lien notwithstanding that he is in possession of the goods as agent or bailee for the buyer

Section 55 Where an unpaid seller has made part delivery of the goods he may exercise his right of lien on the remainder unless such part delivery has been made under such circumstances as to show an intent to waive the lien or right of retention

Section 56 One The unpaid seller of goods loses his lien thereon

(a) When he delivers the goods to a carrier or other bailee for the purpose of transmission to the buyer without reserving the property in the goods or the right to the possession thereof

(b) When the buyer or his agent lawfully obtains possession of the goods

(c) By waiver thereof

Two The unpaid seller of goods having a lien thereon does not lose his lien by reason only that he has obtained judgment or decree for the price of the goods

Section 57 Subject to the provisions of this act when the buyer of goods is or becomes insolvent the unpaid seller who has parted with the possession of the goods has the right of stopping them in transit that is to say he may resume possession of the goods at any time while they are in transit and he will then become entitled to the same rights in regard to the goods as he would have had if he had never parted with the possessions

Section 58 One Goods are in transit within the meaning of section fifty-seven

(a) From the time when they are delivered to a carrier by land or water or other bailee for the purpose or transmission to the buyer until the buyer or his agent in that behalf takes delivery of them from such carrier or other bailee

(b) If the goods are rejected by the buyer and the carrier or other bailee continues in possession of them even if the seller has refused to receive them back

Two Goods are no longer in transit within the meaning of section fifty-seven

(a) If the buyer or his agent in that behalf obtains delivery of the goods before their arrival at the appointed destination

(b) If after the arrival of the goods at the appointed destination the carrier or other bailee acknowledges to the buyer or his agent that he holds the goods on his behalf and continues in possession of them as bailee for the buyer or his agent and it is immaterial that further destination for the goods may have been indicated by the buyer

(c) If the carrier or other bailee wrongfully refuses to deliver the goods to the buyer or his agent in that behalf

Three If the goods are delivered to a ship chartered by the buyer it is a question depending on the circumstances of the particular case whether they are in the possession of the master as a carrier or as agent of the buyer

Four If part delivery of the goods has been made to the buyer or his agent in that behalf the remainder of the goods may be stopped in transit unless such part delivery has been made under such circumstances as to show an agreement with the buyer to give up possession of the whole of the goods

Section 59 One The unpaid seller may exercise his right of stoppage in transit either by obtaining actual possession of the goods or by giving notice of his claim to the carrier or other bailee in whose possession the goods are Such notice must state that the buyer is insolvent and has not paid the seller of the goods and may be given by either to the person in actual possession of the goods or to his principal In the latter case the notice to be effectual must be given at such time and under such circumstances that the principal by the exercise of reasonable diligence may prevent a delivery to the buyer

Two When notice of stoppage in transit is given by the seller to the carrier or other bailee in possession of the goods he must redeliver the goods to or according to the directions of the seller The expenses of such redelivery must be borne by the seller If however a negotiable document of title representing the goods has been issued by the carrier or other bailee he shall not be obliged to deliver or justify in delivering the goods to the seller unless such document is first surrendered for cancellation

Section 60 One Where the goods are of a perishable nature or where the seller expressly reserves the right of resale in case the buyer should make default in the payment of the price an unreasonable time an unpaid seller having a right of lien or having stopped the goods in transit may resell the goods He shall not thereafter be liable to the original buyer upon the contract to sell or the sale or for any profit made by such resale but may recover from the buyer damages for any loss occasioned by the breach of the contract or the sale

Two Where a resale is made as authorized in this section the buyer acquires a good title as against the original buyer

Three It is not essential to the validity of a resale that notice of an intention to resell the goods be given by the seller to the original buyer But where the right to resell is not based on the perishable nature of the goods or upon an express provision of the contract or the sale the giving or failure to give such notice shall be relevant in any issue involving the question whether the buyer has been in default an unreasonable time before the resale was made

Four It is not essential to the validity or a resale that notice of the time and place of such resale should be given by the seller to the original buyer

Five The Seller is bound to exercise reasonable care and judgment in making a resale and subject to this requirement may make a resale either by public or private sale

Section 61 One An unpaid seller having a right of lien or having stopped the goods in transit may rescind the transfer of title and resume the property in the goods where he expressly reserved the right to do so in case the buyer should make default or where the buyer has been in default in the payment of the price an unreasonable time The seller shall not thereafter be liable to the buyer upon the contract to sell or the sale but may recover from the buyer damages for any loss occasioned by the breach of the contract or the sale

Two The transfer of title shall not be held to have been rescinded by an unpaid seller until he has manifested by notice to the buyer or by some other overt act an intention to rescind It is not necessary that such overt act should be communicated to the buyer but the giving or failure to give notice to the buyer of the intention to rescind shall be relevant in any issue involving the question whether the buyer had been in default an unreasonable time before the right of rescission was asserted

Section 62 Subject to the provisions of this act the unpaid seller's right of lien or stoppage in transit is not affected by any sale or other disposition of the goods which the buyer may have made unless the seller has assented thereto

If however a negotiable document of title has been issued for goods no seller's lien or right of stoppage in transit shall defeat the right of any purchaser for value in good faith to whom such document has been negotiated whether such negotiation be prior or subsequent to the notification to the carrier or other bailee who issued such document of the seller's claim to a lien or right of stoppage in transit

Section 63 One Where under a contract to sell or a sale the property in the goods has passed to the buyer and the buyer wrongfully neglects or refuses to pay for the goods according to the terms of the contract or the sale the seller may maintain an action against him for the price of the goods

Two Where under a contract to sell or a sale the price is payable on a day certain irrespective of delivery or of transfer of title and the buyer wrongfully neglects or refuses to pay such price the seller may maintain an action for the price although the property in the goods has not passed and the goods have not been appropriated to the contact But it shall be a defense to such an action that the seller at any time before judgment in such action has become unable to perform the contract or the sale on his part or has manifested an intention not to perform it

Three Although the property in the goods has not passed if they cannot readily be resold for a reasonable price and if the provisions of section sixty-four (four) are not applicable the seller may offer to deliver the goods to the buyer and if the buyer refuses to receive them may notify the buyer that the goods are thereafter held by the seller as bailee for the buyer Thereafter the seller may treat the goods as the buyer's and may maintain an action for the price

Section 64 One Where the buyer wrongfully neglects or refuses to accept and pay for the goods the seller may maintain an action against him for damages for non-acceptance

Two The measure of damages is the estimated loss directly and naturally resulting in the ordinary course of events from the buyer's breach of contract

Three Where there is an available market for the goods in question the measure of damages is in the absence of special circumstances showing proximate damage of a greater amount the difference between the contract price and the market or current price at the time or times when the goods ought to have been accepted or if no time was fixed for acceptance then at the time of the refusal to accept

Four If while labor or expense of material amount are necessary on the part of the seller to enable him to fulfill his obligations under the contract to sell or the sale the buyer repudiates the contract or the sale or notifies the seller to proceed no further therewith the buyer shall be liable to the seller for no greater damages than the seller would have suffered if he did nothing towards carrying out the contract or the sale after receiving notice of the buyers repudiation or countermand The profit the seller would have made if the contract or the sale had been fully performed shall be allowed for in estimating such damages

Section 65 Where the goods have not been delivered to the buyer and the buyer has repudiated the contract to sell or sale or has manifested his inability to perform his obligations thereunder or has committed a material breach thereof the seller may totally rescind the contract or the sale by giving notice of his election so to do to the buyer

Section 66 Where the property in the goods has passed to the buyer and the seller wrongfully neglects or refuses to deliver the goods the buyer may maintain any action allowed by law to the owner of goods of similar kind when wrongfully converted or withheld

Section 67 One Where the property in the goods has not passed to the buyer and the seller wrongfully neglects or refuses to deliver the goods the buyer may maintain an action against the seller for damages for non-delivery

Second The measure of damages is the loss directly and naturally resulting in the ordinary course of events from the sellers breach of contract

Three Where there is an available market for the goods in question the measure of damages in the absence of special circumstances showing proximate damages of a greater amount is the difference between the contract price and the market or current price of the goods at the time or times when they ought to have been delivered or if no time was fixed then at the time of the refusal to deliver

Section 68 Where the seller has broken a contract to deliver specific or ascertained goods a court having the powers of a court of equity may if the remedy at law be inadequate on the application of the buyer by its judgment or decree direct that the contract shall be performed specifically without giving the seller the option of retaining the goods on payment of damages The judgment or decree may be unconditional or upon such terms and conditions as to damages payment of the price and otherwise as to the court may seem just

Section 69 One Where there is a breach of warranty by the seller the buyer may at his election

(a) Accept or keep the goods and set up against the seller the breach of warranty by way of recoupment in diminution or extinction of the price

(b) Accept or keep the goods and maintain an action against the seller for damages for breach of warranty

(c) Refuse to accept the goods if the property therein has not passed and maintain an action against the seller for damages for breach of warranty

(d) Rescind the contract to sell or the sale and refuse to receive the goods or if the goods have already been received return them or offer to return them to the seller and recover the price or any part thereof which has been paid

Two When the buyer has claimed and been granted a remedy in any one of those ways no other remedy can thereafter be granted

Three Where the goods have been delivered to the buyer he cannot rescind the sale if he knew of the breach of warranty when he accepted the goods or if he fails to notify the seller within a reasonable time of the election to rescind or if he fails to return or to offer to return the goods to the seller in substantially as good condition as they were in at the time the property was transferred to the buyer But if the deterioration or injury of the goods is due to the breach of warranty such deterioration or injury shall not prevent the buyer from returning or offering to return the goods to the seller and rescinding the sale

Four Where the buyer is entitled to rescind the sale and elects to do so the buyer shall cease to be liable for the price upon returning or offering to return the goods If the price or any part thereof has already been paid the seller shall be liable to repay so much thereof as has been paid concurrently with the return of the goods or immediately after an offer to return the goods in exchange for repayment of the price

Five Where the buyer is entitled to rescind the sale and elects to do so if the seller refuse to accept an offer of the buyer to return the goods the buyer shall thereafter be deemed to hold the goods as bailee for the seller but subject to a lien to secure the repayment of any portion of the price which has been paid and with the remedies for the enforcement of such lien allowed to an unpaid seller by section fifty-three

Six The measure of damages for breach of warranty is the loss directly and naturally resulting in the ordinary course of events from the breach of warranty

Seven In the case of breach of warranty of quality such loss in the absence of special circumstances showing proximate damage of a greater amount is the difference between the value of the goods at the time of delivery to the buyer and the value they would have had if they had answered to the warranty

Section 70 Nothing in this act shall affect the right of the buyer or the seller to recover interest or special damages in any case where by law interest or special damages may be recoverable or to recover money paid where the consideration for the payment of it has failed

Section 71 Where any right duty or liability would arise under a contract to sell or a sale by implication of law it may be negatived of varied by express agreement or by the course of dealing between the parties or by custom if the custom be such as to bind both parties to the contract or the sale All implications from surrounding circumstances or from the nature of a contract or agreement shall be regarded as forming part of the contract or agreement

Mr. MEARKLE, Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. CROMER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to say to the gentlemen of the House that this bill is almost unanimously endorsed by the people of the City of Pittsburgh. I believe that it would be a hard matter to find five hundred men opposed to this measure. It is good clean legislation and it does not carry any increase in salaries. If the House will agree to restore this bill to the calendar, or place it on the calendar, I will make a motion to refer it back to the Committee for amendment. It is a good bill, and is endorsed by the Chamber of Commerce and civic bodies and the majority of the administration of the city of Pittsburgh, and I think after it is amended they will all get behind this bill for me. It is a good bill.

Mr. GEARY. Mr. Speaker, I might say in reply to my friend from Allegheny, that the bill was not satisfactory to the members of the Committee who found many faults in it. That was the particular reason that it was negatived. However the sponsor of the bill and those back of it have stated to me that a new bill is going to be drafted along the same lines, and that it was entirely satisfactory to have this bill negatived.

On the question recurring.

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was not agreed to.

The SPEAKER. The Chair asks the consent of the House to take up bills on second reading. This is done in order that the printer will have an opportunity to print the bills for third reading to-morrow.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE (SPECIAL ORDER).

The SPEAKER. The hour of 10.30 having arrived the special order for that hour will be taken up.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 205, entitled:

An Act to regulate the practice of optometry in the State of Pennsylvania to provide for the establishment of a Board of Optometric Examiners to provide for the examining and licensure of optometrists in this State to provide for the enforcement of the provisions thereof by the Bureau of Medical Education and Licensure of the Department of Public Instruction and to provide penalties for the violation of this act

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, this bill now on for special order at this time is one that is known as a bill to put the Optometrists under the Bureau of Medical Instruction and Licensure. Last night, by an almost unanimous vote of this House, we passed a bill creating a board to put these people under their own control. Now, it does not look right, it does not look fair, for us at this time, after an almost unanimous vote at 9.30 o'clock last evening, to pass a bill giving these men who have appealed to this House for twelve years or more, the right to protect their own business and their own industry, and preventing it from being placed in the hands of those people opposed to that industry,—I say when this House by vote of 171 to 13 placed the stamp of approval on that bill, to allow these men to regulate and administer the affairs of their own business as according to that law, it is not right that you gentlemen should vote for this bill, which would only place it under the control of the Medical Board, men who are directly opposed to these people, men who want to get them into their clutches and put them out of business.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. Speaker, I was very much surprised that my friend, Mr. Dunn, who represents the agricultural district of Philadelphia, would take up the time of the House this morning. I believe that the gentlemen of the House voiced their decision last night, but I am just like the fellow who comes back again, I am in the ring and before I get out of it you will have to vote down this bill. You passed your judgment last night, but I want to say to the gentlemen of the House that I am not sufficiently vain that because my name would be attached to a bill that I would take it as a personal matter how you gentlemen voted. You are just as intelligent as my friend from Philadelphia, or myself. Vote according to the dictates of your conscience, and the verdict of the House will be satisfactory to me. This bill is on the calendar, and in order to get it off you will have to vote it off, as far as I am concerned, or support it.

Mr. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, I move that House Bill No. 205 be stricken from the calendar.

Mr. KITTS. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. Speaker, you no doubt recognize now that the same sporting blood is not in the veins of Mr. Dunn as there is in the veins of some of the rest of us. He is afraid of the action of you gentlemen this morning, and has taken this means to prevent an expression on this bill. Now, I am going to ask you gentlemen of this House not to strike this bill from the calendar, but to express your opinions on it by the manner in which you vote.

Mr. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, I withdraw my motion to strike the bill from the calendar.

Mr. KITTS. Mr. Speaker, I withdraw my second to the motion.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendments.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk.

The amendments were read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend by striking out entire section 4 and insert in place thereof the following:

Section 4 (a) No minor under sixteen years of age shall be employed or permitted to work in, about or in connection with any establishment for more than six days in any one week or more than fifty-four hours in any one week or more than ten hours in any one day Provided however That during weeks in which a legal holiday or special holiday occurs and is observed by an employer any minor may be employed during three of the five other days of such week for a longer period of time than is allowed by this act but shall not be permitted to work more than two hours overtime during any one of such three days nor for more than the maximum number of hours per week specified in this act.

The employment of such persons at any time other than as stated herein, shall be deemed a violation of the provisions of this section unless it appears that such employment was to make up time lost on a previous day of the same week in consequence of the stopping of machinery upon which he was employed or dependent for employment but no stopping of machinery for less than thirty consecutive minutes shall justify such overtime employment nor shall such overtime employment be lawful unless a written report of the day and hours of its occurrence and its duration is promptly sent to the Commissioner of Labor and Industry.

(b) A different apportionment of the hours of labor may be made for the sole purpose of making shorter days work for one day of the week but in no case shall the hours of labor exceed fifty-four in a week.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. COX. Mr. Speaker, I am opposed to this amendment for the reason that it increases the hours of labor from nine to twelve. The Pennsylvania Child Labor Association insisted upon an eight-hour day. When this bill was first introduced the Manufacturers Association of the State of Pennsylvania insisted upon a ten-hour day. The Governor or the administration who have a knowledge of child labor agreed to meet them half way, and have inserted in the bill which is now before you, known as House Bill No. 730 and introduced by me, nine hours per day. It is the consensus of opinion that nine hours a day is above the average for physical endurance of the minor. The line of demarcation which takes place after eight and one half hours is very noticeable, but we are willing to make it nine hours because it is just a step forward in the advancement of child education and child labor. The manufacturers in this State may as well begin now for the time is not far distant and I believe that every man who represents any labor organization will agree with me that the eight-hour law will come into effect in this State, so that we merely step up to this, and I do not believe that it will embarrass them as much as they think it will. The question of difference between the administration and the manufacturers of this State is three hours. The three hours represents about a half hour per day. I ask in all fairness gentlemen that if the State of Pennsylvania desires to commercialize their children to stand on half an hour a day. For what reasons? The manufacturers tell you and tell you plainly in the letters that they are circulating that they are advocating this change for the children and the children only. I have a letter in my hand, which reads as follows: If the idea is to educate the minor we, as manufacturers in many fields, find that one reason we have employed the minors comes from the shiftlessness of parents, either from a drunken father, a drunken mother or both. I want to say that the manufacturer who intends to place that kind of stuff before the House is making a mistake. In the first place, I do not believe that the poor children who are compelled to go to work at fourteen and sixteen years of age are driven to it from the effects of rum. It is a poor argument that these manufacturers insist that they are only working for the uplift of the child, when in reality, they are looking for the dollars and cents that will pour into their coffers by commercializing the child. I ask my friends in the House, the friends of the organization in this House and in this party to stand by this bill and vote down the amendments.

Mr. LIPSCHUTZ. Mr. Speaker, I was one of those in this House that was in favor of the forty-eight hours for children. After a great many interviews with the sponsor of this bill he showed me his bigness and his fairness by agreeing to a compromise position of fifty-one hours. I say to you Mr. Speaker, that we conserve our forests; I say to you, Mr. Speaker, that we pass laws to protect our animals, and when we pass beneficient laws to protect the children of to-day who will be the men of to-morrow the manufacturing interests come here and say to us "subsidize yourselves and be for us?" I want to say to you Mr. Speaker, that the manufacturing interests of my district said to me, aren't you going to look after our interests. Now that nature has been kind to them, and that they have been well looked after, I do not think there is any necessity for me at this time or at any time to do anything further. The manufacturers come here with a ridiculous argument. They say that the advocates of this bill are actuated solely by selfish interests and the interest of the child, plays a very small part in their consideration. We are here representing a very very progressive legislature; we are here, this time, looking toward humanitarian legislation. I say that if they do not send me back to this House I will be proud if my posterity can say that I supported this bill for fifty-one hours. There never was a great experiment that people did not scoff at it. The Good Book tells us that they came to scoff, remained to pray. And while this may be an experiment here in the State of Pennsylvania, the twenty-one states throughout this Union that have tried this law have not found it wanting. In the great City of Philadelphia, John Wanamaker, the Merchant Prince, has tried the educational feature in his business and that property of his is a monument to his manhood, and it shows that he has seen further than most of the merchants of our State and his property stands high above all others. I say to the gentlemen of this House, this is a matter of great seriousness and I say to the gentlemen with all the vehemence within my small body, I ask you to go along with this Cox measure; I say to the gentlemen of the House with all fairness toward the children, give them the opportunities that were denied us, and when we are ushered before the Great Jehovah, we can say that our work was done and faithfully done.

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, it has long ago been said that they whom the gods would destroy they first make mad. It has also been observed that if we think wrong that we arrive at wrong conclusions. I want you to listen to me for a little while. I will be as brief as I can. I am going to tell you how I think, and see if you can agree with me. First. I do not think that the American manufacturers have tried to make exorbitant profits at the expense of the lives of the juveniles of our government, and no man can lay his finger on statistics either national or state to disprove that statement. In the first place, there is no set of men in this great nation of ours who have done more to give the poor boy and the poor girl and the poor man an opportunity to better his condition than the great captains of industry.

My friends have attempted to cloud the issue by making it appear, simply by a bald statement, that the manufacturers of the State of Pennsylvania want to exploit child labor. If there is any lamp that leads my feet aright, or my course aright in public affairs it is the lamp of experience. Nearly fifty years ago continental Europe began to inquire into and to legislate on the subject of child labor, to try to perfect laws of those old countries so as to correct the wrongs that existed, and very probably in a very few of the great industries that might then exist. Down the line of manufacturing industries for a period of fifty years England now has a law providing for fifty-five and one-half hours. On continental Europe there is not a nation that has not provided by law from fifty-five hours up to sixty-six hours. Now I don't want to give you the impression that this great Commonwealth of eight millions of people must go to Europe to get her cue for legislation. I only quote those conditions as the result of experience of the statesmen of those empires for a period of fifty years. That is their conclusion; but I don't want you to think that I am trying to impress you with the fact that it is the last word at all; but that is the lamp of experience.

The amendment that I have offered in no particular affects this bill other than to add three more hours to the week's work. Do you think that any person who concludes that three additional hours in six days is going to have any material effect upon the health of the juveniles of this State? Why do I offer this amendment and ask for the three hours? Why, they tell you that it is because I want to exploit labor for the benefit of the plutocratic manufacturing fraternity. It is not true. It is a mistake. I had no such intention. It will have no such effect. I know only too well, living in one of the largest manufacturing counties in this State outside of the two great counties of Philadelphia and Allegheny, that I am speaking not only from observation, but I am speaking from the experience of my neighbors that I have come in contact with. I am speaking of that knowledge that comes from being in and around these great industries. To show you how careful we should be as to thinking right, I want to call your attention to something that occurred in these legislative halls two years ago. I do not recall as to whether it was my friend who now opposes my amendment, but I do know that in this House they were some thirty or forty legislators who strongly advocated a fifty-hour law for the female operatives in our great industries. I know that they made the same argument that they are making now, that they did not want the captains of industry to exploit labor by increasing their profit. They told us if we did not pass the fifty-hour law that the people would rise up and drive us from the legislative halls as men unworthy to represent them. I protested. I protested because I felt confident that it would do more harm than good; that instead of providing work for those who desired to work it would absolutely drive thusands out of employment. The Senate amended the bill to fify-four hours and it came back and the House passed it, and the law for the female labor to-day in the industries of our State, is fifty-four hours. My friends I hope you will agree with me in this statement and I believe you will: I realize that I am talking to an exceptionally intelligent jury. I believe that you will agree with me that whenever we go into this question of interferring in the industries of our State by statute that at least we ought to go conservatively. If I firmly believed that it would do more good than harm to the citizenship of this State to vote for the forty-eight-hour law here to-day I would so vote. If I believed it would be more injurious than good, upon the other hand, I am going to have the courage to so vote.

The only comment that I have heard in my community since the fifty-four-hour law went on the statute book has been a criticism that it was entirely too drastic. I have not heard a single citizen in my county that commended the legislature for passing that act, and yet I appreciate that in nearly all of these steps in order to better the conditions the community frequently, when interferred with in the least way or when one ounce of additional friction is added, that they complain thoughtlessly. My amendment will make the number of hours for the juveniles in our great industries in this State identical with the hours of the female. The textile industres of the State of Pennsylvania employ largely female labor. The nature of the work is of a character that the juvenile is a helper. If the number of hours of employment of the juvenile helper is different from that of the female adult, it means that you will throw that number of juveniles out of employment.

My friend has told you the number of States in this Union that has a law of eight hours, has the law of eight hours for juveniles. Amongst those States the only ones that are worth considering at all is the State of Massachusetts, the State of New York, the State of New Jersey and the State of Ohio. The others you can brush aside because of the infinitesimally small number of employes in the textile manufacturing business. In those four States that I have named the result of the forty-eight-hour law for the juvenile and a different hour law for the adult has resulted in all of those large industrial plants discharging all of that juvenile labor. Now that is an absolute condition that I have referred to a few moments ago as the lamp of experience.

Let me make another statement to you: Do you realize that we are now going over into a field in our legislative activity that needs more thought, more care, more consideration than any other subject that has been taken up by governmental legislative bodies. The belief, up to within a very short time, has been that the parent was the proper authority to direct and control his children until they reach the age of twenty-one. That law has not been changed. It stands on the statute books of every State in the Union, that the parent has the control of the child up to the age of twenty-one. The reason why legislation of this character deserves at your hands careful consideration—and let me give you a thought as to how you will arrive at the proper conclusion on any subject that may come before you—take it right home to yourself. Consider the effect of it upon society by considering the effect of it upon yourself. Presume that you are a poor man—poor I only mean in worldly goods. Presume for the moment that you are one of the multitude that has a family of from four to eight children; that family to be supported by your adult earnings and no child in that family to be an assistant until he reaches the age of sixteen. Is there a man in this House, is there one within the sound of my voice, who would not say that before the age of sixteen there should come a helping hand from some of those children? My friends, are you going to be beclouded in this issue because there cames a voice from men who have travelled over the road themselves?

No, the voice does not come from there,—not even the echo comes from there. The voice from the widowed mother, or the deserted mother, with her six darling children that make up that happy household, must sit helpless at home and see the representatives of the great sovereign State of Pennsylvania pass laws that may rend asunder that happy household and see them in the poor house van going to the county home. That is the question for you to consider. This is no exaggerated statement, and as my learned friend, the ex-Attorney General of the State of Pennsylvania, said a few days ago, it is no hyperbole either.

There is not a man here, nor a woman within the sound of my voice, that does not know that I am drawing a true picture of life. Yes, perhaps there are a few children in this great State of ours, where the public officials, or the community itself, is not performing its duty to society, namely, and perhaps one out of a thousand, or one out of three or four hundred manufacturers, or captains of industry, of this great State may be so mean,—nay, I won't say mean, but perhaps so thoughtless, that in their great industry there may perhaps be one or two children that are careworn and wan and should perhaps be at home.

How many are in the public schools that are also careworn and wan because their physical condition says that it would be better a thousand fold to allow the mental faculties to rest, and that perhaps some physical exercise would lead along the highway to health. You have not found, nor have they attempted to present to you, nor will they pretend to present to you, the percentage of children between the ages of sixteen and fourteen, who are suffering from being required, either by their parents, or by conditions for which you can blame no parent,—namely, that starvation is facing them, that they perhaps ought not to be working in these institutions. The number is so infinitesimally small that before you pass an inflexible statute, fixing the limit at less than fifty-four hours a week, beware of the responsibilities that are on your shoulders. Beware of the warning that the lamp of experience points out.

Do we sitting here today a single one of those who stood here two years ago trying to convince the legislative body that they ought to follow along the lines of drastic legislation that would disturb in this way the industries of our State? Not one, not one. You are pledged and I am pledged to the people, not by a party platform, not by the words of any man, but I am pledged to the people to investigate every subject that comes before me, as carefully as possible in the time given, and after analyzing it in a right way, and thinking right, to have the courage to register my convictions when the clerk at the desk calls the roll.

Why, my friends, don't you know that there is provided in this very bill to which I subscribed, that no child from sixteen years of age downward, can go to work iin any of these industrial propositions without a medical examination and certificate from the medical authorities appointed either by the municipal government or by the State. You accept, if you support my amendment, the question of whether a child may be working that is physically incapable is carefully protected by the provisions of the act. Why, my friends, you are all men of experience; you know as well as I know that so far as the age, sixteen, stands for the question of the qualifications of a child to go to work inflexibly, cannot swerve either to the right or left, no matter what are the conditions, is legislation gone mad.

There is not one of you here who does not know that perhaps a child of fourteen years may be more capable of certain labor requiring physical effort than some men forty years old. To my mind it is one of the most ridiculous propositions to fix that whole question of labor on the hard, inflexible mark of sixteen. But aside from that, I will yield that point in the bill because in my judgment, if you will give this amendment your support, it will be entirely satisfactory as a compromise to those who know more about this subject than all the professional life from Paris to Washington and in every nation of the world.

People who sit down in an office and undertake to figure out the problems of society, the problems of social conditions in any one community based upon the rule of three,—one and one makes two, and three and three makes six,—falls little short of being foolish. The only man who knows anything about society is the man who mingles through and amongst it; the man who is in contact with it at every side. I have lived in a community of that character, I have been in the manufacturing centers on holidays, when the whole community has turned out on a Decoration Day or a Fourth of July, in my county, Rockdale, an old manufacturing center that has been known as a center of manufacturing for about a century, where all the people in that little community not only are now working in these textile plants, but their fathers before them and their grandfathers before them and their great-grandfathers before them.

I will take you down there, without any labor laws on the statute books other than we have now, which they say are deficient, and which I am willing to go further, in improving as I am in support of this bill if this amendment goes in, and I will match the health, the alertness, the intelligence of that community against any of a like number of citizens on the map of the globe. They have the best baseball team, they have the best men there in athletic sports, they have the brightest young men there in debating societies, they have the men there who understand factory life and they never made any complaint about their condition and there has not been presented to this House from the motherhood of the juvenile workers a single line asking for this law to be other than that to conform with the female labor as now provided in the statutes of this State.

Now, you have just this choice,—I have talked too long—you have just this choice and I hope that I can make an impression on you,—You can follow those who are engaged in these industries, those who get their livelihood from them, who live in the midst and who have not sent here one single line of request for the eight hour law They say—certain associations of the State have asked for this proposition—associations that are largely managed by and the membership of which is almost invariably, in fact I think I can say invariably, composed of people of no practical experience, who have not felt the pinch of want that comes from a home where the male support is gone and the widowed mother and orphan children struggling to hold together a happy household, where those children can have the support and the helping hand of a mother which leads to higher and better things that can come only from a mother.

She wants you to allow her children to assist; she wants you to say today that you have confidence in the motherhood of this State of ours; she wants you Legislators to say that it is with reasonable and great care that we place upon the statute books a law that will reflect credit upon the motherhood as a guiding hand for the rising generation. Friends, you won't be deaf to that cry. You are going to look this question in the face fairly from a practical standpoint. You are not going to believe that the captains of industry in this great State of ours are people who would exploit labor. If you could only have them here by the hundred, to tell of their own personal experience, how daily they have children come to their great plants begging, pleading and imploring for an opportunity to work, to help mother at home and how they have had to turn them away all because of this law upon the statute books, you could appreciate what I mean. More of the manufacturers of this great State of ours; more of the great captains of industry of our great State have lent a helping hand than these professional correctors of laws that have all kinds of propagandas for bettering society have attempted and yet never go out in the midst of this society and lend a helping hand. It is the helping hand that every manufacturer in this great State of ours gives to society, and yet in the halls of this House I must stand and listen to the misrepresentation of these great captains of industry and what I might almost say is socialism, for it borders close to that line when you try to teach the American people that the great captains of industry are selfish, merciless, exploiters of child and human labor. When written all over the face of this beautiful prosperous State it is that which gives the lie to such statements, so plain that no man can miss it even at midnight as he runs, for as you go into the great cities and walk down those great white ways among the electric lights and all that has gone to make life worth living in civilized nations and then to say here that you must treat wih disdain, with distrust and with doubt anything that these great captains say or do in the progress of society in this great nation of ours which ought to satisfy any man or woman that these men whom they are condemning, these men that have gone into their own pockets, these men who have given employment to juveniles when they really did not need them, yet must be condemned in the legislative hall of our State. Won't you believe them, gentlemen; won't you believe them when they tell you this? If you won't believe them, whom will you believe? Gentlemen, they tell you that you can put this law on the statute books as suggested by my friend from Philadelphia, Mr. Cox. If you do, you cannot possibly in the textile industry continue where work is done in what is known by the term "teams." I think you all understand it, perhaps not; but as a matter of fact in the handling of a loom certain adults are required to do certain expert things. A juvenile can carry the bobbins or spools, the filled ones and the empty ones. The labor is not onerous; it is not sedantary; it is asked for by the juvenile and I want you to believe the manufacturers of this State when they tell you that if you change this law in regard to the juvenile work and make it fifty-one hours a week instead of fifty-four hours that the whole "team" is broken down and that to the juvenile labor, or without, it means the stopping of the machine, in this event, or else the discharge of the juvenile and replacing such with an adult. This is what they tell you. Will you believe them? That is the question. They tell you that to a man. It is true that in our State there are a few manufacturing industries that don't require "team" work; it is true that if the law should be changed it will not affect them; it is true that they have endorsed this bill; but, Oh how infinitesimally small are their number. You have not received from a single man in the textile business throughout the length and breadth of the State any such endorsements I have not found or heard of a single one that has not sent out the warning to us that if you don't make the law, fifty-four hours, namely, make it as I suggest in my amendment, then the responsibility of these juveniles not being able to get work, the responsibility of these widows and even the male with six to eight children will know why he is not lent a helping hand. Yes, I believe, knowing all this, that you will put this amendment in the bill. I believe that you have faith in the great manufacturing captains of this great State. I believe that you have faith that those who are working in these mills, having entered no protest against the fifty-four-hour law, are satisfied, that they are satisfied because they do not protest. I believe that you believe that it is best for society. I believe that you believe that it is wiser to do something of this kind that will not disturb the prosperity of our industries. God knows that they are disturbed enough at the present time without being disturbed further. I believe that you believe that it will be wise when we go along this line with legislation that we may not disturb the great industries of our State and that we ought to go slowly. I believe that you have confidence that with this amendment in, when the Legislature convenes again two years hence, if it may be found then to be wise to make the change the change can then be made. I believe that you are thinking just as I am, namely: That those who advocated fifty hours a week two years ago, those who then claimed that the people would not tolerate anything less than fifty hours, with the result of that claim and following that I believe that you are thinking just as I am thinking and thought then, that those who were advocating the fifty hours were mistaken and that those who were responsible for refusing to put on the statute books fifty hours a week were right. I believe that you think it was right then and I believe now that it is wise after all that has been said that the wise thing to do is to approach this matter slowly and accept the amendment which I have submitted and place it in the bill as I have offered it and in two years hence I feel certain that you would hear no more talk about fifty-one hours then than you now hear about the fifty hours which was proposed two years ago. Men were in this room who proposed fifty hours as the right proposition, but nobody is advocating that now; it does not even come from the agitators; it does not even come from the friends of this class of legislation. Take my advice and put this amendment in this bill, becaue it will then have to stay only two years when you will have an opportunity to change it, if experience shows necessity.

I hope you will all vote for the amendment offered because I know or rather I feel satisfied that if it could come before all the people of this great State with the subject thoroughly understood it would be swept on the statute books, as I have already suggested by the popular vote of the people; if the subject was thoroughly understood it would be carried ten to one and that is what this House ought to do.

Mr. STEIN. Mr. Speaker, I regret that I am compelled on this important day to waste the time of the House in a further discussion of this measure which I believe every gentleman in the House fully understands and has thoroughly considered. Yet I feel that perhaps I would not be true to the duty imposed upon me by the people of my district who sent me here, unless I raise my voice in favor of this proposed amendment which has been offered by my friend Mr. Baldwin. Let me say to you, gentlemen, and let me say it in a spirit of calm, fair, decent deliberation that I approach the subject with no passion, without any bias and without any desire to be unfair. Let me say to my colleagues from Philadelphia that it seems strange; that it seems passingly strange that reasonable men can not sit down to a reasonable discussion of this subject without having their honest and intelligent differences misunderstood and their motives criticised. Our friends the uplifters who seem to have monopolized the American Flag and the Constitution and the Lives of Saints as their platform seem to think that every person who differs from them are a pack of heartless bloodsweaters of children of this State who would subsidize and make profit out of the blood and sweat of the child. I believe most of you gentlemen believe that we must trust each other and I want to say honestly and conscientiously that I represent a district which has more child labor than any other district of the State of Pennsylvania, with the possible exception of Philadelphia, and in my district are found more employers of chld labor than possibly in any other district. I feel, therefore, that I am qualified in some slight degree at least to give expression to the will of my constituents. I say to you gentlemen, on my honor as a member of this House, that the proposed amendment is not only needed but it is absolutely essential. If you gentlemen of the uplifter class would accomplish the things that you desire; you gentlemen who seem to think that a child working more than fifty-one hours is committing a crime against himself and against society, I say, you don't know the conditions; you know theories. You form your uplift circles and you come into our districts and sit in meetings and pass resolutions and advice and waste all that time advising and resolving, but did anyone of you men or women who wsh to inform yourselves come into the district where the child laborer is engaged and where the child lives? You who sit around and make resolutions and sign them; did you ever take a minute off to help us in our burden? Did anyone of you ever stop for a minute to step in and help the poor man who appeals to you by any suggestion as to your method of operation? We have your resolutions, we have your sympathy but we never have any of your practical help. Your idea of charity is, let us put our hands in our pocket and give three cheers for the poor, and that is all we can ever get from you. Now, gentlemen, let us be fair. The desire for this amendment comes from the child who wants to work; it comes from the mother of that child who needs the child's work. The manufacturers of the down town portion of Pittsburgh don't care one iota whether this bill puts it at fifty-four hours or fifty-one hours. They say that the woman works fifty-four hours. The little girl who assists in the operation; the child under sixteen who receives the finished product as it is finished and sends it on its way, either by wrapping or by finishing or by some other part of the operation, the manufacturers say if we cannot employ a child under sixteen for fifty-four hours to assist in the entire time, that the woman has to work; we do not care, we can get plenty of children over sixteen who will gladly do the work, so that we have no special interest in this proposition. They are not the cruel, heartless people that our friends from Philadelphia would have you believe, but gentlemen, the cry comes, as I said, from the mothers of the children and from the children of the poor; for, as my colleague said, the cry comes from them, and if you pass this bill at fifty-one hours, it would make it impossible for any child under sixteen to secure reasonable or adequate employment. Now, do my friends, in whose judgment I have every confidence in the world, and for whose motives I have the highest respect, but whose experience is sadly lacking, do you want to cripple us further by your good advice or do you want to give us a fair chance. If you are honest in your intention and experienced in your advice, and you want to help us, then I say, in Heaven's name, give us the chance. If we are limited to less than the same number of hours than the adult has, there is no possibility of securing employment for any child under sixteen.

Now, Mr. Speaker, and gentlemen, one word in conclusion, although it seems to me that almost every argument has been so well covered by my friend from Delaware. If we the children the poor, and I glory in the fact that I have been raised all the days of my life in the very district that I now have the honor of representing, and I believe that I know the wants of my constituents; I believe that I know what is best for them not from the reading of a book; not from the hearing of a discussion in an uplift society, but from actual daily physical contact with the children of the poor who are my best friends and my best supporters. I say to you, gentlemen, you need not give us so much of your sympathy, just give us a plain fair chance. Now, my good people, I want to refer to one man, perhaps known to all of you, our past Governor, John K. Tener. He is one of those poor children for whom you are exercising so much sympathy, and judging by his development physicially and otherwise, and his position in the world he can fairly well get along. My friends, I could name to you thousands of others, but I ask you in the spirit of all fairness, for Heaven's sake, let us alone with your advice and give us a reasonable chance.

Mr. H. I. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, the question before us as I understand it, is the striking out of section four of this act and substituting in lieu thereof another new section to be entitled section four. Inasmuch as the amendment which will be section four of the act is not before us so that we can act intelligently and see just what it provides, I wish to ask the House this question. As I understand it, the only question involved is the question of whether it shall be fifty-four hours a week or fifty-one hours a week. Now then, instead of just putting the words "fifty-four" in place of "fifty-one" the entire section is proposed to be stricken out and quite a good bit is put in. Now, I have made inquiries and it is said to me in explanation that what has been put in, is to make it comply with and make it harmonious with the act of 1913 regulating the employment of females. Now the question that I am not clear in is this—in the last part of section four as it now is in the bill, it provides "In computing the maximum number of hours per day or per week permitted under this act, the hours spent in school by said minors shall be considered as part of the working day or working week." Now then, this last section or the last portion of scection four as it appears in the bill provides that the school time shall be taken out of the employer's time instead of the child's time. That is all there is to it. Now then, if the amendment offered by the gentleman from Delaware will leave that provision in, I am with him and if he does not, I am against it, and without the amendment before me I am unable to offer an amendment to the amendment. But I have the assurance, now, from the gentleman that such an amendment will be offered, and then after that is done, we will be up to the sole question of whether this shall be fifty-one hours as in section four, or fifty-four hours as per the amendment with the rest of the section. Now the section as proposed is technically expressed in the same manner as the law which was passed regulating female labor. Now, I think, we ought to get this point clear and we ought to indulge the gentleman from Delaware, just a moment to prepare an amendment along these lines and then I would like the further opportunity of being recognized to support the amendment if the intention or if the explanation as I outlined it is true.

Mr. COX. Mr. Speaker, There has been so much said on the question of ours, that I do not care to take up the balance of the time of this House knowing what is before them for this afternoon, but I do want to bring before their attention one fact and that is, that the gentleman from Delaware has stated that manufacturers through charity have employed children. That may be in some remote cases, but gentlemen, from experience I know that no man who is running a business will charge off any charity to his manufacturing expenses. It is absolutely absurd to attempt to make this House believe that. The gentleman from Delaware has also referred to the twenty-one states having an eight hour law. That is an absolute fact. He does not deny it, and if twenty-one states have the eight-hour law, why not let Pennsylvania come into line, and let us have the nine-hour day, with our seventy-five thousand children between the ages of fourteen and sixteen. To put it clearly before this House to what extent the Governor of this great State has gone to meet the simple questions that are before you, I want to tell you that the manufacturers presented three demands. One of these

"At a conference between the Governor and the Manufacturers, the Manufacturers presented three demands.

One of these was that employers of children under sixteen be made not liable to prosecution in counties where no schools such as are contemplated in House Bill No. 730 are established.

The second was that the permission for private prosecutions be eliminated,

And the third that the hours be made ten hours a day, 54 hours a week.

The Governor yielded wholly on the first two propositions and met the manufacturers half way on the proposition as to hours, agreeing to a nine-hour day, 51-hour week."

If that is not fair treatment, gentlemen, if that is not meeting the manufacturers half way, if that is not meeting every one absolutely on the level, I will ask the House to decide it on the amendment. This means much to the uplift of the child's welfare in Pennsylvania.

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I find that in drafting the amendment that I failed to provide for the educational feature, and I would ask the Clerk to read the amendment that I have offered.

The amendment offered to section four by the gentleman from Delaware was again read by the Clerk.

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendment to the amendment.

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

"Section 4, after the word "act" insert the following: "In computing the maximum number of hours per day or per week permitted under this act, the time spent in school by said minors shall be considered as part of the working day or working week."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment as amended?

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to have the amendment read for the information of the House as amended and as it is now proposed.

The amendment as amended was read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend by striking out entire Section 4 and insert in place thereof the following:

Section 4 (a) No minor under sixteen years of age shall be employed or permitted to work in, about or in connection with any establishment for more than six days in any one week or more than fifty-four hours in any one week or more than ten hours in any one day, Provided however that during weeks in which a legal holiday or special holiday occurs and is observed by an employer any minor may be employed during three of the five other days of such week for a longer period of time than is allowed by this act but shall not be permitted to work more than two hours overtime during any one of such three days or for more than the maximum number of hours per week specified in this act. In computing the maximum number of hours per day or per week permitted under this act, the time spent in school by said minors shall be considered as part of the working day or working week.

The employment of such persons at any time other than as stated herein, shall be deemed a violation of the provisions of this section unless it appears that such employment was to make up time lost on a previous day of the same week in consequence of the stopping of machinery upon which he was employed or dependent for employment but no stopping of machinery for less than thirty consecutive minutes shall justify such overtime employment nor shall such overtime employment be lawful unless a written report of the day and hours of its occurrence and its duration is promptly sent to the Commissioner of Labor and Industry.

(b) A different apportionment of the hours of labor may be made for the sole purpose of making shorter days work for one day of the week but in no case shall the hours of labor exceed fifty-four in a week.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendment as amended?

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Delaware prefaced his remarks with a very apt quotation. He stated that "Him the gods wish to destroy they first make mad." As I listened to his discourse the thought ran through my mind as to whether or not there was any personal application of this time worn saying to the gentleman from Delaware. I listened with a great deal of attention in the hope that in the course of his discussion some real live argument might be advanced by the gentleman from Delaware in support of his contention as evidenced in the language of the amendment which he has submitted to this House for its consideration. Notwithstanding that fact I failed to hear one word offered in legitimate support of this amendment. My friend discussed what continental Europe has done. My friend discussed what some of the States of this Union have done upon this momentous question; yet during the course of his entire remarks, to my mind, not one argument was advanced in support of this amendment by him other than the language in the glowing word picture painted by him which, to a sentimental mind and one not here doing the duty which they are sent here to perform, might bring tears to the eyes. He pictured to the minds of the members of this House that not to incorporate this amendment in the bill now before us would mean that children under the age of sixteen years would not be entitled to employment in the manufacturing industries of this Commonwealth. I don't so understand the bill. The language of the bill is so plain that he who runs might read. It specifies that children under the age of sixteen years can be employed under certain conditions and there is only one word by the gentleman from Delaware, or the gentleman from Allegheny who spoke in support of this amendment, which might have some actual reason behind it if we did not go into the very details and the reasons for this amendment. The only question which they raised for the consideration of you gentlemen is the question as to whether or not it is possible for manufacturers in this State to employ children where female adult labor is employed for a longer period of time, and they cited as an instance the textile industries of this Commonwealth. I venture to say without fear of contradiction that I come from a section of this Commonwealth which has more textile industries located within its borders than any other section of the State and when I speak, I speak of first-handed knowledge. I know that in these industries the vast percentage of labor which is employed, is employed at piece rates. They are not week workers but they are paid in accordance with the amount of labor which they perform and the amount of the output of that particular industry, and that from the time the bell rings in the morning until it rings at the close of day that those women are pushing themselves just as hard as they can to earn as much money as they can for themselves and, as a result, the manufacturer is benefited.

Now, Mr. Speaker, it has been declared on the floor of this House and well said "that the child of today is the man of tomorrow." We must legislate not for the present but we must have in mind that which is for the benefit of the people of this Commonwealth in the future. My friend from Delaware says to you men, what difference, what harm can come of three additional hours per week for child labor? What harm can come? What good can result? What can happen to the child if that three hours is added to the fifty-one contemplated by this bill. Mr. Speaker, if that is the only argument advanced in favor of this amendment then I say to you, what harm can come by the elimination of this amendment from this bill? But, on the other hand, what good can result in looking after and caring for the interests of the so-called juvenile labor in this Commonwealth. We all know that the age of sixteen and under is the impressionable age of life. Those years are the years when the boy and girl have impressed upon their minds their future, and I say to you that it is high time that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania does not follow the footsteps of some of the other States in this Union; that it does not follow the conditions as they exist in continental Europe and stand still on this proposition. Such an argument as advanced by the gentleman from Philadelphia—an argument more specious it has been never my privilege to listen to. The very crux of the whole situation, the very basis of his argument is that we as Pennsylvanians must stand still. If that argument had been advanced in all this line of endeavor, if that argument had been advanced to the minds of men whose brains have worked out results along the lines of progress, instead of coming to this legislative hall on the modern railroad we would be coming here in the stage coaches of old. I am not one who criticises the manufacturing industries of this State. I realize that this Commonwealth of Pennsylvania stands in the forefront of this Union and, I dare say, in the world with regard to its industries; but I do not take the position that my friend from Delaware takes, that the Pennsylvania manufacturing industries are walking eleemosynary institutions. They are in business because it pays them to be in business. The woman or the man or child who goes to work, goes to work because necessity compels them to and for that very reason, sir, because necessity does compel them, by the sweat of their brow or by the use of that physical power which they possess, to earn their livelihood it behooves us as representatives of the people of this great State that we throw the safeguards around them and by voting down this amendment, by standing for section 4 as it now exists in this bill we say to the manufacturing industries of this State, "We are going to look after the children of the present and the men and women of the future." I cannot conceive of any such condition as my friend on the other side would have you think that such a bill as is proposed by the sponsor of this bill will result in the discharge or the refusal to employ children under sixteen years of age. My friend says to you: Statistics show that where a bill of this character has been in force in other states that that has been the result. I challenge him to point to one instance, one concrete instance. I am not one who would stand here and gobble down such a statement as that unless it was borne out by statistics, and I venture to say that statistics do not so show; but wherever bills of this character have become law, that the manufacturing industries of the various Commonwealths in which they have been enacted have adapted themselves to the changed condition and those changed conditions have resulted in greater efficiency of the child labor and have redownded to the material and financial benefit of the employer. I stand for the sponsor of this bill against the amendment proposed by the gentleman from Delaware and in favor of section 4 as it is incorporated in the bill.

Mr. HESS. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I believe that every member of this House of Representatives is conscientiously considering this amendment and that every member of this House wants to go on record as having voted right on it; but I wish to tell you gentlemen that as I see this issue the gist and the core of the argument on this amendment is this: Does increased leisure produce greater efficiency? As late as Wednesday of last week I rode on a train from here to Lancaster in company with the second vice-president of one of the largest corporations in this State. It was the duty of that gentleman to employ the travelling men for that corporation. In the course of the conversation I said to him: "Mr. Barbour, from what source do you recruit your force of travelling men?"—and that corporation employes for use in this and in adjoining States a continuous number of forty-eight hundred traveling men—and his answer to me was this: "Hess, there is only one source from which we can recruit our forces of travelling men with efficient men and that is from the farm. We have got to look to the farmer boys of Pennsylvania." (applause) I ask you men, with all candor and all fairness, is it the short hours that the farmer boys have been working that enables them to become sufficiently efficient to be the only source to which large corporations can look to recruit their force of travelling men upon whom the devolves the most trying and responsible positions in that corporation.

I tell you, gentlemen, that shorter working hours means better citizenship, and there is not a man in this House who is not going to be guided in voting upon this amendment, by what he believes will produce men of better worth and greater efficiency. Now, if shorter hours is going to produce that, I am with you, but I tell you the great regret today is that the young man who is favored with the greater amount of leisure misuses that leisure, and it is not during the hours of work that he breaks himself down in health and mind,—it is during the hours of leisure that he too frequently does it. If those hours of leisure would be so employed to develop his mind and body and make of him a better citizen, and a man of larger worth, then, by all means, give it to him, but I tell you that no man has ever gone through life and been a success in life who did not work a greater number of hours than we are asking our children to do today.

You know as well as I do that many of the leading men of the country today grew up on the farms and they knew nothing about an eight hour day. They went to school for six or eight hours and then came back and worked six or eight hours more. Of course, we do not want to impose that on them.

Men, when you vote on this bill you are going to continue in jobs, or you are going to vote out of jobs, thousands of deserving young men and boys of fourteen and sixteen years of age. You know and I do, and we all know, that the average industrial establishment of today is conducted on the basis of industrial units. Here is the spinner, here is the machine, and here is the helper. The work is not arduous; the work is not heavy, but you know that no spinner can go to work at seven o'clock in the morning and permit the assistant, the boy that carries the bobbins and the spools, to come crawling in at seven-thirty. It is a question of whether we are going to continue these boys of fourteen and sixteen years of age in their jobs, or whether we are going to legislate them out of jobs, because as long as the woman's labor statute remains at fifty hours per week, that is the result you are going to accomplish if you fail to incorporate this amendment. In conversation with the manager of a manufacturing institution no later than Wednesday of last week he said "Hess, unless that amendment goes in, forty-two names will be dropped from my payroll." I trust you will support this amendment.

Mr. HABGOOD. Mr. Speaker, I am one of those who heartily favor forty-eight hours a week work for children. They have been working longer hours than that and going to school at night, if they would have the benefit of their instruction. This amendment, as first proposed, I should have been compelled to oppose, but now the amendment provides and keeps in that bill the clause that these children shall go to school one day in the week, and that that time which they go to school shall be counted in in what they work. Therefore I submit to you that with fifty-four hours a week entitled to these children, including their hours in school, that they will not work more than forty-eight hours a week and they will have the benefit of the schooling during the day time, instead of having to go to school at night as they have done in the past, to get what instruction they have to have.

Now, gentlemen, we are getting the cart before the horse. The difficulty at the present time is not to restrict the number of hours that children shall work, or that men or women shall work. The difficulty at the present time is to get the work for these men, and women and children to do, and you know and I know that every manufacturer in this State who employs more than fifteen men,—and I say without venturing contradiction by any one who is employing men hours or days,—employes hours or days—is splitting with them fifty-fifty on his side to keep them at work and give them employment and give them renumeration. For the next two years the great problem is not going to be how shall we keep the work down which the children, men and women shall do, but how shall we get enough work for them to do, and therefore I feel that it is far beside the mark to quibble over this question of three hours when they shall go to school the six hours and cannot possibly work more than forty-eight hours in a week. I am for this amendment as amended.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, this subject is so fundamentally important that no man need honestly apologize to the House for talking five or ten minutes. I remember last session when a great deal of difficulty was had in the coming together of the various factions on the Child Labor bill, that when it came back to this House and a motion was made to discharge the Conference Committee. I then said, because it was right to say it, that then and at no time should any question of politics interfere with a bill that has to deal with the welfare of children. And when my friend from Lancaster said that the very best men in all the community are recruited from the farm, I say yes, and why? Because, under God's sun you can work twenty hours a day when you cannot work in the factory ten, and no one appreciates more than the city boy the advantage there is in living in the country, and you shall continue to recruit your corporation presidents and your Presidents of the United States from the farm until you have so legislated the workday for the boy in the city that he will be able to spend enough time out in the air that he can compete with the boy that comes from Virgin soil.

My friend from Delaware spoke about the arbitrary age of sixteen and said that some boys at sixteen can do more than some men at forty. What sort of sophiistry is this? If some boys at sixteen are more capable of manual labor and sustained physical effort than men of forty, why doesn't he increase the voters in his district by having the constitutional age of twenty-one reduced to sixteen, and look at all the extra votes he would get

My friend speaks of the children crying "Give us a chance to make a living." I live in a district containing more two-story houses than any other district in these United States, and I know the boys that work and the girls that work, having lived with them all my life, and in the district which my colleague Mr. Stern, and I represent, there is more congestion, more population and a higher proportion of working children under sixteen than in any other section of this Commonwealth.

What does this bill propose? It proposes that boys and girls in my district, and in every other district, under sixteen years of age, shall get a little governmental assistance. Why years ago mechanics, boys, girls and grownup women worked twelve and fifteen hours and do you know, gentlemen, that when the constitution of 1874 was ratified and promulgated, that there was an exception in that Constitution against special legislation in regard to labor, and in 1911 a very distinguished gentleman from Lancaster County, Mr. Davis, introduced and there was passed a resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution so that legislation might be had in regard to the working hours of the day. Why? Because you and every one of you in your municipalities supported ordinances that required—what? For men—grownup men—eight hours a day. Eight hours a day for men, and the supporters of that provision providing that no legislation should be passed regarding labor, succeeded, when the Supreme Court considered that question, in having it tuned down because it was unconstitutional.

That resolution was passed in 1911 and in 1913, and in November, 1913 that constitutional resolution only failed of passage by thirty-two thousand votes,—and why? Because labor in this State fell down on the job. If the laboring men had come to your district and to my district and solicited votes for the constitutional amendment, it would have passed, and I venture to say, Mr. Speaker, that if that amendment had been written into the constitution,—if that was part of our organic law—there would not be five votes in this House against an eight-hour day for adults. An here you are today—here you are considering the question of not giving to little children what you would not have dared to refuse to give to grownups.

Mr. Speaker, I think the matter has been carefully discussed, discussed this time, thank God, without any politics, discussed thoroughly, discussed openly, but we are bound to come back to the question,—shall we refuse to give a helping hand to children and give them less than we would give to adults. The farmer boy in this bill is excepted and therefore every farmer on this floor should feel that he would like to give to the boy in my district as much open air, as much chance to breathe in the vitality that comes from contact with pure sunshine as he would give his own boy and the only opposition to this bill comes from the manufacturer who has a selfish interest here involved. Women only work fifty-four hours. By the way I almost forgot—they would have you believe that the children will be turned out of their employment if the fifty-four hour amendment does not go in. Don't believe it. There is no competition between the child and the adult. If there was, there would not be a child labor bill. Child labor is cheap. Manufacturers have utilized it and kept children at their machines long hours of the day. The time has come when Pennsylvania, following New York, Illinois, Ohio and all the other States, shall say the future of the country, the men of to-morrow, depends on the children of today, and we will give them the continuation schools we will give them short hours, we will give them plenty of clean, fresh air, and that is all this bill is, and I think every man of this house appreciating the love we all have for children, appreciating that my neighbor's child is as dear to him as mine is to me, and that the farmer will know that the boy in the city, and that the girl in the city need a chance, and they will vote down this amendment and pass section four as it was originally inserted in the bill.

Mr. BEYER. Mr. Speaker, I did not intend to get into this discussion, but I certainly do feel after having listened to the words of sincerity on both sides of this question that I would be absolutely lacking in that sense of responsibility which your oath and my oath places upon us as members of this House if I didn't only for a few moments present to you some few of the thoughts that come to me in connection with the little of my own life's experience which teaches me to form a judgment upon this proposition now before the House.I heartily endorse the bill which is now before us. I received my first determination to stand up for a Child Labor Law some few years ago when in my own city the garment workers of Philadelphia were on a strike and when the conditions there were so deplorable when the two elements could not get together that the City Councils of my own city appointed a Board of Mediation of which I happened to be an humble member and we held meetings of that Board of Mediation and we had before us for several days and several weeks little girls that were employed in the sweatshops in the City of Philadelphia. It was then that I determined that if ever I had the opportunity and the chance I would raise my voice in defense of that little child. I would like to say to you, gentlemen, that the bill now before you is not a curtailment of the liberty and the opportunity of the boy and girl of this Commonwealth, but it is an act to regulate conditions in our great industrial plants in order that the boys and girls of this Commonwealth may grow up under healthy conditions and have the opportunity which all will receive if an act of this kind is enacted into law. I remember, as I stand here facing this gathering today, the story of a little girl that came before us in that Mediation Board meeting, who testified under the solemnity of her oath that many a day she was even denied the common decency of leaving the room for nature's purposes and that she had to stay there and sweat all day working into the hours of the night while many older people rested in beds and she did this in order that her employer for whom she was working might place her work on the market. I say to you, gentlemen, answering my friend from Delaware when he asks you "what difference does it make if you add three more hours in the week?" Then I respond in the same spirit "What difference does it make if you make it three hours less?" Let me remind you that these legislative matters are only enacted into law after any number of conferences and discussions between the elements on one side and on the other, and while I may not agree with every measure that the Executive of this Commonwealth is standing for, I honor him for the stand he has taken in this matter, because I know that he has dealt with it in a spirit of compromise, and while this bill is not what it might have been in its original form he has been man enough to deal with other elements in this Commonwealth to bring forth the bill that is now before us on which every man can stand with honor and with sincerity before his constituency at home. I want to say to you in addition that some reference has been made to the great industrial centers represented by my friends who have spoken before me. I doubt if there is a man in this House today that come from a section of a city in which the busy hives of industry are more prominent than they are in Kensington from whence I come, and I would be remiss in my duty if I hadn't said a few words on these proposed amendments, possibly for your guidance as well as my own.

Mr. CROMER. Mr. Speaker, I feel that it is my duty to say a word at this time. I have always claimed that any man or company of men or corporation who engaged in an industrial enterprise and, therefore, employed labor, are public benefactors and should be encouraged and not discouraged by too much legislative enactment. Coming as I do and having the honor to represent Allegheny County where we find the great industrial centers, I want to say that if the manufacturers of Allegheny County are opposed to this administration bill, the knowledge has not come to me. I would not like to see any child come up as I did; I was engaged in hard manual labor from the time I was eleven years of age and I would not like to have children come up as I had to come up. I want to say to you men that I am in favor of what is right; it is my earnest desire to do what is right before all men. I have not had the time to devote to this measure that I would like, as it is a measure of great importance, but I have not given it the attention that the administration has. The administration has gone into this matter thoroughly and listened to all sides of the question and have understood what the measure if passed means and that it is particularly for the best interests of all concerned or vitally interested if passed. I want to say that I think it is my duty to support the administration in this bill.

Mr. COX. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call the House's attention to one very important fact in this amendment that has been offered. In order to bring it properly to the attention of the House, I will read from Section 4 "No minor under sixteen years of age shall be permitted to work in about or in connection with any establishment or any occupation for more than fifty-one hours in any one week, or more than nine hours in any one day or before six o'clock in the morning or after eight o'clock in the evening of any day." If you will look at the amendment, you will not find the working hours designated before six o'clock or after eight o'clock; it is not embodied in that amendment. That is a very important feature and unless attention is given to it, we will have thrust upon us night work which we don't propose to stand for in this bill.

Mr. McCLINTOCK. Mr. Speaker, I think that this matter has been thoroughly discussed and that every member of the House understands it thoroughly. I therefore move the previous question.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman's motion is not seconded by the required number.

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I have had my attention called to this matter by my friend from Philadelphia in regard to the night labor proposition. I want to say to the members of the House that my impression is that it is provided for in the bill, but if it is not I pledge my support to put it in so that that need not be considered in voting on the adoption of my amendment. This is only an amendment to a section. There are a number of other sections of the bill yet to be considered.

I want to answer my friend from Philadelphia, Mr. Wilson. Like the legal mind he adheres to the technicality of the bill as an evidence that those who are sixteen years and under can work. Yes, legally; I say, yes; I don't deny it legally, but I do say that, practically, in all of your textile works, those under sixteen years of age will be thrown out of employment. Now, my friend has said that if I had authority from any other states that this is a fact I should produce it. I don't want to misquote the gentleman, but I think he said if I could he was willing to support my amendment. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen, I did not draw on my imagination to make that statement. I drew upon facts when I made that statement. That the effect of the bill as it stands without my amendment, will result in the textile works displacing nearly all of the children, practically all of them, or all the juveniles, practically, below the age of sixteen. I said so because in the States in which it has been tried this has been the result. This is the condition in Massachusetts.

It is also asserted by Mr. John P. Wood, and you know that he is one of the citizens of our State who more thoroughly understands this proposition or at least as well, as any other citizen in the State, whose reputation for integrity stands unchallenged. Howland Croft, of Camden, New Jersey, certifies to the same fact. They say that with some few exceptions, that it would be laughable to enumerate the cases the Child Labor Associations have been able to find, in all these industries, these industrial textile plants in the State of Massachusetts, where they have not dismissed or refused to employ minors under the gae of sixteen. The entire textile industry of Massachusetts has eliminated wage earners below the age of sixteen although the law presumes them still to be at work. The Washington, Arlington and the largest woolen worsted mills in the world don't employ a boy or girl under the age of sixteen. The whole group of cotton mills in New Bedford, Fall River and the Lowell districts have released all below the age of sixteen. The great worsted mills of Cleveland, Ohio, have done likewise. The farmer boy and the city boy has been, I won't say exploited, in the vulgar sense, but he has been exploited, but they have not reached down to the real crux of the proposition, when you come to apply it practically. My friend from Lancaster briefly stated what is largely true as regards the farmer boy. My friend from Philadelphia, Mr. Roney, said "Amen," and told you why, but my friend from Philadelphia, Mr. Roney, did not tell you why the city boy did not hold his place in this great social struggle. I think I can tell you why: I think it is because the city boy's environment when he is unemployed tends to degrade rather than elevate. Anyone of you know if you will look back that the boy from eight years upward that has real red American blood that marks him for a man will take advantage of opportunities to raise his condition. The boy is in all the mischief that he can find if he is not employed. While he is employed he is being educated, not book-learning, understand, book-learning does not make an educated man—man to be educated must have some book learning and also business experience. The city boy finds the pool room, the moving picture room or a cellar to play craps. Why? Because he must do something and when they undertake to impress you that it will benefit the city boy to have three or more hours in a week than he now has for idleness, thus it is not the place of employment that dwarfs his opportunity—it is the idle hours in bad environment that blasts and withers his intellect on the queston of health.. To say labor in a mill carrying bobbins requires more effort than it does to do farm work. The man who thinks that is the man who has had no experience in farm life. The truth is that so far as physical labor is concerned, the boy in farm life lifts heavier weights and does more things and harder things than those which occur in a textile or manufacturing proposition. There is not a proposition we have submitted to you that does not tend to show that a reduction of three hours in a week will benefit them morally or from a health standpoint, but the fact is written so plainly as I said before, by the lamp of experience. Are you going to vote whether you are going to put out of the textile mills of this State those children from the age of sixteen downward and there is not a man here who has attempted to show that the work in textile mills is onerous, heavy or injurious to health? Every man here knows that the textile workers of this State do not come from the residential part of your city, and as a matter of fact the health of the children that come from that section of the city where the sanitary conditions are not the best compared with the health of the children of the residential part of your city will show favorably with those who come from the section of the city who are engaged in textile work.

Now, my friends, I hope this question has been made clear. I hope you will vote for this amendment, because I know that it is in the interests of the working boy, the boy who wants to work. Because if you do not put this amendment in you will throw the boy out of work. If you do not put this amendment in and you find in your communities a lot of boys and girls out of work you carry the responsibility. I am only trying to do that which is best for the boys and girls of this State below the age of sixteen, and only experience tells me that if you leave my amendment out they are going to be out of work. No man must say I want to exploit child labor I want to help the juvenile and when father is gone keep that family circle intact and not send them to live on charity.

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to have the indulgence of the House just for a moment to answer the statements made by my friend from Delaware who bases his argument upon the "lamp of experience." He has stated to this House that statistics show in states where a similar bill is in force that it resulted in putting out of employment children under the age of sixteen. I hold in my hand a pamphlet and I have no doubt the other members of this House have a similar pamphlet which answers two questions put to the manufacturing interests in the States of Ohio, Massachusetts, Illinois and New York where similar acts are now in force, the question being, "Does the eight-hour day for children under sixteen benefit the child? Does the eight-hour day for children under sixteen hurt the employer?" With the indulgence of the House I merely want to call their attention to the replies to these questions not given by men who plead for the uplift of children, but replies from men engaged in this very business which my friend from Delaware says will be so demoralized by the enactment of this law. I read from this a reply from Oscar Heinman Company, manufacturers of silk, which states as follows:

Replying to your favor of the 3rd inst., we herewith state our experience with the eight-hour day for children under sixteen years.

We employ 500 girls; 200 of these are under sixteen years. We have had no difficulty in working adults longer hours than children. Most of the girls under sixteen start work at 7.30 A. M., and stop at 4 P. M. About one-quarter of the girls are under sixteen start work at 9 A. M., and quit at 5.30 P. M.

The short day has resulted in better work being done by the girls under sixteen years. We strongly advocate an eight-hour day for children under sixteen years, and sincerely hope that you will succeed in passing this law through your legislature.

Another from a company engaged in the mill business in New York, Smith and Kauffman.

We have your favor of the 3rd, requesting us to give you our experience with the law providing an 8-hour day for children under 16 years of age. We beg to say that we have absolutely no inconvenience with this law. As soon as it went into effect all employees under age of 16 years were told to work 8 hours a day, while the rest of the mill was running on a 10-hour basis. It made absolutely no difference to the other employees, has caused no inconvenience to the running of the mill and we are heartily in favor of a general law in all States that no children should be made to work more than 8 hours a day, and any manufacturer that claims it is impossible for them to work their machinery and their adults longer than children are begging the question.

And again, from the Jenkins Lace Works:

Replying to your favor of the third inst., in which you ask if children under sixteen have been eliminated from the establishment, beg to say we only employ three children under sixteen. We could employ children only eight hours and adults and machinery longer without any trouble.

And then from Massachusetts, another State called to the attention of this House, by my friend from Delaware. George H. Gilbert Manufacturing Company; and which also employs 1600 hands:

We employ as many children under sixteen as we did before the law went into effect. We find it possible to operate our machines by employing adults one set of hours and the children another without any serious inconvenience. We have no personal knowledge of any hardships having been worked in any appreciable number of cases by the eight-hour law.

And the same is true of Ohio, for the letter from the Northern Ohio Blanket Company:

"There is nothing in the claim that the eight-hour law will ruin business. It is a good thing and hasn't hurt us at all. I am in favor of all this progressive legislation."

So that if my friend bases his argument upon the "lamp of experience" there is the experience of men engaged in this very business which he says the enactment of this law will cripple, who advocate the passage of this law and who say from their own experience that it has caused no inconvenience but that it has rendered great good to the community.

BILL RECOMMITTED.

Mr. BODY. Mr. Speaker, I move that House Bill No. 610, File Folio 4319, entitled:

An Act to amend an act approved the twenty-fourth day of July one thousand nine hundred thirteen entitled "An Act defining commodities regulating the sale thereof and providing penalties for violation hereof" on page 18 of today's calendar, be recommitted to the Committee on Agriculture for the purpose of a hearing.

Mr. HERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

MOTION TO PLACE BILL ON CALENDAR.

Mr. CROMER. Mr. Speaker, is it in order to offer a motion at this time?

The SPEAKER. It is in order.

Mr. CROMER. Mr. Speaker, I move that House Bill No. 1089, File Folio 4349, entitled:

An Act to prohibit the sentencing of offenders to religious denominational or sectarian institutions and providing penalties be placed upon the calendar notwithstanding the negative recommendation of the committee.

Mr. HAMILTON. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. CROMER. Mr. Speaker, the bills that I have presented do not seem to meet with the approval of the House. I had one defeated last night by a very small vote. I had another defeated this morning, but I always play my string to the end and do my duty as I see it. The House cannot help but acknowledge that I certainly have a cheerful disposition and there is no malice in my makeup whatever. This bill is known as the Juvenile Court Bill, and I wish you would look it over fully, File Folio 4349, and see if you want this bill on the calendar or not. I want to say that I have petitions here signed by hundreds of men who think this is a good bill.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the title of the bill for information.

The Clerk then read the title as follows:

An Act to prohibit the sentencing of offenders to religious denominational or sectarian institutions and providing penalties

Mr. STEIN. Mr. Speaker I regret that I am compelled to differ with my colleague from Allegheny, the hero with the "bloody shirt," but like Garibaldi of old he will have to take a third licking on the one day, if as he says, he has had two already today. Now, gentlemen, the bill under consideration was very thoroughly discussed before the Judiciary General Committee, and I am satisfied that every man in this House is intelligent enough and capable enough to decide for himself as to the merit or lack of merit in this bill. Now, this business of placing every negative bill on the calendar it seems to me is going a little too far, and we, as sensible men, must have some confidence in the conduct of our committees. I do not care to enter into any discussion of the merits or demerits of the bill, but I can only say that the Judiciary General Committee, in the presence of the gentleman from Allegheny, gave him a very careful hearing, and we decided in our united wisdom that there was not enough merit in the bill to warrant its being placed on the calendar.

I would like to ask the gentleman here this evening to stand by the action of the committee, the same as we would expect to stand by the action of any other committee.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was not agreed to.

Section 5 All acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith be and the same are hereby repealed

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, this bill is one of the very few bills that has come from the Committee of which I have the honor to be Chairman that I am opposed to. The members of this House have received from time to time a great number of communications on the Full Crew Bill, but no other bill has received as much attention from the people of this Commonwealth, outside of the Full Crew Bill, than this bill levying a local tax on automobiles. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, this bill, of itself, I think should be defeated, but the bill, itself, suggests to this House what is a very important proposition in the nature of taxation of luxuries of life. The automobile owners have proclaimed in their various kinds of communications to this House that they are unduly taxed. That is not true. A man who has a cow or a horse in his field must pay a four mill tax in his return for that cow or that horse in his aggregate, but the very character of this bill, however, defeats its good purpose.

If the automobile owner were to return the value of his machine to his county commissioner on which he would pay the four mill tax, it would be a very wise and very proper bill, but as the automobile owner now pays his license tax to the State to tax him again for the purpose of local taxation, would to my mind be a very improper method of taxation. Therefore this bill in its present shape is an unfortunate and an improper suggestion to the Legislature in that whilst automobile owners pay a four mill tax on the value of their machines, to impose on them a local tax would in my mind, be entirely improper. Therefore Mr. Speaker I ask that the House defeat this bill and then when we have our new Constitution, which every member of this House will vote for, and we have our legitimate and our proper and our adequate means of taxation, then the State will have so much money there will never be any complaint about contributions to charitable institutions.

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I move that further consideration of this bill be postponed indefinitely.

Mr. WILDMAN. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted for further consideration to the Committee on Judiciary General.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman's motion is out of order.

Mr. STEIN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask inasmuch as this bill pertains to cities of the second class only, with the consent of my friend from Delaware and my friend from Philadelphia Mr. Roney that the motion be not put for an indefinite postponement, but that instead thereof, the motion of my friend from Lurezne, Mr. Adams, may prevail in order that this bill may go back to the Committee.

POINT OF ORDER.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point of order.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, my point of order is that the motion made by the gentleman from Luzerne is out of order.

The SPEAKER. The point of order is sustained.

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I withdraw my motion.

Mr. WILDMAN. Mr. Speaker, I withdraw my second to the gentleman's motion.

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Judiciary General.

Mr. STEIN. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was not agreed to.

Mr. STEIN. Mr. Speaker, in view of the misunderstanding that his arisen in this matter, I would ask the gentlemen of the House to consent to the motion that I now make, that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Municipal Corporations.

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

POINT OF ORDER.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point of order.

Mr. RONEY. My point of order is, the bill having been agreed to by the House on third reading————

The SPEAKER. The bill was not agreed to by the House on third reading.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was not agreed to.

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I move that the bill be postponed indefinitely.

Mr. WILDMAN. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading or House Bill No. 1098, entitled:

A Supplement to an act approved the nineteenth day of March one thousand nine hundred nine entitled "An Act to regulate the practice of osteopathy in the State of Pennsylvania to provide for the establishment of a State Board of Osteopathic Examiners to define the powers and duties of said Board of Osteopathic Examiners to provide for the examining and licensing of osteopaths in this State and to provide penalties for the violation of this act"

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to have the sponsor of this bill explain it.

Mr. LAULER. Mr. Speaker, and gentlemen of the House, I will explain the purpose of this bill. Bill No. 1098 will permit students who were in reputable colleges of Osteopathy, recognized by the State Board of Pennsylvania, Osteopathic Examiners to come before the State Board and present their credentials, which must be satisfactory before the applcant may receive a license to practice in this State.

The 1912 clause of the act of 1909, which took effect in January 1912 changed the requirements in such a manner that it was impossible for senior students graduating in that year to qualify in this state, inasmuch as graduation is always at the end of the College year, i. e. the month of May.

This supplement will merely advance the date of the 1912 clause to read July instead of January, and has the written sanction of the President of the State Board of Osteopathic Examiners of this State. The 1912 clause of of the 1909 act worked a hardship on the students then in college for the reason that they were under the impression that they would be permitted to qualify in this, their native state, at the time of their graduation, and were under that impression at the time of their entrance in the Osteopathic Colleges.

This act will in no way permit unqualified persons to even attempt to enter this State and those who do enter under this amendment must show the qualification of section eight of the 1909 act regulating the practice of Osteopathy in the State to the satisfaction of the State Board of Osteopathic Examiners.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 987 (Senate No. 322), entitled:

An Act requiring payment by the county of costs of prosecution in certain criminal cases.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WALTER. Mr. Speaker, I notice that this bill makes it easy to get costs out of the county in cases of non pros. The litigants in the Quarter Sessions get costs, but this would make it mandatory upon the county to pay. I have the honor to serve as district attorney in my county, and I know something about the abuses in this matter, and it seems to me that the interests of the public would be safeguarded if this bill were defeated.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. BROSIUS. Mr. Speaker, I would like the gentleman from Lancaster County to explain this bill, wherein it is different from the present law and what changes it makes.

Mr. HESS. Mr. Speaker, for the gentleman's information I would state that it increases the appropriation to agricultural fairs. It increases the appropriation for the encouragement of agriculture. For instance, a fair that heretofore received an appropriation from the State of one thousand dollars will now receive an appropriation of two thousand dollars if the fair association itself raises an equal amount and pays it on exhibits and to exhibitors, exclusive of trials of speed. If the association does not pay an equivalent amount they would not, of course, receive the entire amount of two thousand dollars.

Mr. BROSIUS. Mr. Speaker, I wish to further interrogate the gentleman from Lancaster.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Lancaster permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. HESS. Mr. Speaker, certainly.

Mr. BROSIUS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman what difference it makes providing the agricultural association is only organized this year and holds its first exhibition.

Mr. HESS. Mr. Speaker, if it is a new association they would have to hold two annual exhibitions before they would come under the provisions of this bill, if a new association. In other words, the purpose of that is to prevent organizations with mushroom growth taking advantage of this act and incorporating for the simple purpose of taking advantage of this act.

Mr. BROSIUS. Mr. Speaker, we have had an agricultural association in Brookville, Pa., for about fifteen or twenty years but fell out one year and last year we did not have an association, but we are starting up again this year and for that reason, under this bill, we would not be entitled to anything at all. We could not get any appropriation from the State or from the county under this bill. I am opposed to the bill for that reason and some other reasons. The other reasons are that there are too many things connected with this bill in order to make it so that the county would be allowed to pay any appropriation to the agricultural association whatever; and I am opposed to this bill and hope that the House will vote it down.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, if there is one thing that Philadelphia is proud of it is that up in the northeastern extremity of our city we have two hundred members of the State Grange and I would therefore like to know how the forty-one members from Philadelphia should vote on this bill and I ask the agricultural representative from Philadelphia, from the Thirty-fifth Ward, to explain this bill.

Mr. HESS. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I will yield the floor to the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Dunn, in a moment. Under the present act the association in the County of Jefferson would not be eligible for any appropriation from the State so that their condition will not be changed at all. The purpose of this bill is simply to foster and encourage agriculture. In these days when there has been for a period of years a continual migration of the population from the rural districts to the city communities, in this day when the proposition of providing sufficient breadstuffs is indeed a serious proposition, in this day when the high cost of living is puzzling even legislative bodies, I feel that this is a highly commendable measure. Nothing can be done in the gricultural sections that will encourage the young men and young women to remain on the farm any more than to stimulate their interest through the mediums of such institutions as the agricultural fair. We, of the agricultural sections, see the enthusiasm that is aroused through their corn exhibits and their fancy work exhibits and dairy exhibits, and this bill simply increases the encouragement of agriculture as exemplified by agricultural fairs and I trust you will all support this bill.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Dunn.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Dunn, permit himself to be interrogated.

Mr. DUNN. Certainly, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman from the Thirty-fifth Ward how this bill would affect the price of turnips

Mr. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, in reply to my good friend from Philadelphia, I desire to state that this bill would not affect or increase the cost of raising turnips. This bill———

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to further interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Dunn, permit himself to be further interrogated.

Mr. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, when I get through. Mr. Speaker, coming from one of the largest agricultural districts in the State of Pennsylvania where some of the best farmers of this Commonwealth live, and where one of the greatest county fairs exists in the Commonwealth, I am heartily in favor of this bill introduced by my friend from Lancaster. It will encourage the farmers of my district to grow larger turnips, larger heads of cabbage—more than what is in this house—

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to further interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, when I get through. When this bill goes through and the members of my country district are encouraged to increase the products in that county fair and when I come on here later and ask the members of this General Assembly to help me to get three hundred thousand dollars to repair the county roads in my district, thus making the roads in such a condition that the farmers after being encouraged to raise these products might bring them down to the district where my good friend Mr. Roney lives and help reduce the high cost of living.

Mr. GEISER. Mr. Speaker, I do not know what country district in Philadelphia I represent, but I am for the bill.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

QUESTION OF INFORMATION.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of information.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, is this bill on the question of turnips, as the gentleman from the 35th Ward has said, or on the question of cabbages?

The SPEAKER. The gentleman's remarks will be placed in the Journal.

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I hope the house is not going to allow this bill to be laughed out as a foolish proposition. It is a very important proposition and the Grange Associations all over the State are asking for this bill and I think my friend from Philadelphia will vote for it.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, in order that you might understand the purpose of this bill, it is amending the act of 1897 as amended, known as the Brooks High License Law. It was my intention, when I first amended this act, to only include the cities of the first class. The gentlemen here who represent cities of the second class asked me to include in it cities of the second class.

This takes five per cent. of the retail license fee retained by the city for those of the first and second class, and it goes into the pension fund of these cities so there will be no misunderstanding.

Mr. STERN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Dunn, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, yes sir.

Mr. STERN. Mr. Speaker, how much of the license fee is now retained by the cities of the first class

Mr. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, one thousand dollars is paid into the city under the Brook's Hikh License Law; an additional one hundred dollars which as amended under the Brook's High License Law for cities of the first class, goes to the State of Pennsylvania. One thousand dollars is retained by the city.

Mr. STERN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to further interrogate the gentleman and ask him if he knows about the present financial condition of the Police Pension Fund of Philadelphia?

Mr. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, I do. It is in a very deplorable condition. From the last annual report it shows that they are losing from forty to fifty thousand dollars annually by the increased number of dependents going on that pension roll.

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. Speaker, this bill provides for the taking out of the State's fund five per cent of certain moneys paid therein. It seems to me that this is a very unfortunate time to take money out of our pockets for the purpose of pensioning anybody, let alone the pensioning of policemen. We have been passing through very hard times in this day and there is a vast army of our people out of employment. There are thousands and tens of thousands of people who have been suffering for the want of sufficient food. Families are starving; business men are struggling on the verge of financial ruin and now in the face of that we propose to take part of our funds in order to pension policemen in accordance with the provisions of this bill. Pensions are wrong in the very start-out. Why should we spend this money? Money that we need so badly in our homes; money that we need so badly for our hospitals; and instead of spending this money for our hospitals we are to leave our sick people go and spend it for the purpose of pensioning policemen. Such a bill surely would not have the dignity of statesmenship or of good common sense. There must be a day of reckoning in these days of raising salaries and pensioning different people. What right have we to pension these policemen when our hospitals are wanting help?

Mr. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Westmoreland? I would like to ask the gentleman where he can find in the amendment of this act that this money will come from the State?

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. Speaker, it provides "that in cities of the first and second class five per cent of the amount so received for the use of such cities shall be paid into the Police Pension Fund."

Mr. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, that is cities of the first and second class alone; it is only those cities.

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. Speaker, assuming that that is taken out of the fund of that particular city from the same sources that the bill originally contained, how much better is it? None whatever.

Mr. PHILLIPS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Dunn, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, yes sir.

Mr. PHILLIPS. Mr. Speaker, this includes townships and boroughs and cities. Therefore, it is not only confined to the cities that Mr. Dunn talks about, but also applies to us country fellows, considerably. I would like to know if this is the truth.

Mr. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, I will answer the gentleman that it does not effect the townships or boroughs.

Mr. PHILLIPS. Mr. Speaker, then I will read section 2, "On and after the passage of this act each person or persons licensed by the proper court in townships boroughs and all cities in addition to the license fee now fixed by law pay to the treasurers of the respective counties, etc." Now, Mr. Speaker, does not that include boroughs?

Mr. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, what the gentlemen is reading is the original act, not as amended. That is in the act at the present time. We are amending that Brook's High License Act and confining that to cities of the first and second class.

On the question recurring.

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

The bill as amended was then agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended lie over for printing.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 337, entitled:

An Act to amend an act approved the thirtieth day of January one thousand eight hundred seventy-four entitled "A further supplement to the act regulating elections in this Commonwealth"

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. WALTER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the sponsor of this bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Luzerne, Mr. Powell permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. POWELL. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. WALTER. Mr. Speaker, as I understand this bill it will require all of the counties in this Commonwealth to pay five dollars a day to the registration assessor.

Mr. POWELL. Mr. Speaker, if it goes through, yes.

Mr. KUHN. Mr. Speaker, and gentlemen of the House, I am opposed as I think every member in this House should be to this measure. The fact is that this House in practically every bill that has been coming up has been increasing the wages of the men who are doing service for the township, or the county or the borough. It seems to me that we should look on the other side of this question. I am not in favor, as I believe that this Hosue is not in favor of increasing the pay of registration assessors from three to five dollars. The work is not arduous work. The work is not work that requires any great amount of ability, but it is work that the ordinary man can do.

The ordinary wage earner of the day is not receiving three dollars per day and to increase the pay of the various assessors of this Commonwealth, I think gentlemen of the House is asking too much. I as one am going to ask you gentlemen of the House to vote against the same.

Mr. POWELL. Mr. Speaker, I want to explain the purpose of this bill. This bill is known as the registry assessor bill. The registry assessor is the man who is assigned to his respective polling place on the sixty-first and sixty-second day prior to the election. They are to sit to receive the party affiliations as assigned by the different men. Now, Mr. Speaker and gentlemen, I might state that in cities of the first class the registry assessor is appointed and receives ten dollars per day. In cities of the third class the registry assessor receiver five dollars per day. He is assigned to his polling place on the sixty-first and the sixty-second day and is allowed a day for making his return; he is allowed five dollars on primary day; he is allowed five dollars for making his return he is also allowed five dollars a day on election day and five dollars for making his returns the following day. The registry assessor in boroughs and townships receives but two dollars and fifty cents a day on the sixty-first and sixty-second days prior to election, he receives two dollars and fifty cents for making his returns and is compelled to go to the voting place on primary day and receives no compensation whatsoever. On election day he must be at the polls and receives but one dollar and is allowed nothing for making his return.

Now this bill was sent to me by the registry assessors of Luzerne county asking me whether or not I would not try to do something to help them. Now, gentlemen there is the case in a nutshell. They think that if a man in the third class cities is entitled to five dollars a day, they think he should receive the same amount for the same amount of work in boroughs and townships.

Mr. RUDISILL. Mr. Speaker, I am opposed to this bill for the reason that there is no necessity for the increase, and it only adds a burden to the taxpayer.

Mr. KUNKLE. Mr. Speaker, and gentlemen of the House, I am fearing that if I vote for this bill and come home to my home county they will call me such a splendid politictian and salary grafter, that they will all send me to Washington, therefore I dare not vote for this bill.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

An Act to repeal section fifteen of an act entitled "An Act relating to the election of county treasurers and for other purposes" approved May twenty-seven one thousand eight hundred and forty-one (Pamphlet Laws four hundred)

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That section fifteen of an Act of Assembly entitled "An Act relating to the election of county treasurers and for other purposes" approved May twenty-seventh one thousand eight hundred and forty-one (Pamphlet Laws four hundred) which section provides that an inquest super visum corporis may be held by a justice of the peace in certain cases be and the same is hereby repealed

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WALTER. Mr. Speaker, as I understand this bill it will prevent the Justices of the Peace from holding inquests. I think there are some counties in this State in which the office of Coroner is vacant almost all the time. In that case there woud be no officer of the law to hold such inquest, if one were deemed necessary. It seems to me that this an unwise piece of legislation and no harm is done by the existing law. In counties where the Coroner is easily accessible, he holds the inquest. If a justice of the peace holds the inquest, the Coroner has the power to supersede him. It seems to me that this is a disturbance of existing law that is unwise and unnecessary and would not do anybody any good, but might, in some instances, seriously interfere with the administration of justice.

Mr. NEVILLE. Mr. Speaker, this is an act to repeal a section of an act relating to the election of county treasurers. In that act there is a section providing for justices of the peace to hold coroner's inquests. There is nothing in the law providing any salary for a justice of the peace for holding a coroner's inquest. It is an old law, passed in 1841, and is obsolete. I ask the gentlemen to vote for this repeal.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 977 (Senate Bill No. 121), entitled:

An Act regulating the sale of chicory mixed with coffee and providing a penalty

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to,

On the question

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, it seems to me, after we have spent years in trying to get a Pure Food Law into effect in this State, that we ought to very cautious in passing this bill, as the bill provides the mixing of chicory with coffee. Now if any of you have read this bill, you would come to the conclusion that it is all chicory and no coffee. I am not familiar as to who the chicory trust of this State is, but there is some motive back of this that we ought to be very careful about considering. After the demonstration we had here to-day on the subject of beverages, it is not in good keeping for us, as members of this House, on the same day to legalize another beverage called the chicory-coffee beverage. When you go into a hotel now and the waitress comes up and asks you whether you will have hot tea or cold tea, sweet milk or buttermilk, coffee or cocoa, it seems to me that ought to appease the apetite of any man. Are we going to add to the burden of the waitress by calling for chicory and coffee, chicory pure and coffee pure, half chicory and half coffee or half coffee and no chicory? Now, it says here that if you sell chicory in a hotel, you must have a big placard up in the inside of the hotel,— a big sign. Instead of saying that this is a hotel, it says we sell chicory and coffee here too. I hope the members of this House will vote this bill down; it is ridiculous.

Mr. ADAMS Mr Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Armstrong.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Armstrong, Mr. Milliron, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, yes sir.

Mr. ADAMS .Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman whether or not this beverage by any other name would taste the same?

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, that is beyond my comprehension.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. President, I have heard some of the Senators are wondering what these bills are. This bill merely extends the time for registration to the first week in September instead of the last week in August, and I think it is a convenience for people who are called out of town during the summer months, or away on a vacation. Every Senator who will read the act will find it is a very meritorious proposition.

Section 2 That all acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. President, this is a bill repealing nomination papers, and there is a clause in here which reenacts the question of nomination before the primaries. It is a mere matter of changing the time of filing nomination papers for the formation of a new party. We have had this bill before and it has been threshed out in Committee. I think it is a bill that is satisfactory to every locality in the State and it gives a new party an opportunity to organize a party six months, three months or four months in advance of the coming election.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the article?

Mr. J. O. CAMPBELL. Mr Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendment

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend Article 1 by adding the following to be marked and known as section 108.

Section 108. The provisions of this act shall not apply to any employer other than a municipality, township or other governmental agency who employs less than five employes, in any one period of twenty-four hours.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. J. O. CAMPBELL. Mr. Speaker, this amendment is offered to House Bill No. 929 as an additional section to the first article. House Bill No. 929 is the general bill of that series, which if enacted will be known as the Workmen's Compensation Law. The amendment is as follows:

Amend Article 1 by adding the following to be marked and known as Section 108:

Section 108. The provisions of this act shall not apply to any employer other than a municipality, township or other governmental agency who employs less than five employes, in any one period of twenty-four hours.

In order to present the scope and the reasons underlying this proposed amendment, it is necessary to briefly state some of the provisions of Workmen's Compensation bill. The first article defines inter alia the terms employer and employe in the broadest, most inclusive term which the English of the author will permit, and includes the parties and their employment, where the employment is in the scope of the employers' business. Article two wipes out those defenses known as the common law defenses, the assumption of risk, the fellow servant rule, and contributory negligence rule except that the employer may introduce evidence to the jury tending to prove that the accident was caused by the drunkenness or reckless indifference to danger of the employe injured.

Article three provides that there shall be a presumption that the employer and employe are under the terms of the Compensation Act; under the terms of the compensation feature of the Act. It then provides that after January 1st, 1916 any employe within the terms of the compensation feature of the Act who is injured in the regular course of his employment, whether upon the property of his employer or out of the property of his employer, shall be entitled to receive weekly indemnity as set forth in a subsequent section of the Act that being based upon the seriousness and extent of the injury. It further provides that either the employer or employe may elect to remain without the compensation provisions of the Act and in the case of an accident happening when either the employer or employe has selected to stay out the employe may bring suit but the employer is deprived of his common law defenses. Now the provisions of this amendment would limit the application of the whole Act to those employers employing more than five men. It is for the benefit of the small employer of labor. A subsequent bill in the series provides for an insurance feature whereby an employer may insure his risk under the main bill. The objection to the insurafnce feature, so far as the small employer is concerned, I take it, is that it would be practically impossible for the Department having charge of the insurance feature to notify the small employers in the State to collect the insurance premiums. There are so many employments which arise on short notice and there are so many employers who, although informed of the provisions of the insurance feature of the Act, would neglect to come in under it and there are so many cases of poverty, as you must remember the employer is not always rich, and because of this poverty he would be unable to carry this accident insurance on his employe. Let us consider a concrete case: Suppose a journeyman carpenter, making wages as a carpenter, decides to build a house or barn or chicken-coop for his neighbor, and in the exercise of that work he employs a carpenter to assist him. In the carrying on of that work the employe who is assisting as carpenter is injured through no fault of the employer but by his own absolute negligence. If the employer, the carpenter, becoming the contractor, knows of the Compensation Act and knows of the insurance feature of it, he may provide insurance and he may have to set aside his own accident insurance in order that he may insure this employe whom he has employed for a short time. But suppose he does not know anything of the insurance feature, which I contend would be the case in tens of thousands of small employers. He will not be protected and will not have any insurance on this assistant and when the injury happens he will be liable to a weekly indemnity that will have to be paid to that employe, brought about through no fault of his own whatever, and that indemnity extending through a series of weeks even into years, depending upon the extent of the the Bill, in that case the employe has elected to remain outside of the provisions of the compensation feature of the Bill, in that case the employe sues the employer, if he wishes to recover, as he does today and the employer may not set up either any defense of the judgment or any litigation of the damages . The fact that the accident was due entirely to the negligence or carelessness of the employe and the fact that the employer had nothing whatever to do with it still remains. Now is that fair to that employer?

The sixth bill in the series provides an exemption of agricultural and domestic employment. I approach the discussion of this part of the bill with considerable confidence of judgment but temerity in expression: Confidence of judgment because I believe that it is almost the unanimous opinion of the Bar of this State, and my confidence also comes of the peculiar position in which this bill is placed in the series; temerity because it comes from the Attorney General. Mr. Speaker, I contend with all the force that I have that that bill is unconstitutional. I contend further that it is put in the position it is put because it is unconstitutional and because the Attorney General believes it to be unconstitutional. It is unconstitutional because it contravenes the provisions of the constitution as contained in Article 3, section 7 on which we hear so much comment: "The General Assembly shall not pass any local or special law regulating labor, etc." "Nor shall the General Assembly indirectly enact such special or local law by the partial repeal of a general law."

I don't care to get into a constitutional argument with my friend here, the sponsor of this bill (indicating Mr. W. H. Wilson) across the aisle. As a very experienced legislator he has become an expert in constitutional interpretation and if he needs any backing why, he has got the man over in the Attorney General's office whose fame has reached the utmost limits of this Commonwealth and had before he became the Attorney General. I feel that it is my duty to my constituents to raise this question. Surely the segregation of domestics and of farmers, even though it apply all over the State, is a special regulation; it is forming a special class. I realize that the courts have extended the operation of that section of the Constitution until it has become quite broad but I also contend that the courts have not gone to the extent of that Act that they will decide that that law is not special or class legislation.

Mr. WALTER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Butler, Mr. Campbell, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. J. O. CAMPBELL. Mr. Speaker, yes sir.

Mr. WALTER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman to state to the House if, in his opinion, the exemption which he proposes in his amendment to be inserted is constitutional or otherwise?

Mr. J. O. CAMPBELL. Mr. Speaker, I may be a little slow but I will come to that presently. I will come to the cittation of cases on that. As far as I am concerned I would prefer to have the farm labor exemption in the main act. It has not been placed there because I believe the Attorney General considered that it was of very doubtful constitutionality and if the courts should declare it unconstitutional, it would effect the whole act. I should prefer the whole act to stand or fall with the exemption of any branch. I think it is as important a feature as the other feature. The farmer and the domestic ought to be exempt. In the short time I had last night, between excitement here, to look over some of the Compensation Acts of the different states. I found a positive exemption of farm and domestic labor in the States of Arizona, California, Kansas,—(as to agriculture alone), Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New York, Washington and West Virginia. I found an exemption of employment under less than five men, just as this amendment proposes, in the Compensation Acts of the following states, Connecticut, Nebraska, Rhode Island, Texas, Wisconsin (being four instead of five). Mr. Speaker, in addition to the exemption of farm labor, I contend just as strongly that the small merchant should be exempt. We have tens of thousands of small merchants and small employers of labor over this State, men who pay their employes, in a great many cases, as much as they make themselves, and yet they bear all the burden of the risk of the business. Is it fair that they should be compelled to drop their own accident insurance to take care of the accident insurance of their employes? I submit that it is not right.

Mr. HACKETT. Mr. Speaker, inasmuch as this bill before this House is a very important measure I would respectfully request the Speaker to have a little better order in this House.

The SPEAKER. With the assistance of the members the Chair will try to maintain order.

Mr. CAMPBELL. Mr. Speaker, this may be a little dry argument to the members but I am sure I will be leading up to the amendment that I have proposed. I say is it fair or is it constitutional to take the property of the employer and give it to another man, an employe, if an accident occurs or because of injury, when there is no liability shown on the part of the employer. It cannot be done because he as an employer has just the same rights under the Constitution and the Bill of Rights that the employe has; he has the same right to the protection of his property that the employe has.

The justification of the one, and I am heartily in favor of the compensation act, is this, in the first place it is justified on the ground that the employe is taking serious risks of injury which the employer is not taking. In other words it is justified because the employment is hazardous, and I want to say in a great many states the act applies to only hazardous undertaking. It is justified because the employer is presumed in a large employment to make considerable money out of his employes. The employe has to take all the risks of a hazardous occupation. The employer has not that risk. The courts have held that the legislature was justified in enacting a law, taking from the employer in those undertakings his property, and giving it to the employe who has been injured. There is another reason for the justification of the Compensation act, and that is on the grounds that the cost of protection may be placed in the cost of production. I come from a city in which there is an establishdent employing about 8000 men. I had a talk with the manager of the plant on the compensation act or proposed acts, and he told me that his company was not opposed to a compensation act, that they would like to have one. He says that at the present time, they have no means of knowing how much money will be taken to pay damage claims. There is no way in which that can be included in the overhead charges, and the damages that one plant may have to pay, may be largely in excess of the damages that a competitor may have to pay; but in a compensation scheme with the amount fixed, it can be placed in the overhead charges and the cost of production, and the public pays it. Now, those are the only two reasons upon which the compensation scheme can be justified.

Now, I ask you if that applies to the small employer of labor? Does it apply to the farmer, the domestic, or small merchant? Are those undertakings hazardous? Can those employers place the cost of their protection in the cost of production? Now if we compare conditions one hundred years ago with today we can see why this demand has arisen for compensation features. One hundred years ago the manufacturing was of a very small amount but it was done by hand. The employer worked alongside the employe. He was taking the same risks. There was not the unemployed class that there is today. If a man did not like his employment here, he could go over there and get other employment. To-day, with our concentrated population, our increased number of dangerous machines, the high tension power that is used, the fact that the employer is in an office and the employe down in a works with no relationship, no personal contact, has brought about the demand for this act. One hundred years ago, there was no transportation question. To-day the public is constantly demanding faster time, and the railroads attempt to meet their demand. The safety of the employe is dependent upon the physical and mental condition of an operator, one to two hundred miles away. There is no personal relationship, no personal contract between the employer and the employe. Now, in these domestic, and farm, and small merchant employments there is that personal contact. They work side by side, just as they did one hundred years ago. There is not the hazardous employment that there is in the others. I contend that the scheme is not justified as to the small employment; as to the small merchant, the farmer and the domestic.

Now the amendment has a precedent. In 1891 this Legislature passed what is known as the "Anthracite Mining Act." The first section of which is as follows: "That this act shall apply to every anthracite coal mine or colliery in the Commonwealth, provided the said mine or colliery employs more than ten persons." That was a general act for the anthracite business, and it is a special exemption for largely the same reason that I am advocating an exemption here. In 1893 this same Legislature passed an act known as "The Bituminous Coal Act." The last article is a repeal. The article prior to the last in the last section is as follows: "The provisions of this act shall not apply to any mine employing less than ten persons inside the mine in any one period of twenty-four hours." Now there is no difference between the wording of these two, except that one is in the affirmative and one in the negative, and one excludes the twenty-four hour provision, and there is no difference between the amendment I propose and these two provisions of the mining codes, except that I have reduced the number to five instead of ten. I might place it higher but I want to be reasonable.

Mr. WILDMAN in the Chair.

Now, as I said, I do not care to go into a legal argument on the question, but the anthracite mining act came before the Supreme Court in 1895, and the question was raised as to its constutionality on two or three grounds, one of which was this provision, section one In the case of Durkin vs The Kingston Coal Company, 171 Pa., 193, one section of the syllabus is as follows:

"The Anthracite Coal Act of June 2, 1891, inasmuch as it relates to all anthracite coal mines, and properly and legally defines what shall be regarded as such mines, is not a local act and is not unconstitutional as a whole."

Now let me read the last page of the decision, the decision is by Justice Williams on page 204.

"We are not prepared to hold the act of 1891 to be unconstitutional as a whole. It relates to all anthracite coal mines and defines what shall be regarded as such mines. Coal may be taken out of the ground by farm owners for their own use, or it may be taken in such small quantities and for such local purposes as to make the application of the mining laws to the operations so conducted not only unnecessary but burdensome to the extent of absolute prohibition. Such limited or incipient operations are not within the mischief, to remedy which the mining laws were devised. They are ordinarily conducted for purposes of exploration or for family supply, and ought not to be classed with operations conducted for the supply of the public. The business of coal mining like that of insurance or banking may be defined by the Legislature. The definition found in the act of 1891 seems to us reasonable, to be within the fair limits of a legislative definition, and to exclude only such operations as are too small to make the general regulations provided by the act applicable to them. The ground on which we place our judgment is not therefore, that the act is local, but that the provisions of it which we have considered are in violation of the bill of rights."

This refers to other sections of the act.

The act is not held unconstitutional as a whole because of the exemptions that are in it as they apply to small undertakings which if they apply to them would be burdensome even to the extent of prohibition. Could you find better words to fit the argument for the exemption of the small employer? The application of this act to the small merchant will be burdensome to the extent in many cases of prohibition. In addition to that, it is said in this case that it is not; "such limited or incipient operations are not within the mischief to remedy which the mining laws were devised." I contend that the case of the small employer is not within the mischief of the hazardous occupation for which this act is devised.

Now, Mr. Speaker, I wish to hurry to a close, but I wish to impress upon the members that here is an opportunity to insert an amendment which has just as much chance of being constitutional as Bill No. 6. It has considerably more chance because there is a case here in which the Supreme Court passed upon a like exemption in a general act. I want to, at the expense of your time, put some instances, some specific instances of the working of this act as it stand now. I have spoken of the small merchant. Let us take the case of the small merchant. How many thousands of grocers are there in this State who have small stores scattered throughout every city in the state? They are in all of the country districts and they employ possibly one clerk and possibly two. They work together. They come around at the same time in the morning and spend the hours of the day together. The employer does just as much work, just as hard work as the employe. Suppose that he sends his employe out on an errand to deliver goods, and that employe in crossing the street, is careless and is hit by an automobile, a wagon or a street car—the employer is not there, has had nothing to do with it. And yet, I say to you that under these bills as they are drawn that employer is liable. If he is insured, the insurance company will pay it but it may cost so much that he may have no insurance in order that he may insure his employe. If he is not insured either because of ignorance of the provisions of the act or because of indifference or carelessness, or because of poverty he must go down in his pocket and out of the income from that store weekly pay that man. And if the employe has exercised the right which he has of remaining without the exemption, the employer must stand a suit at law without the opportunity of presenting his defenses.

Now, gentlemen, that is not fair. I agree with you that it would be very right and proper to divide the cost of insurance for that employee among the people of the State, but I contend it is not fair to lift it on to the shoulders of the one man who happens to be the employer. You look at the case of the farmer. He employes a man. May be harvest comes on and he wants a hand and he goes and gets one. He knows nothing about this compensation insurance. This insurance department knows nothing about the fact that he is going to have an employee in August. He will have no insurance, you can rest on that; and if that farm hand goes to the barn and decides he wants to tease the horse and he gets kicked, or if he goes to the field the employer is not with him and he is careless in some way and sticks his hand into the machinery, that farmer must pay this weekly indemnity unless there has been an election to stay without the compensation features of the act in which case he must meet an action of damages without the privilege of presenting the negligence of his employee as a defense, unless he can allege it was reckless indifference to danger.

Now somebody here says it does not apply to the farmer. I want to impress upon you that I am proceeding on the theory that this bill is unconstitutional. You have got a bill there that everybody I heard state anything about it thinks it is unconstitutional, a bill put in the shape that it is, because the Attorney General thinks it is unconstitution ;and here is a chance of putting something in that the Courts have passed as it applied to the industrial employer.

Now take the question of the domestic——

Mr. Speaker, I request that the audience in the back of the room may be kept quiet.

The SPEAKER. The House will be in order. The gentlemen in the rear will kindly preserve order.

Mr. J. O. CAMPBELL (continuing). Now, Mr. Speaker, take the case of the domestic. The domestic does not always mean the rich man's employee. Suppose we have a laborer at two dollars per day or a mechanic at three to five dollars per day. His wife does all the housework for him, but in the course of nature that which happens to the majority of young married couples, the wife goes into confinement. She works up to the time that she simply must lay down and she goes to bed. She is unable to look after her household, to look after her children for several weeks. That man is compelled to become a domestic employer. Will he know of this insurance feature? Will the Board be able to notify him that he must come in and take out his insurance? They will not know a thing about that employer. He will not have insurance and if that domestic that he has employed—not very competent likely because he won't have the money to afford a good one—if that domestic turns on the gas and the match goes out and she goes and gets another match and lights the gas escaping and there is an explosion and she is injured, that workman is liable. Or suppose she is lighting a coal fire, and she wants to do it with kerosene oil, that employer is liable. He must pay that domestic because of her carelessness, without any fault of his own, weekly indemnity. If he has got a little property it will be a judgment against the property and can be taken in payment. If he should happen not to be under the act he must stand an action of damages.

Mr. Speaker, I consider this bill about on a par, as to importance, with any bill that has been here this year. I want to say that this bill will affect thousands of people where the child labor bill will affect a hundred. We have had a considerable flood of letters on the Full Crew question. If the people of this State knew of the danger to them in the enactment of this law, the small employer, the domestic employer and the agriculturist, you would have a flood of letters that would make the Full Crew flood look like thirty cents. If they knew the facts of these bills they would be down here in Harrisburg en masse. The Local Option crowd and the Personal Liberty crowd would be small compared with that crowd.

Now, Mr. Speaker, I am here in defense of the small employer of labor, the small merchant, the farmer, the small farmer ;the small merchant who is trying to advance from clerkship to proprietorship, who, in spite of his difficulties, is forging ahead a little at a time. He has financial difficulty ;he has fierce competition ;and yet he must pay accident liability for that employee whom he probably pays about as much money as he makes himself, and sometimes more; and if perchance he is not insured under this act he must continue, after the injury, to pay that employe a weekly indemnity. The employer ought to be protected; he ought to be helped; but is that any reason for saddling it on one man, placing it over on the employer? And I am here in defense of the laborer who would like to become a contractor on a small scale and he makes his first venture; of the carpenter who desires to become a contractor and he starts out on a small scale; of the plumber who would like to become a master plumber. They are all caught in this thing. They are all ruined by this thing—the small fellow.

It may be right and proper for the Attorney of this State, with a salary of $12,000 per year and a lucrative private practice, to carry indemnity insurance for his stenographer. It may be a very different matter for a young fellow just admitted to the bar to carry indemnity insurance on his stenographer. It might be all right for the rich to carry indemnity for his domestic but it is another matter for the poor laborer to carry accident insurance for his domestic. It may be all right for the man of wealth who farms for pleasure to carry accident insurance on his employes, but it is a different matter for the farmer with the rocky farm, making a bare living, to carry accident insurance on his employees. It may be all right for Wanamaker to carry accident insurance on his employees, but it is a different matter for the small corner grocer to carry that accident insurance. Do you know that ninety per cent. of the merchants fail in business, the margin is so close?

I say that even the insurance feature, the amount of which we do not know, would be prohibitive in many cases.

Now, Mr. Speaker, there is an opportunity here for this House to insert an amendment which will not affect the bill; it will not affect the purpose, the justifiable purpose of the compensation scheme, and it will improve the chances of the constitutionality of the farming and domestic exemption, and it will extend that exemption to the small merchant.

I ask for a vote of aye upon the amendment. (applause)

Mr. STERN. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I am opposed to any amendment or to the amendment as suggested by my friend from Butler to the Workmen's Compensation Act as drafted and as it is before this House at this time. In the first place I desire to call the attention of the House to the fact that when my friend states that this Workmen's Compensation Act would affect accidents generally that happen on the street, as when a grocer's wagon would run a boy down and that then the employer would be liable, that my friend is mistaken because the Compensation Act does not take those accidents under consideration. An accident of that kind would be covered by the law as it now exists relating to negligence.

In the second place, I am for the Workmen's Compensation Act as drafted by the Attorney General because, although in the practice of law and having been so for some years in Philadelphia, I feel that in negligence cases the fees of attorneys ought to be regulated and they are regulated in this bill, because up to this time the fees of attorneys in negligence cases have been atrociously high and I believe that no one can argue and nobody can gainsay that fact.

In the next instance, I am opposed to any amendment to the bill at this time because you gentlemen may remember that we had a large public hearing on the bill in this House that was very well attended and that nearly every organization or employer of any kind was represented before that public hearing and not one of them, not one of them I say, came forward with any real substantial objections to the bills as presented before that Committee.

In the next place, I am opposed to this amendment because the Attorney General himself came before the Judiciary General Committee when this bill was before it and answered every single objection of every member of that Committee; and I want to say to you gentlemen of the House, and I do not think I am mistaken when I say it, that this bill comes before you recommended unanimously by the Judiciary General Committee of the House.

And last, gentlemen of the House, let me say this to you: This bill was drafted after careful and exhaustive study by our Attorney General and no man in this State nor any man in this nation stands higher in the eyes of the Court nor the eyes of the public than our Attorney General for legal ability and learning; and when our Attorney General gives his opinion that this bill is constitutional and that this bill has been the result of his careful and exhaustive study, then I say to you, with all due deference to our friend from Butler, that I would rather take the opinion of the Attorney General because he has made a careful study of it; and our State surely, should not be in any way lagging or behind in any progressive, forward movement when other States have followed. We should be in the vanguard and we should be up on all progressive ideas and pass this Workmen's Compensation Act as we have it before us today and I trust we will vote this amendment down.

Mr. HABGOOD. Mr. Speaker, I simply wish to say that the gentleman who just preceded me is mistaken in one thing which he said, and that is that the Attorney General has declared this act constitutional, because we heard the Attorney General at the hearing which was held before the committee in this House, say, and we also saw it reported in the paper, a clipping of which I hold here and quoting his words, which we heard, and are here reported, when he conceded that the Compensation Act might split upon the rock of constitutionality, but he declared that he was willing to face that possibility with composure.

He has not declared this act constitutional, but he is willing to face it with composure. We have heard what the gentleman has said who is asking for this amendment, and we have heard that he has said that it would be unconstitutional. The Attorney General has not said that it is constitutional, but he says he realizes that it may split upon the rock of unconstitutionality. Gentlemen, all there is to this amendment is the small employer, or the employer of a small number of men,—four or five men. The question is to vote to exclude them from the workings of this act, and that is all there is to it, constitutional or unconstitutional, and I think that we should do that as it is done in the other States.

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I am glad that the gentleman from Butler has approached the discussion of this bill in a broad, general way. I think that his method of so considering the amendment, which he has proposed to this House, will eventually serve as a time-saver, because in his advocacy of that amendment he has practically discussed all of the material objections which I have heard in consultation with some of the members of this House, which might be raised to this bill generally.

In view of that fact I ask the indulgence of the House to discuss the amendment not only in particular, but to attempt to answer the reasons which the gentleman from Butler has advanced to this House in support of that amendment. Now, insofar as the constitutionality of this act or any other act which comes before this House for its consideration is concerned, I think that I, as well as any other member of this House, stands in precisely the same position as the Attorney General of this Commonwealth. The Attorney General of this Commonwealth, in discussing the question of the constitutionality of any or all of these measures, stated, if my recollection serves me correctly, that he did not underwrite the constitutionality of any proposed piece of legislation. I take it, sir, that I certainly am in the same position, as well as the other members of this House. But we have this advantage, the advantage of the advice and counsel coming from the man who hae been selected as the Attorney General of this Commonwealth, that in his opinion these bills are constitutional.

We all know the attacks that have been made upon the Constitution. We all know the attacks that have been made time and time again since the adoption of that Constitution, upon measures which have been enacted at the various Legislatures which have met in the Hall of Representatives here. We all realize that at first blush an opinion might be vouchsafed by some individual as to the constitutionality or unconstitutionality of a proposed piece of legislation, but we also realize that the Constitution, and especially the Constitution of the State of Pennsylvania, is as elastic as a rubber band.

We have seen our Supreme Court in this State declare constitutional acts which were advocated by men who stand high in legal learning in this Commonwealth, acts which have been declared by them to be unconstitutional. We have seen the Supreme Court of this Commonwealth declare unconstitutional acts which were backed up by men of legal learning in this Commonwealth as being constitutional, so that the question of the constitutionality of any of these acts, which complete the series known as the Workmen's Compensation Law need give this House little, if any concern. Here are measures which do not go into effect until the first of January, 1916. For a year after that these acts, if passed, the administrative features of these acts will be just getting under way. We need not fear any material hardship upon any employer of labor in this Commonwealth prior to the existence of the coming legislative session of 1917, when if there are any material defects, as shown by experience, they can be corrected at that time.

Now, Mr. Speaker, as I understand the amendment as proposed by the gentleman from Butler, it proposes one thing, and that is this. That it exempts from the provisions of Bill No. 929, and consequently from the provisions of succeeding bills, employers of labor who do not employ more than five men. My friend has said that the advancement along material lines of production and the manufacture of commodities, has necessitated different things or provisions to meet changed conditions, that the tendency of the day is to amalgamate interests, if I understood him right, and that the employer of today is an employer of a vast amount of labor, as compared with the employer of years gone by.

I heartily and entirely agree with him on that proposition. Things which we had accomplished, not only in this Commonwealth, but in every Commonwealth within the boundaries of this Union, have tended toward that result. Money has been invested to improve the methods used in the manufacture of emomodities; money has been invested to improve methods of labor as well as the methods adopted by employers in the furtherance of their designs. That necessarily necessitates the employment of vast numbers of men in one large industry. Yet when we look back over the history of the past, when our manufacturing establishments were operated on a small scale, when our manufacturers and other employers employed few men, there was in existence then, as there is in existence now, in those industries, where few are employed, a greater community of interest than there is in the large establishments.

Where few men are employed and the employer is one of those who works at the bench, and helps along with his employes, it is more or less of a family relationship. The risks of employment are not as great as they are in the larger industries; they have more desire to care for the comforts of those who are engaged together in those small industries; they have less capital invested, they have less responsibilities in the nature of compensation to be paid for services rendered by their employes. There is not the risk which attaches, yet, without the benefit of a compensation law, which would apply to those small employers of labor, one accident for which that employer might be liable under the law, would result, without insurance, without the benefit of the provisions of this act, in entirely wiping out the industry of that small employer. He finds himself precisely in the same position as the man who carries fire insurance upon his house, or upon his establishment. Without that fire insurance, a fire breaking out and destroying that property, places that employer of labor of a small number, up against the financial rocks and he is ruined. Without the benefits of the provisions of this bill, applying to the small employer of labor, he faces just such a condition in the event of an accident happening which might result in the death of one of his few employes, or which might result in serious physical disability or permanent injury to one of his employes, by running the risk of having a court of common pleas, upon the trial of the cause there, say to him, you are responsible for this injury, and the jury awarding a verdict which, in amount, would practically wipe him out of existence.

By coming under the provisions of this bill he forestalls such a possibility. He protects himself in one of the three ways in which the insurance bills which are a part of this series protects him. My friend would argue to you the inability of the small employer of labor to pay an insurance premium in order to get the benefits of the insurance provisions of this bill. That is a matter,—the amount of the premiums—which will be regulated, not because he is one of a number of employers of labor, but will be regulated on the basis of the number of employes which he has in his employ, so that the premiums are along the same line as the premiums which men now pay irrespective of whether they are employers of large numbers of men engaged for labor or whether they employ only a few. They pay a premium which protects them and under these bills it can be done in one of three ways. He can either take the benefit of the bill which provides for the creation of a State Insurance Fund with the premiums fixed either by the Board or as he is doing now: Taking out liability insurance and paying these premiums, or he can do the other by banding together with more than twenty other employers who have a certain specified number of employes in their employ and they can carry their own insurance. Now, is not that a benefit to the small employer? Does not that protect him from a possibility which is always staring him in the face? My friend would also argue to you that in the case of a man who runs a grocery store employing one who drives his wagon and in the course of his duty of delivering goods is struck by a train or trolley and injured, that under the provisions of this bill without the amendment which he offers, that he would be held responsible for damages or compensation to that injured employe. But he forgets the fact that again the employer is protected by the provisions of these measures in that the rights of the employer are subrogated to the rights of the employe as against the party who caused that injury. That the employe so injured has not only his right under the Compensation Bill but he also has his right to bring an action against the party who was responsible for that injury or wrong done him and if he recovers more, or whatever he does recover as a result of that action, that is for the benefit of the employer and offsets the liability which the employer is put to under the provisions of this measure.

Mr. Speaker, we have heard much of the interests of the small employer of labor in these measures. We have heard much in the discussion this morning of the hardships which might entail to them, but I take it, sir, that these objections have been answered on the floor of this House. These bills have been fully discussed; the tentative draft of these bills have been sent broadcast throughout this Commonwealth; they have received the notoriety which comes from newspaper notices in every hamlet of this Commonwealth. They have been purposely left lying dormant in committee until the sentiment of this Commonwealth might chrystallize and that sentiment did chrystallize in the conferences which were held between the Attorney General and those gentlemen representing labor. As a result of these conferences, when this bill came out of committee, it came out with the approval of the employers of labor as well as the approval of the Attorney General. It was a system of give and take and that was done by both sides to this question and now these bills are before this House under consideration on second reading.

I take it, Mr. Speaker, that to include an amendment of this kind and character in this bill at this time cuts the very vitals out of the bill. There is no reason, considering this question from all angles, why the man who is one of a few who worked for the same employer should not have the same benefits as the man who is one of many who works for the larger employer. Now, my friend says again in his argument advocating his amendment, that it deprives them of the common law defenses. Why should not employers of labor in this enlightened age of ours be deprived of the common law defenses which are merely relics of the dark ages. What does the common law defense mean? It means something which has been handed down to us from the remote past. It is judge made law not statutory law and in so far as the discussion of these bills is concerned is of three kinds: The assumption of the risk, which means that when a man becomes employed that he assumes the ordinary risks of his employment. The danger which might come to an employe by reason of the neglect of a fellow employe or the contributory negligence of the workman himself. As has been told you by the Attorney General at the public hearing held by the Committee on Judiciary General on these bills; "Statistics prove beyond the shadow of a doubt that accidents resulting from the assumption of risks form fifty per cent. of the accidents to which the common law defenses heretofore had been applied." Assumption of the risk is something which the employe has no control over at all. He has no right to go to his employer and say: "This is a hazardous engagement; this is a dangerous occupation you are putting me at." He responds, "I want you to do this, that or the other." He cannot tell his employer that he will not do it; his only remedy is to say, "I won't take the job." The same thing applies to the negligence of a fellow employe who is responsible for twenty-five per cent. of the so-called accidents. Should he be responsible for the neglect of a fellow employe? Not at all. We are getting away from that theory in the enactment which the Legislatures of the State in the years gone by have enacted. We see it today in our Factory Law where it provides that the employer must protect his machinery with certain safety devices. Now if he doesn't and an employe is injured irrespective of whether it is an assumption of risk or whether it be due to the carelessness of a fellow employe, he has no voice. Our Supreme Court has repeatedly decided that these defenses fall because the manufacturer or the employer has failed to comply with the statutory duty which is mandatory and that he loses those rights. So that the trend of legislation not only in this Commonwealth but in other commonwealths throughout this country is toward that one end. I say to you Mr. Speaker, that the gentleman advances as a reason for the insertion of this amendment such an argument as that and that it is fallacious. My friend would further becloud the minds of the members of this House by citing instances of those engaged in agricultural pursuits or those engaged in domestic service. They are exempt in one of the bills which forms part of this series. It does not enter into the question of the discussion of this amendment of the discussion of this bill, and I repeat in reply to the objections along this line that I am satisfied with the view taken of these measures by the Attorney General. He has given these bills close study, he has prepared these bills and I will take my chance upon his opinion as to the constitutionality of these measures and I will ask the members of this House to vote down this amendment.

Mr. STEIN. Mr. Speaker, coming as I do from the County of Allegheny, undoubtedly the largest manufacturing center of the State, and representing, as I am authorized to do, the Workmen's Compensation Commission which has for at least four years given this subject very careful and very serious study and attention, I desire to say to my colleagues here in the House today, please vote for the bills as they are now upon the floor. I desire to ask the hearty co-operation of every gentleman in this chamber not to permit any amendment. It is needless to say that the discussion of the bill is perhaps not now in place. Every gentleman here has had at least six or eight weeks time in which to study every detail. We who are lawyers, fully understand the constitutional and legal difficulties that lie in the way. Those of us who are not lawyers can readily see also that there are very difficult problems to be overcome. I cannot safely say to you, gentlemen, that the Commission which for four years has so nobly worked to solve this problem have, in my judgment at least, overcome every possible constitutional question that can be urged. I also say that the opinion of the Attorney General of this Commonwealth and the eminent counsel outside of the Attorney General's office on whose opinions we have all seemed to agree, that these bills are not only constitutional but, in addition to that, they are very wise; they are fair; they represent the best experience of our sister states and they represent the best interests of the manufacturers of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania as well as a large number of working men who desire the protection given by this act. I might also say to you gentlemen that all over this State sentiment is in favor of the bills without amendment. I can also say that a large number of the manufacturers and perhaps the largest employers of labor of this State the steel corporations everywhere, and your manufacturers throughout the western part of the State and the middle part of the State are almost unanimously in favor of the bills without amendment. Without discussing the merits of the bill as a whole, without going into detail; the fact that it comes from the Governor as one of his bills does not, in itself, make it absolutely binding upon me to assist in its passage, but I want to say that the bills in themselves, the merits of the bills, the time that has been given in their preparation, respect for the opinions of the Attorney General and the eminent counsel who prepared it appreciation for the work of the Commission who have labored so nobly and so hard for four years, makes it imperative upon me and I, therefore, ask everyone of my friends in this House to kindly stand by the bills as they are without amendment and let us hope today to be able to bring about the passage of these bills on second reading.

Mr. H. I. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, the matter that is before us is of vital importance It has been my privilege to be here the last two years in various capacities and have had an opportunity to listen to the arguments that have been presented here against bills of this character which were then under consideration. It is admitted by all those who are for and against this bill that, after all, it is an experiment. The Republican party before the last election put into its platform, a plank declaring for a Workmans Compensation Bill, and the Republican party must assume the responsibility of it, and those of us who have been returned here as the representatives of the people, representing that great party in Pennsylvania, are bound to such a bill. But I submit this proposition: that as individuals, not representing any great corporation, not representing any labor union, but here as individuals representing those that may come on the outside of those two classes, we at least, have the right either before the Committee, if you please or upon the floor of this House of fairly and squarely discussing such propositions as are now before us. I know full well that it is the intention to vote down any amendment that may be offered, but I do not want to assume the responsibility of going back to my home without calling attention to one fact. The fact is this, that in that platform we declared for a workman's compensation bill, and containing a statement that the agricultural employer and the domestic employers of this State should be exempted. And it has been said here on the floor of this House that such was to be the case, but I ask every lawyer, and there are forty-six of them in this body, do you believe that those who have formulated this bill think that it will absolutely be declared unconstitutional? When we have presented a constitutional bill to do that which ought to have been done in the body of the bill. It has been said that the farmers and the employers of domestics are to be exempt and when the great Republican party has given its word it should keep it. I want to say to you men as a lawyer, and I do not come from Philadelphia; I want to say as a little lawyer back in the hills, that I am staking my reputation that the Supreme Court of this State will say that the supplementary bill exempting farmers and employers of domestic servants will be declared unconstitutional. The farmers and employers of domestic help in this State have been lulled to sleep by having the assurance of a great party that they will be taken care of. I was here two years ago and saw in this House, the same as I am seeing to-day, every amendment that there was to that bill being put through this House. I want to call attention to the fact that there are 141 new men in this House; that they have not had the opportunity to hear those arguments like the gentlemen from Philadelphia. I want to say to you that it is high time, it is high time, that we let the people know what this does. The act will go into effect January 1st, 1916. The supplementary act in all probability, will be declared unconstitutional, and they believe that, because they follow it up with a proposition to make the Constitution so they can put another measure through that will be constitutional. Now, then, if they want to be fair to the farmers of this State and if they want to be fair to those who employ domestic servants, we ought to extend the time up until this act has been declared constitutional, or until we have an act through permitting us to amend the Constitution so that it will hold.

The farmers will be lulled to sleep and be caught by this act between January 1st, 1916, and the time the Supreme Court has passed on it making it constitutional if you please, or until we, the great state, have authorized such an act to be made.

Now it has been said that the act will not go into working order very soon—it will take six months or such a matter to get it into shape but the responsibility with the employer will date from the day of its going into effect. Now then, the amendment before us will only do that which they promise to do themselves as to taking care of the little employer, and if in two years the underlying principles of your bill are so substantially placed on the rock of common sense and fairness and way beyond the idea of experiment, then come into this legislature and say, you little fellows from way back in the hills, away back in the woods, were wrong and we want you to wipe out that exemption of five. I want to say to you that it is vital to the country people of this State. When this bill was under discussion here before the committee Tuesday, who was there? The learned attorneys for the great corporations of the State, men who command salaries that are beyond mentioning here. Who was here on the other side? Why, the Attorney General and those who are in favor of putting this bill on. Who were considered then? The great employers of labor, and the people who advocated this bill. Backwards and forwards on the different plans they went—a concession here and a concession there—and what has happened? They have agreed. They have agreed? What do they care about the little fellow back in the hills that has been lulled to sleep by the assurance of our great Republican party! And, today, we have the object of the entire, or probably the entire Philadelphia delegation against any amendment to this bill. The leaders of our party must assume the responsibility of it, and I would be negligent to my duty if I did not call attention to the fact, that so far as I am concerned, that I want to make it plain what the effect of this bill is. The Republican party must assume this responsibility and then when they come out into the country districts let them explain it. It does seems to me that the arguments that have been advanced are that the little man should take out insurance and must come to it. It is well known that some of the great leaders in this State, in all parties, believe that every employer of farm and domestic servants ought to come under this act as a matter of right. And there is a good bit of argument in it, but that is not what our party said. Our party said, we will exempt those engaged in agricultural pursuits and we will exempt those who may be domestic servants, and I only ask that you put into this bill something that will do just what you said. You claim that you are doing it. I claim that you are not doing it from the period of time from January 1st, 1916, until this act is declared constitutional. That is coming along as a supplementary act. There are so many things to consider. Remember that the business of this State has had to stand still; remember that you are going to force the people of this State, as near as can be estimated to pay thirty millions of dollars in insurance for the little man in your vicinity. You gentlemen from the country districts are compelled to take out insurance on the little man from your district under the provisions of this bill in order to be protected, as has been so strongly advocated by the gentleman from Philadelphia. They are very solicitous about the people from the rural districts of this State. How much do they know about our districts out there. They who see the great towering buildings down there and represent the great interests; they who have forty-one members on the floor of this House, and they act as a unit on things of this kind; they come in here and sacrifice their individual opinion to be a power in the body. They say to us, no amendment must go into this bill, and how do they say it? They say it by reporting it out of committee without any talk at all until we ask to have the Attorney General come back and explain in a bare half hour a few of those questions we raised, but it was not long enough to analyze that bill section by section. I have no fault to find with the Chairman of this Committee, I have the highest regard for him, he is a man of great ability, a man that can hold his own anywhere, but let me tell you this, he is only carrying out the instructions of another mind, and I want to say to you whether I am transgressing on your time, or whether I am doing it for a far more important purpose, I am committed to this act: I am committed as a representative, and I am going to stand by it. I want to say to you that the insertion of this amendment will not hurt it at all; it will merely exempt those who employ five men or less, and I want to say to you as a countryman, I know not whether I shall come here again, but whoever comes from my county I shall go to him before he comes, and say now they have taken care of the farmer and the employer of domestic servants and I ask you to go in and take care of them. This amendment will take care of the farmer, the employer of domestic servants and the little fellow. It is for the little fellow I plead, because he cannot hire able counsel to come and plead for him. I am from a little town and I know that that town trembles and almost on the brink of failure for every industry there. The great lawyer is here arguing for the larger employer, but the people in the country do not know what is going on at all. We have a large territory to cover to get access to our people and let them know what is going on. The gentlemen from Philadelphia have a very small territory so far as area is concerned. In a week they can let all of their people know what is happening. They can get in touch with their people, but we who are two or three hundred miles away from home can we get back there and get in touch with those who are scattered over a large area? I only ask that the sponsor or somebody protect the promise that was made in the plank of the Republican platform. The gentleman from Butler has very ably discussed this question of constitutionality. He has very ably discussed the question as to the exemptions relative to the anthracite mines which have been declared constitutional and also as to the bituminous mines, and the number of states in this Union that have seen fit to do this and declared it constitutional. Such an amendment as this will be more likely to be declared constitutional than the supplementary act that is coming along. Now God, forbid that I would stand in the road of doing something which is right to the working people in this State. It is not alone for the big men who come here representing employers or employes but the little fellow who has never been heard from. If I am wrong in my assertions I am ready to stand corrected, but I could not afford to allow this opportunity to go by without calling your attention to the fact that of all the things that are before us at this time in the Legislature there is not one of more importance than this, and I ask every man to vote his conscience and if you say that this amendment shall go in for two years, and the gentlemen from Philadelphia will come back at the end of two years having provided for the other promises of their platform I will come back at my own expense and assist them to get it through. In the name of honesty and in the name of justice decide this now, and do not ask us to take something for granted.

Now it is all right to say that no amendments shall be put to this bill because there may be amendments to the bill to tear it to pieces and make it fall. Now I have no sympathy with an act of that kind, not at all. I believe that the bill should go through. I believe that it should go through providing for questions of doubt on the right side, because the employes are taken care of in it, leaving it to him whether he shall take this bill or not. That is the point. He is taken care of. He does not have to come under this bill unless he wants to. Now I say that in all fairness, that if you are going to take away the common law defenses, then you ought to put this in and let the little fellows out who are not prepared to meet losses of that kind.

The gentleman from Philadelphia has called attention to the fact that if a man is engaged in running errands for his master or employer and is injured by the negligence of another man that the rights of the man injured are subrogated to the employer. What does the employer get, the little employer who employes one or two men? He gets a lawsuit on his hands, an uncertain quantity. There is no two ways about that. This thing was jammed through this House just like this, so far as the farmer was concerned, and voted down the last time; but the farming people struck out and they made such a demand on the Republican party that they put in the platform a plank that it would exempt them along the lines of the amendment offered by the member from Bradford County, but it was hooted out of this House, but I don't propose that it shall be hooted out this time without you knowing about it and if you go ahead you know your responsibility. There is no soreness or feeling whatever. I want you to know about it and take it home with you.

Now, this is the only proposition I stand for on this bill—no more tearing it apart; no asking for amendments or inclusion in the body of the bill of the supplemental act of the unconstitutional provision so that if one part of the act be unconstitutional that all be unconstitutional. I merely want to say to you that you people bickering back and forward for four years, coming back on an employment bill of this kind, a compensation bill, shall go ahead and do what you want but leave us out who have not taken part in it.

There are so many things that you could say on this subject that you could go on for days, but I do hope and I stand for just this one thing that if the little fellow of this State is taken care of I will leave it with you.

Mr. FORSTER. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I want to say in the beginning of my remarks that I am for this bill not because it is the Governor's bill, not because it is the Attorney General's bill, not because I am a member of the Philadelphia delegation which the gentleman from Jefferson by innuendo, by his remarks, insinuates is ruled by some supernatural power which goes behind our minds and makes us vote as a unit without any regard to personal understanding or conviction. I am for this bill and all these bills because I believe they are the bills we need. I am for this bill because I come from a district where the poorest people in the greatest city of our Commonwealth live. I come from a district where most of my constituents are day laborers, unskilled laborers, working where they can, when they can and under whatever conditions are thrust upon them by their employers. We have heard a great deal of talk here and a great deal of debate before the committee about the unfairness which gives the employe the right to elect whether he shall take under this act or remain under the old common law, and we have heard it said that it is unfair, that it gives the employe a right which it takes away from the employer. Gentlemen, in my district, my constituents are only too glad to work in order to be given an opportunity to live. They don't have any opportunity to say under what conditions they will work. Not one of them can walk into his employer's office and say "I won't go to work under this compensation act." No; the employer dictates the conditions. It is sophistry to say that the employe in one case out of a hundred is in position to say "I refuse to go under this bill."

Now, gentlemen, I said I was for this bill because I believe it was right. I would be for this bill if the Governor was against it. I believe in the constitutionality of the bill because I believe the greatest legal minds in this Commonwealth have passed upon it. I do not refer alone to the Attorney General whose ability we all recognize. I refer to the attorneys for the commission who have put not a year's study, not a month's study, not two years' study, but four years' study upon this bill. I believe that men who have put that length of time in study upon any measure are in better position to pass upon the legal phase of that measure than I am who in the very nature of the thing, can only give it a most precursory examination; and yet my friend from Jefferson says "I believe it is unconstitutional." He says we have not had the opportunity to study it; that it was jammed through; that it was let out of committee; and yet he does set his judgment up against the men, able lawyers who have studied this for four years. In sitting here and listening to his arguments on this particular amendment I must confess I am at a loss to understand just what his position is. He says the Republican party pledged itself to a Compensation Act which would exempt farm laborers, and in the next breath he says, "put an amendment in this bill to exempt our small employers." In one breath he says, "I do not believe that an act which exempts the farm laborers is constitutional." In the next breath he says, "put a classication in an important act," which we must act upon, "which will exempt another class." Now, gentlemen, what sort of sophistry is that? How in the world are we to treat it? Here is his amendment which will exempt one class of employers and his objection to the separate act which exempts another. How in the world can the one be constitutional in the main body of the act if the other is not? And on the question of constitutionality you gentlemen who are members of the bar, I venture to say are all familiar with the language of the Supreme Court in saying that while the Constitution does prevent legislation for individuals in a class it does not prevent legislation for a class. Now certainly the agriculturists belong to a class which is separate and distinct from the manufacturer. We legislate for the entire class of agriculturists when we pass this bill exempting them from the workings of the bill. The same is true of the employer of the domestic; but when we come to the legislation which says that the manufacturer who employs five men is exempt from the provisions of this act while the manufacturer who employs six men is not exempt from the provisions of this act—I am using those figures as an example—then I say we are clearly getting in the realms of unconstitutionality. But away with that. I am not making a technical argument; I am not arguing before a court and jury; I am not arguing the rules of law. I am ready to take the opinion of the men who say this is constitutional. I am ready to support the pledge of my platform in voting for a bill which does exempt the farmer, which does exempt the householder. I am ready to accept the responsibility which my friend from Jefferson seems disinclined to accept, his words to the contrary notwithstanding, and stand by this bill as it has been presented to us. I can see only the side of the employe. I can see the men as I have seen them coming from my office, whether they were employed by a large corporation or a small individual employing a few men. I have seen them come in with their arm off. I have seen them carried into the homes of my district with their eyes gone as the result of an accident, to their wives and children. Do you think it is any more benefit to that wife and children to say that their employer only employed five men and therefore he should not take care of them? Why should the employer of five men be in better position than the employer of ten men? He has the opportunity to take care of his risks under this act. We must meet this thing squarely. There has never been a progressive movement of any sort introduced in any legislative body of the United States that has not met with all kinds of opposition. Again and again the cry has gone up in these halls that a measure which looks to the general welfare of humanity is unconstitutional; that we must not pass it. I say when I vote on this measure I don't feel that I am voting for an act for but two years. I want to hope and feel that the measure I vote on is being passed for twenty years, aye, for a hundred years possibly; and to say that we are passing a measure of this sort as an experiment for two years,—it is ridiculous. This legislation is past the experimental stage. There are enough states of the Union that have experimented with it, if you want to call it that, and I have not heard of any great cry of hardship from any one employer. This legislation has been tried out. It has been proven. Pennsylvania has not been in the vanguard. She is following only after our more progressive Sisters. But to go back again. I cannot see more than I have actually seen in my own district; men crippled for life, their earning capacity gone. We heard a great cry yesterday about the child wage-earner for the support of his parents. Don't you think, gentlemen, if we would take care of the parent, of the financial responsibility of the parent, as we are attempting to do now, we will solve one of the great questions that was raised yesterday upon the necessity of the child going to work.

Gentlemen I hope you will vote for this bill as it stands. I am not making this as a personal plea; I do not expect to be employed by any one. I do not ever expect to be in the position where I can call upon my employer to take care of me because I have been crippled in an accident in his factory, but I do ask you to take care of the poor people in my district, the people that have no choice, the people that must work, the people who, through ignorance, fall under the conditions where they cannot elect whether they shall work in one way or another. My perspective is not limited by the boundaries of the narrow streets, nor the high spires of the city, that my friend spoke of. I lived in the country for the greater part of my life and am glad of it. If God is willing I hope to live in the country and I hope to die in the country. My perspective is not confined to the city streets. I can see the country and I know the conditions, and know the conditions that men work under in the country. I tell you this, that the city employer is not any harder on his men, he is just as benevolent a man as the country employer is, and I will tell you another thing, that the city employer is not going to be hurt any more than the country, nor a whit less.

Now, gentlemen, just a word in closing. There is one feature here that has not been considered, namely; year after year there are inventions being brought out, which tend to safeguard the employe; year after year the greatest minds of the world are working to protect the employes and incidentally to save the cost of industrial accidents to employers.

Now, gentlemen, the thought I am trying to bring home to you is this: an act of this sort is going to make it more conducive for the employer to use these safeguards, to have them put in his factory and to save the burden of high insurance rates, because that hits his pocketbook, and in the long run there won't be a factory in this broad Commonwealth, there will not be a single place where men are employed, that every measure is not taken to safeguard the working man. The sooner we bring that about and we are taking a long step in that direction, the sooner we are going to bring about an ideal condition,—when there is no longer any strife between employer and employe, but where they work together as men and brothers as they should.

Mr. MAURER. Mr. Speaker, I assure you I shall not consume much of your time in discussing this bill, but since we have heard considerable of attorneys and employers, I feel it my duty as a representative of labor to say something on this very important measure before us. For the benefit of the members who are here for the first time,—the 141—I wish to say that to some of us this is not a new proposition. I was one of the members who introduced a Workmen's Compensation Bill in this House four years ago. There were other bills introduced at that time,—none of them any good my own included. We saw the wisdom at that time of learning something about Workmen's Compensation, and we passed a resolution creating a commission to investigate the subject of Workmen's Compensation, and the Governor appointed the commission. In the meantime I happened to be elected President of the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor, and as that official I met with the Governor's commission, I think, every time it met. When it met in Pittsburgh I was there; when it met in Philadelphia I was there and when it met in Harrisburg I was there. I took considerable interest in the work of the Commission,—an active interest.

Now, I wish to inform you that this Commission was composed of three lawyers, two employers and two workmen, or wage workers and it went to considerable pains to learn something about this question. Mr. Bohlen, secretary of the Commission, made two trips to Europe, to investigate the condition of Workmen's Compensation in Europe. We had the benefit of his knowledge. They drew up a bill,—a tentative draft of one. This bill was sent out broadcast over the State for criticism, for recommendation and for advice. Then they would meet and hold more public hearings. At these public hearings the employers of labor and employers, and their attorneys,—that is the employers' attorneys; railroad employers attorneys, manufacturing and mining interests,—in fact, all interests were represented, to give their views as to what a Workmen's Compensation should be like.

So seven different drafts were drawn up; seven times the bill was changed, and two years ago they made their report to the Governor and the bill came to the Legislature for final action. The Legislature saw fit to take a negative view of the subject at that time, and then we had two years more and the commission went right ahead with its work and drew up the eighth bill and presented it to the Governor. This bill was sent out broadcast over the State, agitation constantly conducted, and now this new administration comes in and the Attorney General, in whom I have full confidence and believe to be one of the ablest attorneys in the State, has renderad his opinion on the present bill.

The present Attorney General had the benefit and took advantage, very sensibly of the work done during the previous four years. He had the advantage of that work and having his own knowledge on the subject, in addition to the work already done, he gave us a still better measure than we had two years ago. Now, my friends, I myself was not so sure that the bill was the past, or that the bill would stand the scrutiny of the courts. I feared perhaps its constitutionality, and representing nearly five hundred thousand men, I felt it my duty to be very sure as to the constitutionality of this bill. I took it before some of the most learned judges of the State and asked for an opinion. I took it before the highest legal authorities in the States. —at least in my mind the highest legal authorities, some of them very well known to all of you, and in each opinion, —these opinions were, of course, private opinions, given to me by friends on the bench,—and not only opinion did I get that would lead me to believe that if the bill passed as it is now before us, it would be declared unconstitutional.

Now, as to the opposition, or the friends of the amendment, I merely wish to say, that if the opposition came from the workers I might not be so much surprised, but to come from the small business men is indeed a surprise to me. This bill, if it passes in its present form, will be a God-send to the small employer. Under the common law at the present time, if a small employer has an accident in his factory, or to any of his employes, it makes him liable under the present law, or becomes liable and there is no telling what kind of a verdict a jury may render,—a verdict that will wipe him clean out of business under the present law.

This act, if passed, will throw that safeguard or protection not only around the small employer, but around all employers of labor. If the small employer is so indifferent as to the provisions of this act, if he refuses to safeguard himself by taking out insurance, surely the rest of us in the State should not be compelled to suffer, due to the indifference of any employer. By taking out an insurance of perhaps two per cent. of his pay-roll it will give the protection, that should an employe of yours become injured, the insurance will cover you just the same as fire insurance does now. Where is there a business man or property holder today so short-sighted as not to take out fire insurance? Why there is none of you here would do that, and this is simply a question of taking out Workmen's Compensation insurance.

Now as to the farmer, I opposed the proposition of exempting the farmer. Personlly I felt that the farm labor was just as much to be considered as the city labor, or shop labor, but the farmers made no appeal to me for this law. Not a single farmer in the State of Pennsylvania asked me to see that he came in under the provisions of this act, and since the farmers do not seem to want it I am quite willing they should not have it, and I am also in position to say that the Farmers' Grange, or any other organization of farmers ever yet told me they were opposed to the act, even if they were included in the act. But there are men in this Hall right now, high officials of the Grange, who told me that they would not officially oppose the act, even though they were included, but if we could have the act so passed as to exclude them, they would prefer that, but they would not jeopardize the interests of all the workers on account of the farmers.

The people who are using the argument that the farmers will suffer are not, as a rule, farmers. Some of them may be farmers, but as a rule they are the kind of farmers who farm the farmers, and not the soil. My friends, the farmers have nothing to fear, even though this act did not exclude them. I have asked insurance people what they thought it would cost the farmers if they came in under the provisions of the act. None of them seemed to know exactly, but the best figure they could give me was this: about one per cent. of the pay-roll. In other words if you farmers have a man that you pay thirty-five dollars a month to, if you want to come under the act, it would mean that you would pay thirty-five cents a month insurance, and then if you had an accident you would be protected. Today if you have an accident you can be sued, and the jury can clean you up and take away your farm. That is the way the law is now and that is where you farmers stand.

The bill today does not include you. You are exempt, and I predict, gentlemen, that two years from now, if this act passes, exempting the farmer, I predict that two years from now the farmers will be here asking this body to include them in the provisions of the Workmen's Compensation Act.

Friends and members of the House, it is peculiar that in every progressive measure that mankind can point to today, those who benefited the most have opposed it most vigorously. There has not been a progressive measure that you can point to in the history of mankind that was not opposed by those that it aimed to help the most. That is true, and I find today the small business man whom this act would safeguard to protect are here opposed to it. I have not heard the farmers oppose it. I don't believe they will. I know they are a whole-souled big-hearted class of men and women whom I know, and they don't want the workers in the mills, in those infernos, to be under the old provision on account of taking out insurance for their people at the rate of thirty-five cents a month. Friends, in conclusion let me say this: we want this bill to go through. For one hundred years we have built up this wonderful State; we have erected this great building; you have wonderful industries in this State, but you have crucified the working classes; you have taken them and killed them in the industries; you have killed him and his loved ones and his wife and children are depending on charity; you have pauperized some of the people who have built up your business; the men who, as a class, have built our great industries in this State. We have suffered the pains and then we are to suffer the poverty with it. It is not right; it is not a fair deal. If we must suffer death, if we must suffer injury, don't compel us to suffer also the whole financial burden. Leave something for the other side the society that profits to pay at least a small part of the expense. In the past we in a great measure have had to pay. I say it is no more than right that society should bear part of this burden. Pennsylvania has approved of it and that is all that this act asks for. It is not as we would like to have it. We wanted sixty-six and two-thirds per cent.; the manufacturers and employers are willing to accept fifty and we went down to that. We didn't ask anything unreasonable. We submitted this matter session after session because we wanted something. We are not asking too much now but we want you to pass this bill as it came from the Attorney General and as it has been introduced. Don't allow them to cripple and destroy it. I hope you will vote the amendment down.

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, It was not my intention to speak the second time upon this bill but it has been made imperative by some of the remarks made by the gentleman from Jefferson He has argued strenuously on behalf of the small employer of labor. The theory of legislation, as I understand it, is to enact laws giving the greatest benefit to the greatest number. Not one word was said by the gentleman from Jefferson on behalf of the five employes that would be thrown out of the provisions of this measure if this amendment is adopted. He has argued in behalf of the employer neglectful or unmindful of the fact that the insertion of this amendment in the bill deprives these five employes of any of the benefits of this measure. That is so self-evident that I think it needs no further discussion on the floor of this House. One other thought was injected into the minds of the members of this House by the gentleman from Jefferson and that is an intimation and an insinuation that there was not fair play in dealing with this bill by the committee on Judiciary General, of which I have the honor to be chairman. I wish, in reply to my friend and to the members of this House, to say that no bill received greater consideration than these measures now before us. A public hearing was held before that committee and representatives of the opponents of the bill as well as representatives of those in favor of it appeared before that Committee. A meeting of the Judiciary General Committee was called and the bill was discussed in that committee. It perhaps is unfortunate, from the standpoint of the gentleman from Jefferson, that he did not attend that meeting. But notwithstanding that, after this bill was reported out from that committee in order to comply with the wishes expressed by the gentleman from Jefferson, another meeting was called for the Judiciary General Committee, to which the gentleman from Jefferson with the other members of the Committee, was invited and asked to be present so that objection which he might have to this bill could be discussed, not only in the presence of the committee but in the presence of the Attorney General to see whether or not some agreement could be reached along the lines of his objections. These very same objections were raised there, and I have before me now an amendment which I, as sponser of this bill, proposed to offer when a certain section is reached, in conformity with the view of the gentleman from Jefferson, which was conceded to him at that committee meeting, placing judgments in the same category as mortgages so that claims under this bill shall not have priority over them. Is it fair for the gentleman from Jefferson to state before this House that there has been undue haste when it has been before the members of this House for practically six weeks. One other thought is expressed by the gentleman from Jefferson, that I, as chairman of that committee, was not following the dictates of my own mind but that I was carrying, or attempting to carry, into effect the thought of some other mind. I say to the gentleman from Jefferson and to the other members of this House, that insofar as my legislative duties on the floor of this House are concerned that I am the second edition of no man, be he politician, political leader, or man holding high position, the highest within the gift of the people of this Commonwealth. If I were to treat this bill from a purely personal standpoint and a standpoint of personal interest, I would be against it; I would be against any workmen's compensation bill which might be introduced in a session of the Legislature of which I was a member. If I may be pardoned a personal reference, I desire to state: In the profession which I follow the office which I have the honor to be the head, is one of four offices in Philadelphia that control the accident business of that city. The passage of this bill means money out of my pocket. Personally, it takes away from my office a great deal of the business which that office up to date has had the pleasure and profit of having. But I stand on a higher plane here today in advocating this bill, and in asking you gentlemen to vote "No" on this amendment I stand for this bill because irrespective of personal interest, irrespective of the narrow conception of the question which is involved here, I believe that it is right, that it is just and that it is something that the people of this Commonwealth have promised, through their political parties to give to the people, and I stand for it in all honor at the dictates of my own conscience the same as I propose to stand for or against any other measure which may come before this legislative body.

Mr. CROMER. Mr. Speaker, I feel that it is my duty to say just a word or two upon this proposed legislation. I have the honor of being one of the representatives from the great county of Allegheny; sometimes called the State of Allegheny. I have taken this matter up with the employers of labor in my district. I have even gone so far as to procure copies of this enactment and sending them to my constituents who are large employers of labor and stating to them that if there is any measure in the Workmen's Compensation Act or any clause that seems too drastic to advise me and I would do all in my power to have the same corrected. I believe that the employer of labor should have the same right as the man who is the employe. It seems to me that labor and capital have got together in these things in the enactment that does, as the gentleman from Philadelphia has said, work to the best interests of all concerned. We are surely in favor of the measure that does the greatest amount of good to the greatest number. Therefore, I say that if those great captains of industry in my district are entirely satisfied with the Workmen's Compensation Act, as it has come before us, I feel that it is my duty to support the administration. I want to call your attention to another matter that has been mentioned by at least two of the speakers preceding me. You will find if you will turn to the supplementary act, No. 934, that the farmer and domestic servant is exempt from this Act. I will tell you why: Not merely because we go to the farmer for our daily bread, but this is a fact because we must do it.

The employes on the farm are considered members of the family and are taken care of. If a man is employed by a farmer and is injured in any way he is taken care of, medical services procured for him and he is considered a member of the family the same as a domestic servant. I think that is the main reason why they were exempted from this act.

Mr. SONES. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I do not think that the majority of this House is antagonistic to the administration, the Governor or this measure. I, for one, am not. I am in harmony with the spirit and intent of this act as a whole, but I do favor the amendment proposed by the gentleman from Butler, Mr. Campbell. I think it is a splendid amendment. If we go back in the history of legislation along this line, we will find that the doctrine of fellow servant as to big industrial establishments is obsolete. Every lawyer and every other person in this House knows that. When the first decisions were handed down by the court probably one hundred or more years ago the doctrine of fellow servant was all right, but in this great age of industrial activity it is no longer good. But let us see as to the status of the small employer and the employe. The status is the same to-day as it was perhaps a century ago. They worked side by side. It is not so in the big industrial establishments. There the employer is far removed from the employe and the fellow employes are perhaps greatly isolated, so that the doctrine is obsolete, but as to the small employer and employe the status is the same as it was. I take it as such. Now this amendment. This amendment will exempt employers who employ less than five and justly so, and thus not affect the spirit and intent of this act. Now, I take it that in all matters we must compromise. The national Constitution, the State constitution and the constitutions of the various states have become such by reason of compromise. We must give, and we must take and I take it that it will be well for us in this matter to acede to this amendment. It will not destroy, as I indicated before, the value and the spirit and intent of this measure as a whole. As to the constitutionality I will not set myself in opposition to the learned gentleman from Philadelphia or the Attorney General,—far from it but the Attorney General is in doubt himself as to the constitutionality of a portion of the act. The mere fact that he has introduced a separate bill shows that. Now then if we can agree to this amendment, in case the Supreme Court knocks out that supplementary bill, we still protect the farmer and the small employer and the domestic. Now, Mr. Campbell has told us that the mining act—the Anthracite Mine Act and the Bituminous Act—exempt for less than ten and the Supreme Court has upheld that by their ruling, and that is a safe precedent. I take it, gentlemen of the House, that if this amendment would come up before the Courts that the Courts would sustain the amendment and, therefore, Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I am heartily in favor of this amendment, and I believe that this amendment will cure a defect in this present measure that will be acceptable to the people throughout the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House after listening to these bursts of oratory on both sides of this question I believe that a few humble remarks from one of the representatives representing one of the agricultural districts of this State will have little weight either way, but I do want to call the attention of the members of this House to a few things as I see them. It seems to be unanimous on the part of the members of this House that the farmer is not exempt as the bill stands. We agree that there is a supplementary clause attached to the bill, but it seems to be the opinion of these learned men here that that will not be constitutional. When I came here to represent my county I came here pledged to union labor in our country to support a workmans compensation act. I also came here pledged to the farmers of my county and pledged by the Republican platform of this State to support a compensation act that would exempt the farmer. Now, unless this amendment is submitted here, unless there is that relief given to the farmer, I will be compelled to vote against the measure when it comes up for final passage. I want to call the attention of this House to what our friend from Philadelphia said a few short weeks ago when the question of woman suffrage was before this House. It was a well-known fact that the majority of this House personally were opposed to woman suffrage, but the gentleman from Philadelphia with all his eloquence plead with the members of this House to support it because it was in the Republican platform. Now he comes back to us in the same session of the Legislature and asks us to repudiate that platform and not exempt the farmer from the compensation act. I say "O consistency, thou art a jewel." I want to say further than that, that the Governor of this State in his campaigning tour through our district told our farmers that he would support a workmans compensation act that would exempt them and as I understand this is his bill, he should not object to have this amendment offered to make it sure that the farmers are exempt. Yesterday he brought from five to ten thousand people here to Harrisburg to carry out his own personal platform and he asks the members of this Legislature to-day to repudiate the Republican platform, and I say again, "O consistency, thou art a jewel." I want to say in regard to the gentleman from Allegheny in saying that "the farmer should not be exempt, that he is well taken care of, that the men he hires become as one of his family." If you gentlemen remember that what he said when the headlight bill was up here, you can clearly see that he is not a friend of the farmer. I want to say further with regard to my friend from Berks County who is here in the interest of Union labor. Union labor by this Legislature has received great consideration and I personally want to do everything I can to help them, but I do not want a man here to represent labor who is so narrow as not to help the farmer, and I want to say further that it is my own personal opinion that if there were a bill before this House requiring every farmer to divide his farm into an equal number of parts and divide them among his neighbors that the gentleman from Berks would support that, and I say it in all fairness. I appeal to the members of this House. I intend to carry put my pledge to the people, both to the working man and the agriculturist and to stand by the principles of the Republican platform on which I stood, and on which I stand, and vote for this amendment, and make it possible to carry out my pledges to the people.

Mr. RICH. Mr. Speaker, I wish to stand and speak a few words in favor of the employe and for a principle. We have before us what is called a labor compensation bill and I wish to state my position on this bill. I am heartily in favor of a labor compensation bill. I believe that there is an unearned increment in labor that belongs to labor and to the employes. I believe this principle is acknowledged by the advocates of this bill. Now if this is correct and we are instituting this bill to carry put that principle that there belongs to labor a compensaton that he does not get in his wage if perchance accident or injury befalls him; that we recognize this as a principle and that is the reason why this bill is instituted. We believe that all labor should be compensated. I believe Mr. Speaker, that there should be no exemption. I believe that the man who works for the farmer, the woman who works in the domestic household and the man who works in the mill are all entitled to this compensation. And when we call this a labor compensation bill and do not include all labor, it is a misnomer. It is only a compensation for certain labor and should be so entitled. Now, Mr. Speaker, I am sorry to believe it, but I am compelled to believe that this measure is brought before the House because of the influence and power of labor unions, and I want to say here that it is to their credit and if they never do anything else, it is worth while for their organization and their existence that they have brought about this condition in which labor is to be recognized, and that the unearned part in their labor is to be given to them through this compensation act, but I do not give any credit to those cravens and cowards who will institute this in their platform because they are forced to by labor unions, and then try to put it up and take in only part of labor just so far as it will be influenced and controlled by labor union. I believe, Mr. Speaker, that all labor should be compensated; that the man who is hurt on the farm, the man who is hurt by a threshing machine or a mower is just in as much need as the man who is hurt in the mill or textile establishment. I believe, Mr. Speaker, that he is in just as much need and his family are in just as much need, that, when we institute a bill of this kind and if the principle is correct, labor should be compensated. Then why only go half way.

Why are the farm employees and the domestic employees exempted? We have heard speeches made in defense of the small employer and of the farmer. I have gone over my county when I was a candidate and I left it be understood that I was—

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Clinton.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Clinton permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. RICH. Certainly, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman how many people he employs in his manufacturing establishment?

Mr RICH. We employ about one hundred and thirty, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. MILLIRON. Thank you.

Mr. RICH. (continuing) Now, Mr. Speaker, there is a mean insinuation in that question. I want to say this in defense of my stand on this matter: Yesterday we had the Child Labor Law. I voted for the Child Labor Law and without any amendments. I stood for the Child Labor Law, although the men from Delaware and Lancaster and Allegheny stood up here and tried to defend the textile industry while the people from the textile City of Philadelphia and myself stood up here to defend the child and not defend the manufacturer. And here is another inconsistency in this matter. I believed that this bill should be for the compensaton of labor, all labor—no exemptions. It is the labor that this bill is intended to defend and why not defend them? If the farmer is not able to compensate his labor, if he is not able to take out insurance and pay the premium for the defense of his employee, give him an employee. If the home is not able to employ a domestic, give them a domestic. Let them have one domestic employee. Let the farmer have one employee; and let the State pay for these; and let those farmers who are wealthy, those retired merchants who are farming and all those who are capable and have large farms and employ labor, let them, when they need more than one laborer, let them pay for it. Let them take out the insurance, which is a very small amount and will injure none of them. And I would have the State insure all registered nurses so that the homes of laborers should have nurses attention without coming under this liability. I would defend them; but, Mr. Speaker, I want to defend the labor. I want this compensation bill to be a bill that will take in all labor, and on that ground I speak for labor and I will not consent to any amendment that will debar any labor; but I shall vote for this bill because it is the best presented to us. I shall vote for it because it goes part way, but it is imperfect and I am sorry. I want to make an excuse to my constituents for voting as I do because there is nothing better offered us and I shall stand for the bill as presented.

Mr. LIPSCHUTZ. Mr. Speaker, I move the previous question.

The motion was seconded by the following members:

Messrs. Aron, Brumbaugh, Drinkhouse, Gans, Garner, Hackett, Landis, Lanius, McArdle, McNichol, Mellot, Myers, Neville, Oaks, Phillips, Schaeffer, Adam C., Shoop, Sinclair, Smith, Jacob W., Smith Jefferson W., Thomas, Weir, Wobensmith and others.

The SPEAKER. More than twenty members having joined in moving the previous question,

On the question,

Shall the main question be put?

The SPEAKER declared the ayes appeared to have it.

Whereupon, a divisoon was called for, 81 voting in the affirmative and 70 in the negative.

And the question was determined in the affirmative.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments offered by the gentleman from Butler, Mr. Theodore Campbell?

Mr. GIBSON. Mr. Speaker, I would ask for the second reading of the amendment.

The Clerk then read the amendment as follows:

Amend article 1 by adding the following to be marked and known as section 108: "Section 108. The provisions of this act shall not apply to any employer other than a municipality, township or other governmental agency who employs less than five employes, in any one period of twenty-four hours.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. W. H. Wilson and Mr. Theodore Campbell and were as follows:

RESOLUTION RECALLING HOUSE BILL NO. 410 FROM THE GOVERNOR.

Mr. HENRY I. WILSON asked and obtained unanimous consent to offer a resolution at this time, which was read as follows:

In the House of Representatives, April 7, 1915.

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That House Bill No. 410, entitled "A Joint Resolution authorizing the printing and binding of the report of the commission to consider the revision and amendment of the penal laws of Pennsylvania," be recalled from the Governor for the purpose of amendment.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the resolution?

Mr. HENRY I. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, this is a resolution to recall a bill from tthe Governor for the purpose of amendment. The time is very short and this has just been handed to me.

On the question recurring.

Will the House agree to the resolution?

It was agreed to.

RESOLUTION CONCURRED IN BY SENATE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced informed that the Senate has concurred in the Resolution from the House of Representatives as follows, viz:

In the House of Representatives.

Resolved (if the Senate concur) that House Bill No. 410, entitled, A Joint Resolution authorizing the printing and binding of the report of the Commission to consider the Revision and Amendment of the Penal Laws of Pennsylvania be recalled from the Governor for the purpose of amendment.

PETITION.

Mr. BARNETT. Mr. Speaker, I hold in my hand a petition by a large number of citizens of York County praying for the establishment of a new State road extending through a populous district from Red Lion to the Susquehanna River. I present also a letter, accompanying the petition, which I desire to have put on record as a part of my remarks. I also present a series of resolutions adopted by the Threshermen's Association of York County, praying for the repeal of a law passed several years ago or a relief from the same that has been found oppressive to threshermen and to owners of traction engines.

LETTER WITH PETITION FOR A NEW STATE ROAD FROM RED LION TO WRIGHTSVILLE.

Red Lion, Pa., April 2, 1915.

Hon. S. J. Barnett,
Delta, Pa.

Dear Sir:

I am sending you under separate cover by this mail six (6) petitions, signed by three hundred and eighty-eight (388) Petitioners, requesting that you act for them in placing the matter before the General Assembly, asking to pass an Act granting the following:

To establish as a State Highway a certain section of a public Road beginning at Red Lion Borough, York County, Pa., at or near a point on State Road, Route No. 216; thence eastward by way of Windsor Borough, Bittersville, Martinsville, Craleyville and Long Level, through the ownships of Windsor and Lower Windsor, to connect with the Wrightsville and Chanceford Turnpike; thence over said Wrightsville and Chanceford Turnpike to the Borough of Wrightsville, York Co., Pa., at or near a point on said Route No. 128.

We are also sending you herewith a rough pen sketch of the proposed Road, showing the Villages and Boroughs on same, together with the distance between each Town or Borough, which we think will show a distance from Red Lion to the Susquehanna River of Eight and four-tenths miles, the present turnpike from Long Level to Wrightsville is five miles in length, and making a total of thirteen and four-tenths miles.

The present road is extensively used and many of the Petitioners believe no other road is used more in this section of York County, and taking into consideration the vast number of people who would be benefited by a new State Road, we believe, would be an important matter for the consideration of the granting of same.

The benefit would really start at the City of York; thence along the present Turnpike and State Road to Dallastown, which Borough has a population of about 2500 to 3000; thence through Red Lion Borough with a population slightly above this amount; thence through Windsor Borough having an estimated population of about 1200; thence through Bittersville with an estimated population of about 200; thence through Martinsville with an estimated population of about 50; thence through Craleyville with an estimated population of about 400, and Long Level with an estimated population of about 200. The Borough of Wrightsville having a population similar to Red Lion.

To this we have estimated that an additional population of at least 5,000 people, residing within three-fourth mile of this road, which would take in the Borough of Yoe, together with several other small settlements, including the Farmers in the Rural Districts adjoining.

We feel quite sure that were it necessary we could, within one week secure thousands of names to a similar petition to the one sent you, but we feel that the business men who have joined in the present petition would be sufficient until we may hear from you further in this regard.

Trusting that you will give this matter your earnest consideration, and should any other information be desired we would be only too glad to furnish same for you upon request.

J. B. Ness,
J. Porter Wallace,
R. E. Glenn,
Committee.

RESOLUTION NO. 15.

Mr. ROTHENBERGER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up resolution No. 15.

The SPEAKER. The resolution will be read by the Clerk for the information of the House.

The resolution was read as follows:

Whereas The Appropriation Committee of this House have expended a great deal of time and a great deal of money visiting the various institutions applying for State aid and

Whereas This House is unaware of the amount expended by the Appropriation Committee for these various visits and

Whereas In view of the uselessness of these visits because the work of the Committee duplicates the work already done and well done by the State Board of Public Charities the people of Pennsylvania should know how much of their money is being wasted therefore

Be it resolved by the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania That it is the sense of this House that the Appropriation Committee of this House render to this House an itemized statement of all the expenditures made by the Committee to the first of April of this session and the said committee is hereby directed so to do Said statement shall contain in addition to the itemized details full and detailed reasons for the expenditures made by the Committee and shall also contain a recital of the number of days that have been spent by the members in making these various visits during which days the House has been in session

On the question,

Will the House agree to the resolution?

Mr. STEEDLE. Mr. Speaker, I move that this resolution be referreed to the Committee on Appropriations.

Mr. LIPSCHULTZ. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. ROTHENBERGER. Mr. Speaker, I had a resolution in before in the beginning of the Session, stopping the Appropriation Committee from making these vists. Now if you will look in your calendar you will see that in the next session they will appropriate one hundred and twelve thousand dollars to public charities. They go around and visit all these institutions. Now why shall we spend the money and again spend it the second time going around without this House knowing what is done. I demand a roll call before putting this resolution in the Appropriation Committee.

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, this is a resolution along the lines of public criticism that has been going on in the State of Pennsylvania for a number of years. I feel that having been on the Committee on Appropriations that I am in a position to explain to the House what are the necessities of this visiting of institutions. It is true that the State Board of Charities examine closely into these institution and makes careful report on these different institutions. From these reports we get suggestions as to what would be wise for us to do in making the appropriation. As to the physical condition of all these different institutions, as to the management of these institutions by visiting them and being able to make to the House a report as the result of an occular or personal observation is a matter that to my mind is of the greatest importance. I believe if the public only understood the benefits that come to the State for this small expenditure of money to allow the different members of these appropriations committees to go out and see for themselves and come back and speak intelligently when any question on the proposition of management of these institutions is raised, housekeeping and business management or what we would call the atmosphere of the institution is of just as much vital importance for the members to know as anything else. Now it has been said that these are junketing trips. I want to say that after having had a place on this "Appropriation Committee" that I absolutely refused to serve another year. These are onerous and not junketing trips I do not believe that there is a member in this House who has had personal experience in this work who would not be willing to rise and stand by my suggestion. There is no need at all for any investigation on the resolution in my opinion, and it ought to go where it has been suggested in the motion.

On the question recurring.

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE.

Mr. CROMER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. CROMER. Mr. Speaker, there is a certain gentleman of the House who I will not identify at this time because he has rendered me a signal service since the morning session and has squared himself with me personally; however I do not want the House to be under a wrong impression. I never have and never will be opposed to the best interests of the agriculturists and farmers. I have always been for the farmer and for the best interests of men engaged in industries of that sort, whether raising general crops, small fruit or stock. The other day on the Vehicle Law Bill I supported that bill because I thought it was for the best interest of the farmers and I was so advised by a number of farmers. They determined the law was for their own interest and I was supported by several of the daily papers in the position I took at that time, and I still claim I was right in taking the position I took for the best interests of the farming element, if the bill had passed. I surely would not want to go on record as opposed to anything of that kind. I am in hearty accord and wish to do anything for the best interests of those engaged in agricultural pursuits.

Mr. MILLIRON. Mr. Speaker, on behalf of the farmers of Armstrong County, I accept the gentleman's apology.

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. KUHN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the sponsor of this bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Luzerne Mr. Powell, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. POWELL. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. KUHN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to have the gentleman explain this bill fully.

Mr. POWELL. Mr. Speaker, the purpose of this bill is this: up in the coal fields where I come from, when a man is down and out, after receiving what we call miner's asthma, we try to give him a livelihood by giving him a position on the highways. He works for the boroughs and when his time is up and he goes to receive his pay, he is either paid by a warrant, or by an order on the borough treasurer. He immediately goes to the bank and is informed that there are no funds. This condition exists sometimes for a period of over three or four months, that this man is compelled to carry either the warrant or order without receiving his due compensation. The purpose of this bill is to make the people who employ these men to assure them of their pay, by paying them either in cash or by check. Gentlemen, to my mind this is a very meritorious bill and I ask the House to pass it.

Mr. KUHN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to further interrogate the gentleman.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. POWELL. Certainly, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. KUHN. Mr. Speaker, does this amendment do away with that part of the bill wherein ten and twenty per cent. are added?

Mr. POWELL. Yes, sir.

Mr. KUHN. Mr Speaker, then I will support the bill.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 817 (Senate Bill No. 105), entitled:

An Act to avoid delay in the administration of justice by fixing a time within which decisions in certain questions and matters shall be rendered by judges and requiring certain certificates from judges before their salaries shall be paid

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. NISSLEY. Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House, I am constrained to ask you not to pass this bill for the reason that it is likely to work a very great hardship on the court of our county, that is Dauphin county. You all know what a great volume of business comes before this Court and you know that many questions come before the Dauphin county court that are entirely new and it requires a great deal of research and examination on the part of our courts. I assure you that the Judges of the Dauphin county courts are as hard worked as any judges in the State and I will be very much disappointed if this bill will pass because I feel it would work a hardship on the Judges. There is no reason that I can see why this bill should pass requiring the Judge of the courts within nine months to hand down a decision in a case. There are often times throughout the year that for a period of almost three months every day our Judges must listen to cases and sit and hear arguments, and it is absolutely impossible for them in some cases especially in important cases to hand down their decisions within a specified time as is set forth in this bill. I have not asked much of you this session because I am a young member and I do not want to feel that I am putting myself forward, but I feel that in justice to the courts of Dauphin county that I should ask you not to pass this bill.

Mr. STERN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Nissley.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Dauphin permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. NISSLEY. Certainly, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. STERN. This bill provides that a Judge shall render his decision within nine months after a case is heard. I would like to have the gentleman state how long a Judge should have to make his decision.

Mr. NISSLEY. Mr. Speaker, that depends altogether on circumstances. I could not answer that. Some of the cases that are raised in the Dauphin county courts require a great deal of research. Many of the cases have no precedents, and the courts have to read a large amount of testimony sometimes thousands of pages, especially these state cases, and I think it would be a very great hardship on the courts of Dauphin county if this bill were to pass.

Mr. WALTER. Mr. Speaker this bill ought not to be passed because of the inconvenience of the Judges of Dauphin county or of any other county of the State, but it does seem to me that it is not proper for the representative branch of the government of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to interfere with the judicial branch of government. We each have our recognized sphere. It seems to me that because there are some slack and careless Judges in the State of Pennsylvania just as there are some other officials who are careless that we ought not to attempt to remedy these evils by legislation. There is another thing about this bill. Everybody knows that the Judge always gives the lawyers time to submit briefs; does this bill require that he shall decide before the briefs are submitted? Shall he not have the advantage of such light as counsel can give him by argument? It seems to me Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House that this is something that the Legislature of Pennsylvania ought not to interfere with and that the Judges should conduct their business without directions from us.

Mr. STEIN. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen, it seems to me that we who practice in the courts might have some slight interest in the result of this bill. And a word from the member of the Bar may not be amiss upon the bill now under consideration. As has so well been said by my colleague from Franklin we ought not to interfere with, ought not to hasten and we ought not to hinder the operation of a Judge in the performance of his office and in connection with his duty. I do not know and I dare say there is not a lawyer in the House that knows of a single case in the Commonwealth that is being delayed for any but good logical and legal reasons. There are some cases of vast importance, perhaps very few that cannot be decided as readily as litigants desire, or as lawyers would like to have them decided, but we all know that the average Judge having no interest in the case, having no interests to serve except justice between the parties would not delay any man's case for any ulterior motive. Why, then, shall we say to the Judges of the Commonwealh, if you do not decide your cases within a certain time, you will not get your salary. I trust that every gentleman of this House will vote down this bill as being unfair to the judicial branch of the government.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, a few weeks ago in response to a strong appeal, made by the gentleman from Dauphin, my good friend, Mr. Nissley, this House passed a bill creating an additional Judge for this county. The thought back of that bill as put forth in the argument by Mr. Nissley was to relieve the congested conditions in Dauphin county. I assume that bill will become a law, and I hope my friend here will be named for the office, and if he is, the congested condition should be relieved to the extent that his opposition should cease to this bill.

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I would like some member of this House to rise and tell me before I vote for this bill whether the judges of this State are not trying to dispose of their cases as fast as practicable and wise. There is no evidence here that such is not the case and for us to undertake to say when a man must perform a certain duty and know nothing about the requirements of that official position appears to me to be folly. I have a much better opinion of the judges of the State of Pennsylvania than to believe that it needs legislation to fix the time at which they shall make their findings on all matters that may be in their hands. There are so many elements that enter into the question of when a case can finally be disposed of in the court that if this legislature, in the absence of any information on the subject, was to express itself it would appear, at least to the judges of our State and lawyers, to be foolishness. I do not think the House should do it. It certainly would be a mistake to pass this bill and I hope the House will defeat it.

Mr. BEYER. Mr. Speaker, I am exceedingly surprised that this bill ever came through the Judiciary General Committee of the Senate, this being a Senate Bill now before us. It is a good bill for taking out an injunction and trying to make a ball player play ball and a singer sing that would not sing. To start with, the bill provides here that the decision must be rendered within nine months of the time of the submission of this case. It may be a question of argument or it may be handled by briefs. The act can be made entirely useless for the simple reason that if the judge wants to prolong the time of rendering his decision all he has to do is to send for the lawyers and order a reargument of the case within a few days before the time that the nine months have elapsed and he can then hold it up for another nine months. It seems to me the less we interfere with the judicial department of our government, which is a department which should be as far as possible separate and apart from any legislative interference, the better it will be for good government and good law in Pennsylvania. There has been entirely too much trifling and entirely too much unjust criticism from the people upon the actions of our courts and I think that by voting aye on this bill we would simply add further reflection upon the integrity of the men who, as constitutional officers, are there to perform their duty as they see fit and with the intelligence that they have, just as much as we do here.

BILL DROPPED FROM CALENDAR.

Mr. NISSLEY. Mr. Speaker, I move you that this bill be dropped from the calendar.

Mr. FORSTER. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion

The motion was agreed to.
